New Cancer Test Is Studied At U of M

by Joshua Schneck
U of M News Service

Large intestinal cancer, one of the major killers in the United States, will be the subject of a University of Minnesota study in which 80,000 persons will participate.

Dr. Victor Gilbertsen, head of the university's cancer detection center, will study the effectiveness of testing for blood in stools as a widespread method of detecting large intestinal cancer. Supported by an initial National Cancer institute grant of $300,000, the study is expected to take 10 years and eventually involve $5 million in National Cancer institute funding. Participants will be provided by the Minnesota division of the American Cancer society.

Gilbertsen said the 100,000 new cases of large intestinal cancer in the United States each year make it one of the major killers. Death occurs in 90 per cent of the cases, he said.

"Most of the patients who have this disease are already incurable when they see the doctor about it," Gilbertsen said.

Symptoms usually occur only after the disease has progressed to an advanced stage, where treatment is no longer effective, Gilbertsen said. However, he said, it might be possible to detect large intestinal cancer at an early and curable stage by testing for blood in the stools.

Termed "occult blood," or blood not visible to the naked eye, its presence in the stools could occur very soon after the onset of large intestinal cancer, Gilbertsen said. If this is the case, widespread testing of the high-risk group of persons 50 years old and older might prove effective in detecting large intestinal cancer while corrective surgery or other treatment could save the patient's life, he said.

Blood in stools does not necessarily mean cancer. "The majority of blood-in-the-stool cases are not associated with intestinal cancer", Gilbertsen said. But the presence of blood would indicate the need for a full physical examination to determine the cause, he added.

At the present time, examination of the lower large intestine—a procedure called a proctosigmoidoscopy—is effective in detecting cancer only in that portion of the large intestine, Gilbertsen said. The procto is not effective in detecting cancer in the upper part of the large intestine. Testing for occult blood in the stools might fill this detection gap, he said.

The testing for occult blood will be accomplished by having the study participants mail in very small stool samples in special matchbook-size packages, Gilbertsen said. If the occult blood test proves to be an effective detection method, large numbers of people could be tested in an inexpensive and convenient manner, he said.

"The merit would be that this would eliminate the necessity of a complete physical for detection of large intestinal cancer," he said.

Gilbertsen stressed that complete physicals would still be necessary for prevention of cancer and other diseases. But the occult blood test, if successful, might offer the means to cut down on the very high mortality rate of large intestinal cancer he said.

In the planned study, the 30,000-person test group will be divided into three subgroups. One group will be tested annually and another group twice annually. A third group will not be tested and will serve as the control group.

The Minnesota division of the American Cancer society is already operating a cancer prevention study with 55,000 persons, Gilbertsen said. The 30,000 persons for the new study will be taken from this group. Participants in the cancer prevention study are in the high-risk over-50 group, he said.

Gilbertsen will ask participants questions related to diet and other factors that could play a role in causing large intestinal cancer. There is a relatively high incidence of such cancer in the developed nations of Europe and North America.

A possible cause of large intestinal cancer is the large proportion of highly processed foods consumed in the developed nations, Gilbertsen said.

Highly processed foods such as white bread remain in the intestinal tract longer than coarser foods, with some cancer-causing effect possibly occuring, he added.

The resolving power of the human eye is 0.0003 of a radian. That means it's possible to see, from a distance of 10 inches, an object as small as 4 thousandths of an inch!

The largest eye of any living creature belongs to the giant squid. It may exceed 15 inches in diameter.

The human eye isn't always at its best. Eyes are frequently red and irritated by dust, smoke, or hay fever, and sometimes affected by glaucoma. Fortunately, an easy-to-use eye spray mist, called Mistura, has been created by Lederle. It eliminates the problem of using eye drops and comes in five types of medications to help solve all those problems.

Under the best possible conditions, the unaided human eye can distinguish 10 million different color surfaces. The most accurate photoelectric spectrophotometers, on the other hand, possess a precision probably only 40 percent as good.

We Can Hunt Ducks

While Minnesota hunters were patiently waiting for announcement of the waterfowl regulations which would be in effect for the 1975 fall season, there were forces actively at work to prevent the holding of any waterfowl season at all. And those of us who live for the fall hunting season can be assured that efforts to close seasons will be expanded and intensified.

In October of 1974 a suit was filed in New Jersey by several groups—including the Humane Society of the United States (New Jersey branch), the Fund for Animals, Inc., and a couple of others—seeking to terminate waterfowl hunting nationwide because an environmental statement had not been filed.

The suit was dismissed when the groups and the U.S. department of the interior agreed to a series of stipulations, including issuance of an enviornmental impact statement by the department prior to the final migratory bird regulations being issued for the current hunting season.

The statement was prepared—more than 800 pages of 8½x11 inches in size—and it did recommend that annual regulations continue to be issued permitting and regulating the sport hunting of migratory birds.

The summary notes that the proposal protects migratory birds from indiscriminate hunting and permits continued recreational opportunities associated with hunting estimated at 33.1 million man-days annually. It also allows the harvest of an estimated 28.5 million pounds of meat annually, contributions to the national economy estimated to exceed $710 million annually, preservation of 9.7 million acres of migratory bird habitat and acquisition programs for additional acres, and funding to state management programs from federal taxes on sporting arms and ammunition.

Part of the final environmental statement (about 400 pages) contains comments from those groups presenting testimony. Some of these comments give insight into what hunters can expect in the future by way of attacks against their coveted recreational pursuits. The following quotes are excerpted from the statement:

". . . it is time to stop allowing hunting to decimate the resource, even though hunters have paid for some waterfowl habitat. Simply stated, fees paid in the past to benefit a resource do not give any group inalienable rights to destroy the resource in the future." —John W. Grandy IV, Ph. D., executive vice president of Defenders of Wildlife.

". . . we find it increasingly difficult to accept the fact that wildlife is managed for the benefit of the hunter, not the wildlife. We would support a policy that allowed hunting of wildlife only when it could be shown that the killing would benefit the animal species or the ecosystem. Further, we have a continuing objection to the fact that the nonhunting public is not allowed to participate in wildlife management decisions." —Harriet Lykken, chairman, wildlife task force, North Star chapter of the Sierra club, Minneapolis.

". . . We do not accept the assumption that, without hunting, a significant portion of existing waterfowl habitat would be converted to cropland. Even if the basis for this assumption is valid, the proper way to conserve habitat would be to raise license fees substantially to $100 or more . . . Finally, the EIS gives no consideration to the effect that public hunting has on the evolution and social structure of species being hunted. Canada geese are thought to mate for life; when one of a pair is shot, the other may spend the rest of its life alone. How does shooting Canada geese affect their mating and social behavior?" —R. C. Kenley, New Jersey coordinator, The Fund for Animals.

These are some of the smudge pots being tossed into the courts and legislative halls of the nation. The voices are getting louder and the popularity of anything purported to preserve the environment have resulted in attraction of financial support.

Sure, we can defend sports hunting. We can defend it on traditional grounds, on true conservation grounds, on recreational grounds. We can show our investment in preservation of habitat, the increase in population of protected species (including Canada geese), the introduction of new species, our willingness to look to the future in acceptance of hunting regulations and species control.

We would quarrel with the arguments presented as quoted above. Hunters are not interested in decimating a resource; they are interested in making wise use of it. We believe our investment in preservation and propagation of waterfowl does give us a right to exercise its control and use. The non-hunting public should be included in making wildlife management decisions only when it is willing to participate financially to the same extent as the hunting public.

Hunting license fees should be as low as possible to allow people from all walks of life to share in the opportunity of the recreational pursuit. To financially restrict this right would be a classic example of class legislation and extremely discriminatory.

Yes, we can hunt ducks this year. In fact, the season regulations seem quite fair to us. And lest anyone be tempted to complain about them, the effort would be better spent assuring that seasons will be allowed in the future.

In Support of Butz

Following editorial is from the Fargo Forum:

Just because Russia is willing to pay cash for a few million bushels of American wheat and corn, there are those politicians who want to make a little hay for themselves by charging that wheat sales are already responsible for a boost in food prices, and that the worst is yet to come. Most persistent of these anti-farmer critics is Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who is running so hard for the Democratic presidential nomination that he is ready to trade off the farm votes of the Midwest for the big city labor vote.

As a direct result, the International Longshoremen's union has voted not to load wheat bound for Russia, but this threat has yet to be put to the test.

Neither Sen. Jackson nor the longshoremen have indicated any willingness to build the huge storage bins necessary to store the farmers crop that the U.S. will harvest this year; that storage would be necessary if overseas sales are stopped by the politicians or the non-thinking labor union. For years the same people criticized the farmers on the contention they were overproducing in order to collect subsidies from the government. Now that the crops are being sold with no government assistance and no government handout to either the growers or the buyers, the critics continue to harp, both at the farmers and the Ford administration which is ardently defending the sales through the peppery remarks of Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

At least some people other than farmers are listening to Butz. The Wall Street Journal in its editorial column came to the defense of the sales to Russia and of the secretary.

"From where we stand, it looks like the best thing that has happened to the U.S. economy all year is the bumper grain crop produced by the American farmers and the eagerness of the Russians to pay cold cash for a piece of it," the Journal said.

"Yet up and down Wall Street the news travels that the grain sales mean inflation, inflation means higher interest rates, and higher interest rates mean a falling stock market. Ergo, this is 'The Butz Bear Market,' and the secretary should be boiled in oil.

"Indeed inflation has reared its ugly head once more and interest rates are on the move again, but Earl Butz, the farmers, and the Russians have next to nothing to do with it. The sale of the bumper crop, which otherwise would go into storage, represents a transfer of wealth from the Soviet Union to the United States. Mr. Butz should really be getting a medal, but suddenly he is a convenient scapegoat for all those who have been saying for months that the government should not concern itself with inflation. They can say now they would have been right exept for Mr. Butz and the Russians.

"In this camp are politicians and their economist allies who have been saying budget deficits, even $150 billion of red ink over two years, are not inflationary when the economy is not at full employment . . .

"Additional Soviet purchases of wheat, to be sure, will add to inflation somewhere in the world. But the U.S. cannot isolate itself from the effect by banning wheat sales to the Soviets; wheat is an internationally traded food and the price in the U.S. is affected by Canadian sales as well as American sales. The U.S. is far better off if it is the one selling the wheat, so long as the sales are for cash and not subsidized. This makes the U.S. wealthier and the dollar stronger."

It is a shame that these solid economic facts can't be recognized by those who are so blind they will not see.

MINNESOTA REPORT

WALTER F. MONDALE

In September, 1973, the Senate Subcommittee on Children and Youth, which I chair, held hearings on the trends and pressures affecting American families. Those hearings reinforced and confirmed our belief that the family unit is the fundamental and most important unit of society.

But great changes have occurred in American families over the last decades. Half of all Americans are living in a different home than they lived in five years ago. The extended family - - with a grandparent or other relative in the same household as the parent and children - - is nearly extinct. And one of every seven American children lives in a single parent home.

And yet, family life is so commonplace to us that many of these changes are overlooked. From our work in the Senate, it is becoming increasingly obvious to me that we take the family for granted, without considering the pressures they are experiencing.

I want to underscore my belief that most American families are healthy. And I don't wish to be alarmist. But there are warning signals that cannot be ignored. Today teenage alcoholism and drug abuse continue to grow dramatically; suicide is the second leading cause of death for young Americans between the ages of 15 and 24; delinquency is pervasive and child abuse continues to be a widespread and growing problem.

We cannot continue to ignore what is happening. We must realize that it is getting harder every day to be a good parent. Some of these difficulties arise from the hectic pace of change and the overwhelming size of so many institutions and bureaucracies with which families have to deal.

In an effort to address these dificulties, I have introduced the Family Household Research Act of 1975. It provides for the operation of a research program designed to study pressures on American families in order to assist in understanding, strengthening and improving the quality and status of family life in the United States.

The program would be carried out through land grant universities, state agricultural experiment stations and private nonprofit institutions under the supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture.

This modest bill won't solve all the problems facing families today, but it is an important beginning - - a beginning that can provide the foundations for help and support for families in need. Cognizant of the present economic situation and our budget deficit, this is purposely designed to be a small bill. But, it is nonetheless a critical and crucial initiative to strengthen and improve the quality of family life in America

Wefald Favors Grain Exports To Soviet Union

Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald said recently that "The current grain sales to the Soviet Union are not only in the best interests of American agriculture but in the best interests of the nation."

"For example, agricultural exports are the most important factor in maintaining our favorable balance of trade. Most emphatically, those exports are vital in paying for the oil we must import to sustain our national economy. Last year, for instance, it was our agricultural exports that paid for our oil imports."

"Moreover, if we do experience a new jolt in the cost of living, it can't be blamed on farmers or on agricultural export sales.

"Not only are the prices farmers receive for grain far below the levels of the past two years—even with the current increases—but the sales to Russia still in progress will take, at most, only a fraction of our increased domestic grain production.

"The USDA on July 10 forecast record wheat and corn production that exceeds last year's crops by over 35 million metric tons for corn and over 65 million metric tons of wheat for a total of a projected 213 million metric tons. If the crop forecasts hold, that would still leave over 200 million metric tons of corn and wheat remaining after the Soviet grain sales are completed. Barley, which Russia also is reportedly buying, is forecast at 2 million metric tons above last year.

"It would be impossible, by itself, for the sale of up to 15 million metric tons of grain to Russia to result in domestic shortages and price increases of the scope such as the chairman of the federal reserve board was talking about several days ago.

"The fact is, according to best official federal estimates, that we will have some 87 million metric tons more corn, wheat and barley for domestic consumption this year than we did last year, even if Russia buys the whole 15 million metric tons from the United States production," commissioner Wefald pointed out.

On top of the indicated major increase in domestic grain supplies from 1975 farm production, commissioner Wefald said that farm prices have a long way to go to again be a major contributor to a new round of inflation.

"Wheat rose to $4 on the local grain futures market last week. That was quite a jump from the $3.10 quoted in early July, when most farmers were looking at recovery of barely the sharply increased costs of production. But $4 is still more than $2 short of the price wheat hit in Minnesota last year, and is some 50 cents short of the average price Minnesota farmers received during the past two years. Farm prices could only be termed inflationary if they exceeded the high prices of 12 to 24 months ago. Some people forget that farm prices are the only thing that goes up and always come down. Other prices just go up and stay up."

"The truth is," commissioner Wefald concluded, "farmers are the best inflation fighters in the national economy. They are the most productive workers in our society. They have to be to survive. Because they lack pricing power, increased production has been the only tool farmers have to fight rising costs. Surplus farm production, without export markets, would bring disaster to agriculture and surely to our national economy. Only farmers produce food. Consumers need farmers. Farmers need the market stability and fair prices that export sales help provide."

By constructing their own clothing, home sewers can save about two-thirds the cost of ready-to-wear. 719,000 young persons 9-19 in the national 4-H clothing program learn by doing to plan wardrobes that are both economical and attractive. The program is sponsored by Coats & Clark Inc. and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

4-H'ers Stretch Clothing Dollars

CHICAGO—In times of inflation-recession one item in the budget that can be reduced is clothing, says Mildred A. Crawford, assistant professor of textiles and clothing at Colorado State University.

Clothing costs can be cut by home sewing (which saves about two-thirds the price of ready-to-wear) and by recycling clothes already in the wardrobe. She suggests converting out-of-fashion slacks to long skirts, or adding braid and colorful belts to last season's dresses.

4-H'ers plan wardrobes

Assembling and maintaining an attractive wardrobe are goals of 719,000 young persons from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H clothing program, sponsored for the 35th year by Coats & Clark Inc. and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Whether they sew, buy or recycle, 4-H members learn by doing how to plan a wardrobe, make informed consumer choices and care for garments. Program members also keep up to date on the latest fabrics, products and equipment on the clothing scene.

4-H'ers express individual tastes and life-styles through their apparel. More and more girls—and boys—are mastering the basics of home sewing not simply to economize but to fulfill their creative urge for personalized clothing and accessories. Using step-by-step instructions provided by Coats & Clark, they also learn to knit and crochet fashionable shrinks, pullovers and cardigan sweaters.

Awards provided

For outstanding achievement in 4-H clothing projects, Coats & Clark offers $800 college scholarships to six national winners, an expense-paid trip to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago, to one winner from each state, and up to four medals of honor per county.

All winners are selected by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Additional information on this and other 4-H programs is available from county extension agents.

Wefald Favors Grain Exports To Soviet Union

Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald said recently that "The current grain sales to the Soviet Union are not only in the best interests of American agriculture but in the best interests of the nation."

"For example, agricultural exports are the most important factor in maintaining our favorable balance of trade. Most emphatically, those exports are vital in paying for the oil we must import to sustain our national economy. Last year, for instance, it was our agricultural exports that paid for our oil imports."

"Moreover, if we do experience a new jolt in the cost of living, it can't be blamed on farmers or on agricultural export sales.

"Not only are the prices farmers receive for grain far below the levels of the past two years—even with the current increases—but the sales to Russia still in progress will take, at most, only a fraction of our increased domestic grain production.

"The USDA on July 10 forecast record wheat and corn production that exceeds last year's crops by over 35 million metric tons for corn and over 65 million metric tons of wheat for a total of a projected 213 million metric tons. If the crop forecasts hold, that would still leave over 200 million metric tons of corn and wheat remaining after the Soviet grain sales are completed. Barley, which Russia also is reportedly buying, is forecast at 2 million metric tons above last year.

"It would be impossible, by itself, for the sale of up to 15 million metric tons of grain to Russia to result in domestic shortages and price increases of the scope such as the chairman of the federal reserve board was talking about several days ago.

"The fact is, according to best official federal estimates, that we will have some 87 million metric tons more corn, wheat and barley for domestic consumption this year than we did last year, even if Russia buys the whole 15 million metric tons from the United States production," commissioner Wefald pointed out.

On top of the indicated major increase in domestic grain supplies from 1975 farm production, commissioner Wefald said that farm prices have a long way to go to again be a major contributor to a new round of inflation.

"Wheat rose to $4 on the local grain futures market last week. That was quite a jump from the $3.10 quoted in early July, when most farmers were looking at recovery of barely the sharply increased costs of production. But $4 is still more than $2 short of the price wheat hit in Minnesota last year, and is some 50 cents short of the average price Minnesota farmers received during the past two years. Farm prices could only be termed inflationary if they exceeded the high prices of 12 to 24 months ago. Some people forget that farm prices are the only thing that goes up and always come down. Other prices just go up and stay up."

"The truth is," commissioner Wefald concluded, "farmers are the best inflation fighters in the national economy. They are the most productive workers in our society. They have to be to survive. Because they lack pricing power, increased production has been the only tool farmers have to fight rising costs. Surplus farm production, without export markets, would bring disaster to agriculture and surely to our national economy. Only farmers produce food. Consumers need farmers. Farmers need the market stability and fair prices that export sales help provide."

By constructing their own clothing, home sewers can save about two-thirds the cost of ready-to-wear. 719,000 young persons 9-19 in the national 4-H clothing program learn by doing to plan wardrobes that are both economical and attractive. The program is sponsored by Coats & Clark Inc. and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

4-H'ers Stretch Clothing Dollars

CHICAGO—In times of inflation-recession one item in the budget that can be reduced is clothing, says Mildred A. Crawford, assistant professor of textiles and clothing at Colorado State University.

Clothing costs can be cut by home sewing (which saves about two-thirds the price of ready-to-wear) and by recycling clothes already in the wardrobe. She suggests converting out-of-fashion slacks to long skirts, or adding braid and colorful belts to last season's dresses.

4-H'ers plan wardrobes

Assembling and maintaining an attractive wardrobe are goals of 719,000 young persons from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H clothing program, sponsored for the 35th year by Coats & Clark Inc. and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Whether they sew, buy or recycle, 4-H members learn by doing how to plan a wardrobe, make informed consumer choices and care for garments. Program members also keep up to date on the latest fabrics, products and equipment on the clothing scene.

4-H'ers express individual tastes and life-styles through their apparel. More and more girls—and boys—are mastering the basics of home sewing not simply to economize but to fulfill their creative urge for personalized clothing and accessories. Using step-by-step instructions provided by Coats & Clark, they also learn to knit and crochet fashionable shrinks, pullovers and cardigan sweaters.

Awards provided

For outstanding achievement in 4-H clothing projects, Coats & Clark offers $800 college scholarships to six national winners, an expense-paid trip to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago, to one winner from each state, and up to four medals of honor per county.

All winners are selected by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Additional information on this and other 4-H programs is available from county extension agents.

Sand And Sandwiches

Beaching It — that all-American summer pastime — is taken up by thousands annually for the purpose of relaxation and body beautifying. The moment of truth may come when among all that suntan lotion and chaise longues, no one has thought much about lunch.

Next time you pack your beach bags, just tuck in a few cans of chicken spread and make a great baked-over-the-coals sandwich in minutes. If you wish, make the sandwich at home, wrap it in foil and carry it to the beach ready-to-eat.

Barbecue Chicken Sandwich

- 1 loaf French bread (15 inches)
- 2 4¾ ounce cans chicken spread
- 10 slices tomato
- 10 thin rings red onion
- 8 slices sharp pasteurized process cheese
- 8 green pepper rings
- 8 strips bacon, cooked

Cut bread in half lengthwise. Spread each half with one can of chicken spread. Then layer sandwich with tomato, onion, cheese, pepper and bacon slices. Wrap sandwiches in foil and bake over hot coals or in 375° oven for 5 minutes. Cut each loaf into fifths. Makes 10 servings.

IT IS NOT EASY TO DESCRIBE THE ENORMOUS OUTPUT OF THE SUN'S ENERGY.

THE SUN GETS ITS ENERGY FROM THERMONUCLEAR REACTIONS NEAR ITS CENTER. THEY RELEASE SO MUCH ENERGY THAT SCIENTISTS BELIEVE THE SUN COULD SHINE FOR ABOUT 10 BILLION YEARS WITH LITTLE CHANGE IN ITS SIZE OR BRIGHTNESS.

IF THE SUN WERE ENVELOPED IN A SHEET OF ICE 40 FEET THICK, IT WOULD THAW ITS WAY OUT IN ONLY ONE MINUTE.

THE ENERGY RECEIVED AT THE EARTH'S SURFACE AMOUNTS TO MORE THAN 4,000,000 HORSEPOWER PER SQUARE MILE.

BECAUSE THE SUN'S ENERGY IS SO STRONG, MAN HAS HAD TO DEVELOP ITEMS FOR PROTECTION. HE HAS INVENTED SUNGLASSES FOR HIS EYES AND UMBRELLAS TO SHADE HIMSELF. ONE OF THE LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IS SUNFIGHTER FILM WHICH—WHEN PLACED ON WINDOWS—EFFECTIVELY SCREENS OUT THE HEAT OF THE SUN, WHILE LETTING THE LIGHT COME IN. (THIS CAN CUT AIR CONDITIONING COSTS AS MUCH AS 50%)

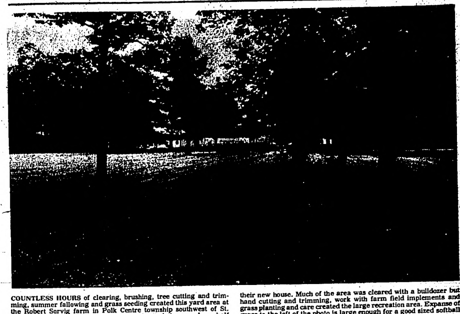
Volume 64 Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Monday, August 25, 1975 Number 66



COUNTLESS HOURS of clearing, brushing, tree cutting and trimming, summer fallowing and grass seeding created this yard area at the Robert Sorvig farm in Polk Centre township southwest of St. Hilaire. The farm yard includes an estimated three and one-half acres. This area to the left of the farm driveway as a visitor enters the yard, was a brushy woodlot three years ago when the Sorvigs built their new house. Much of the area was cleared with a bulldozer but hand cutting and trimming, work with farm field implements and grass planting and care created the large recreation area. Expanse of grass to the left of the photo is large enough for a good sized softball field. The farm was selected by the Pennington SCS as winner of the 1975 beautification award.

Sorvig Farm Selected For SCS Beautification Award

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Three years of effort in brushing, clearing, planting, mowing and trimming have resulted in awarding of a farm beautification award to the Robert Sorvig family of rural St. Hilaire.

The beautification award, presented annually by the Pennington soil and water conservation district, goes to a district cooperator who has put forth extra effort to make the farm yard clean and attractive. Selections are made from various areas of the district each year. The Sorvig farm is located nine miles west, one south and one and three-fourths west of St. Hilaire.

For the Sorvigs, the yard improvement project began as part of a total package which included construction of a new house in 1972. Bob estimates that about three and one-half acres of land are included in the program which involved removal of some trees, bulldozing and cutting of brush, summerfallow of some of the land, seeding of grass and planting of trees and shrubs.

"I have to give a lot of the credit to the kids," Sorvig said. "They worked real hard to get the land in shape and keep it up. Scott should get a little extra credit for doing a lot of the planting and taking a special interest in the job."

Scott, 21, is a graduate of the University of Minnesota technical institute at Crookston, where he took a number of courses in landscaping, horticulture and related subjects. The home yard project fit well into his interest area for study.

The Sorvig farm has been in the family since the late 1800's when it was homesteaded by Bob's maternal grandparents. It presently consists of 440 acres with the farm yard located right next to the Black river in Polk Centre township. Small grain is raised on the farm which has no livestock. A large garden has been planted and harvested each year.

"With six children in the family that garden has helped a lot," says Bob's wife Shirley. "It is an awful lot of work and I sometimes wonder how we will be able to manage the garden and the yard at the same time, but I guess it will work out all right. We have really enjoyed having the space for games and things."

The Sorvig family includes Ronnie, 25; Deb, 21; Scott, 21; Steve, 20; Mark, 16; and Carol, 12. All but Ronnie and Deb are presently staying at home.

Bob purchased the Mobil bulk plant in Thief River Falls in 1974 and presently operates that business. He previously had been associated with St. Hilaire supply and for a time had been a salesman for a farm chemical company.

Concert Ass'n. To Open Mail Order Campaign

Mail order campaign for renewal of Thief River Falls concert association membership begins today with Mrs. George Martin as chairman and Mrs. Orvel Stocks as assistant. Present members of the association will be given an opportunity to renew membership before the membership sale is opened to the public.

Four concerts are included in the 1975-76 concert series, all expected to be popular with local members of the association. The New Christy Minstrels will be a headline attraction. Also appearing will be a group known as The Legends of Jazz, a string quartet called the Taylor Family and the Revelers male quartet, returning for a repeat engagement after a highly-acclaimed prior appearance here.

As in prior years, admission to any of the concerts will be by season membership only. No individual performance tickets will be sold. Cost of membership, which guarantees seating at all four of the concerts, will be $12 for adults, $6 for students or $35 per family.

Although the membership will not be opened to the general public until September 16, applicants may list their names with the Chamber of Commerce office by calling 681-3720. Membership requests will be filled in the order received until capacity of the Lincoln high school auditorium has been reached.

County 4H Dairy Judges Compete At State Fair

Pennington county 4-H dairy judging team will compete for state honors at the Minnesota state fair on Thursday with nearly 50 other county teams, according to Wayne Odegaard, association extension agent.

Members of the Pennington county dairy team are Marilyn Koop, Leann Holen and Gayle Lundeen. Coach of the team is Wayne Odegaard.

First place dairy judging team in state fair competition will represent Minnesota at the national 4-H dairy judging contest at Columbus, Ohio, on October 5. The trip is sponsored by the Hubbard Milling company of Mankato, Minnesota livestock breeders association and Minnesota state fair.

(Alex) Easton, newly appointed president of Northland community college, and his wife Zona, will be held on Saturday, September 6, at 6:30 p.m. in the Northland community college gymnasium. The dinner will be served buffet style with the price set at $3.50 per person. A short program is planned following the dinner.

He was appointed as president of the comprehensive community college at Scotts Bluff in January of 1974. New County Census Will Be Taken Soon

NEW PRESIDENT of Northland community college in Thief River Falls, Dr. Theodore (Alex) Easton, has arrived to begin his duties as head of the local two-year school. He succeeds Victor Charles in becoming the third president of Northland since its beginning. Kenneth Wiebolt, dean of students, had served as acting president during the interim between Charles' resignation and Dr. Easton's appointment.

Interviews of applicants wishing to serve as census takers for a special Pennington county census will be held Thursday in the basement meeting room of the city auditorium. John Rundle of Pelican Rapids, job director for the census, said he hopes approximately 80 applicants will be interviewed, with 37 selected to serve. The census will be conducted beginning about September 3 and will last between five and 10 days.

C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor, explained that the census was financed by the county and city in order to accomplish a number of goals. A primary reason is to achieve an increase in government aid if the census totals demonstrate an increase in population from the last census in 1970. Every additional resident of Thief River Falls will mean a $42 per capita boost in allocations to the city. Increased population in the entire county will bring an additional allocation for the year 1977.

A second motive for the census is to establish population areas in Thief River Falls for future redistricting, which is impossible at this time because of the failure of the 1970 census to account for these areas in a block by block count within the city. "We have to find out where the people live," Rodekuhr said. The auditor stated that the new census will be taken block by block.

A third reason for the census is the assistance it will provide the city and county in preparation for local elections.

Local residents hired as census takers will attend a training session (conducted in the city auditorium basement meeting room) where they will learn the use of census forms and census techniques, such as interviewing and map reading. A special census supervisor or crew leader will train, assign work, answer questions, and supervise and review work.

When training is completed, enumeration districts will be assigned to every census taker, probably near their respective neighborhoods. Maps of the districts and necessary census forms will be provided. Each household in the districts must be visited to collect the required facts about the persons residing in them, such as name, age and relationship to head of the household.

The census takers must be willing to work eight hours each day, including Saturdays and some evenings. Pay will be $10 for the training session and between $16 and $24 for each full work day.

26 Jobs Lost In Red Lake Falls

A total of 26 jobs were lost in Red Lake Falls recently due to a cease in operations of two businesses. Central Bi-Products management of Red Lake Falls will end all rendering operations September 1, prompting the layoff of six men. Trail Master Inc. ceased all operations last Monday, resulting in job loss for 20 men.

Central Bi-Products was forced to terminate its animal processing because it could not meet environmental standards set by the state pollution control agency. Specifically, the firm's dumping lagoon has been under fire by the agency, which said heated runoff from the rendering cookers into the lagoon is detrimental to the environment. The MPCA stipulated that a conditioner system be installed to renovate the facility, which Central Bi-Products said was too sizable an investment.

The firm will continue to pick up dead and disabled animals and raw materials from meat processing plants in the area. Men who have been laid off were invited to relocate in Long Prairie, where a new plant was built.

Trail Master, a firm owned by Marlin and Joyce Matheny,

Tickets for the dinner are available from Dr. Tom Dimich, president of the local alumni association chapter, or at the local Chamber of Commerce office. Reservations may be made by phone or tickets picked up before September 4.

Karolyn Dahlgren And Tom Watson Vows Spoken

Following an exchange of marriage vows at Roseau and a wedding trip to the West Coast, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Watson are at home at Frazee.

The bride is the former Karolyn Dahlgren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dahlgren of Roseau. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Watson of Thief River Falls.

The double ring ceremony took place at the First Baptist church in Roseau with Rev. Virgil Hegle officiating. Mrs. Ruben (spelled correctly) Halvorson was the organist and Rikka Hoffland of Frazee, the soloist.

Wild daisies and day lilies in white wicker baskets formed the background for the wedding party.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and mother. She was attired in a gown which she had designed of ivory textured polyester and trimmed with ivory nylon bouquet lace. The gown was styled with a sweetheart neckline and a flared skirt with a lower ruffle forming a self train. Bouquet lace trimmed the high, fitted midriff and the bands of the short, puffy sleeves. Creating interest was a waist length veil of the same type of lace. She carried a cascade of white and yellow daisies and babies' breath with yellow ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Karen Nelson of Thief River Falls, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Pam Watson of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom, and Evelyn Wilson of Cloquet, a friend. They wore identical gowns in yellow, orange and red in a floral polyester, featuring U-necklines, raised waistlines, butterfly sleeves and full, floor-length skirts with a ruffled flounce. Their gowns were also designed by the bride. Each attendant carried a single long-stemmed orange rose.

Wearing a similar gown was the bride's cousin, Kara Johnson, who served as flower girl. She carried a wicker basket trimmed with orange satin ribbon and filled with babies' breath. Ringbearer was Shoan Nelson, a nephew of the bride. He wore a forest green suit and carried an ivory pillow.

Lowell Watson of Stillwater attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Neil Wothe and Gordon Estenson of Frazee. All wore brown tuxedos with ivory ruffled shirts and orange boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a cluster of yellow daisies.

Serving as ushers were Ed Ewanika, Glen Newling, both of Frazee, Ordean Nelson of Thief River Falls, and David Dahlgren of Roseau.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. The guests were received by Marie Dahlgren of Roseau and Carol Watson of Thief River Falls, a sister of the groom. Serving as host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Skoglund of Lake Bronson.

Mrs. Ruth Ewanika, a sister of the groom, and Mrs. Andrea Cunningham cut and served the wedding cake as Mrs. Lois Dahlgren and Mrs. Dorothy Paine served the coffee. Punch was ladled by Merilyn Watson, sister of the groom, and Marsha Dahlgren. The gifts were opened by Jeanne Lammers, Mrs. Holly Watson and Rlou Pike. Waitresses were Gail Skoglund, Mary Clark, Sarah Geroy and Sherry Olson.

The bride's personal attendant was Mrs. Joy Estenson of Frazee.

The bride and groom are employed in Frazee. The bride is a teacher in the Frazee school system and the groom is employed by North Star Transport.

Candles and floral arrangements formed the chancel setting for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown styled with a ruffled V-plastron featuring a ruffled stand-up collar. Ruffles also edged the long Camelot sleeves and the bottom of her skirt that flowed back into a chapel-length train. A Venice lace motif was appliqued at the empire waistline. KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Those who knew the circumstances were in an uproar. According to the conversation, a well-known woman in that community had died. In her will she had specified that the home and all belongings were to be sold and the money was to be divided between her surviving children. No special consideration had been made for the daughter who had stayed at home and cared for her in her old age.

Public sentiment was "How unfair. How could a mother do that to her daughter, especially to this, her youngest child?" (Those that knew the family stated that the mother had succeeded in breaking the daughter's engagement by having heart-attacks whenever the wedding date was set.)

Several in the group agreed that the mother had been completely selfish. Even after death, the mother wanted her children to know that she loved them all the same. No favoritism, they were all her children and they were all to be treated alike. The daughter who had cared for her for 20 odd years was to receive no more than the others. During those years, the daughter had had a wonderful home and had received her room, board, clothing and spending money for spending 24 hours a day as nursemaid, and caretaker of the place.

Others in the group felt that the daughter's love for her mother had prompted her to sacrifice her own life to stay home; and that because of this great love, the daughter wouldn't expect to receive anything for what she had done. No price can be placed on love.

Fiction, you say. Things like that don't happen today. Sorry, but every community includes a number of men and women, who for one reason or another have stayed home to care for their parents. Those who have done so out of love are to be commended. Those who were or are being brainwashed to do so, are to be pitied. In some cases, after the death of their parents, they have no friends, except their parents' friends, and no outside interests.

Life can be cruel and sometimes, unknowingly, mothers are the most cruel. Some have the opinion that since they gave birth to their children, the children owe them a lifetime of devotion.

Just a minute, before you call, study the lives of the birds. They gently nudge their fledglings out of the nest in an effort to teach them to fly. However, they leave the nest intact for the offspring to return to. They also continue feeding their young until they are able to care for themselves; and then the little ones are free to make a life of their own. As mothers, shouldn't we be able to do the same?

Cutting the apron string isn't easy but in doing so, one differentiates between mother love and smother love.

Today's recipe was found on my desk, without any hint of who submitted it. I always enjoy getting recipes for this column, but I prefer knowing whose they are in case of any errors. I haven't tried the recipe, but molasses cookies and cold milk is one of my weaknesses.

Unusual Soft Molasses Cookies

1 cup sugar
1 cup lard
2 beaten eggs
1 cup molasses
1 cup buttermilk
3 teaspoons soda
2½ teaspoons ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
5 cups flour

Method: Mix all ingredients together and chill one hour. Do not knead, just take from the bowl and flatten out ¼ inch thick. Cut with a small cutter as they get high when baked. Dip in sugar and bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. These cookies are a cake cooky.

Boys Invited To Be Scouts Or Cub Scouts

Boys in this area are being invited to join scout troops or Cub scout packs as part of the annual fall membership program of the Northern Lights council, Boy Scouts of America.

Al Kramer, council chairman of the 1975 roundup said recently that the program will include opportunities for boys to join local Cub Scout packs and Scout troops by attending meeting at their school. Notice of the meetings will be given through the distribution of flyers in their classrooms a day or two before the evening meetings are held. Cub Scouts and Scouts that recruit one or more boys into their units will receive a special neckerchief slide provided by the Northern Lights council.

Cub Scout program is a family-centered program for boys who have completed the second grade or who will be 8 through 10 years of age. They meet weekly as a den under the supervision of a den leader. Monthly, all the dens come together for a pack meeting led by a cubmaster. Boys start as Bobcats and through achievements earn Wolf, Bear, and Arrow of Light awards.

The Scout program is for boys who have completed the fifth grade or who are 11 through 17 years of age. It is designed to develop character, mental and physical fitness, and citizenship training. The focus is on rounding out one's physical and mental fitness through a vigorous program of activities. Boys join patrols and elect their own patrol leader. They usually meet once a week as a troop under the guidance of a scoutmaster. A boy joins as a Scout and can achieve Tenderfoot, Second Class, First Class, Star, Life, and Eagle progress awards.

Additional information about the Scout and Cub Scout programs is available from the four Northern Lights council service centers: Fargo (301 S. Seventh street, phone 293-5011), Bismarck (201 N. 6th st., phone 223-7204), Minot (107 W. Central, phone 839-2260), Grand Forks (1701 Cherry st., phone 775-3189).

ACE Club Will Meet August 28

Adult continuing education (ACE) club that was organized on the Northland community college campus one year ago will hold its first meeting Thursday at 2 p.m. in the student commons.

ACE members of last year and adults interested in attempting college are encouraged to attend this meeting. Pat Henning of Goodridge will be the new chairperson, succeeding Arlyne Forsberg.

The agenda for the August 28 meeting will have election of new officers and planning of activities for the ensuing year. This meeting also will provide an opportunity for adults wishing to return to the educational scene after an absence to visit and speak with adult students presently enrolled at Northland and question them about their experiences in resuming education.

Efforts of ACE club members are considered largely responsible for more than doubling the adult enrollment at Northland last year. This year an even larger number of adult enrollees is expected.

Persons unable to attend the meeting but who desire additional information are encouraged to call Northland at 681-2181.

State's Traffic Fatality Count Drops From 1974

After the lowest traffic fatality count in 10 years during 1974, deaths on Minnesota highways have taken an even deeper dip during the first six months of 1975, commissioner of public safety Edward G. Novak reported today.

"Preliminary reports received by our department indicate that about 60 fewer traffic fatalities were recorded during the first half of this year in Minnesota as compared to 1974," Novak said, "and this is particularly encouraging since the traffic toll on the national level is generally up from 1974."

According to the U.S. department of transportation, June marked the first month this year in which the nation's traffic death toll dropped below 1974 levels. Nationally, a 1.4 per cent decline for June marked a change in the trend of the first five months of the year that had showed traffic deaths ranging from 1.5 per cent to nine per cent above the 1974 levels.

The Minnesota toll for the first six months of 1975 stood at 301 fatalities, down nearly 17 per cent from the 361 deaths recorded for the first half of 1974. Included in that figure are 52 pedestrian deaths, up by four from the same period last year.

"Although these preliminary figures for this period are extremely encouraging," Novak added, "we are well aware of the fact that they can change for the worse in a very short period of time.

"Continued compliance with the 55 MPH speed limit law, careful driving and just good common sense when behind the wheel can, however, make this another year when Minnesotans reduce the needless loss of life that results from vehicle crashes."

Fair Share Law Said To Violate Due Process

Hennepin county district Judge Crane Winton has ruled the state's "fair share" law unconstitutional saying it violates "due process" of law. The "fair share" law allowed that group which is elected the bargaining agent in a school district to designate a charge to be paid by teachers not members of the group to cover the cost of negotiating process.

Judge Winton's decision was applauded by Ed Bolstad, executive secretary of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers. Bolstad noted the "decision supports our legislative and political goals for the last two years." He said most teachers around the state have objected to the manner in which the "fair share" fee was collected.

The suit was brought by the Robbinsdale Education association as a test case against the Robbinsdale Federation of Teachers and the Minnesota Federation of Teachers.

A similar case is still pending against the Hutchinson Education association and the Minnesota Education association. However, a number of delays have stalled a ruling in that case. Bolstad said the decision "signals an end to the collection of money from teachers" under the fair share law.

Milk Prices For Grade A Farmers Require Action

Milk prices for some Grade A dairy farmers will be disproportionately low unless the U.S. department of agriculture takes remedial action, according to two farm groups.

In a joint letter to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, Land O'Lakes, Inc., and Minnesota Farmers Union have requested action by USDA to prevent an inequitable price disadvantage to some farmers. The letter requested an emergency hearing to be held to consider reducing the lag time between the evaluation of pricing and the application of that decision.

Under current pricing provisions, dairymen producing fluid grade milk in Minnesota will be receiving lower prices than those farmers producing manufacturing grade milk in August.

July increases in wholesale butter and cheese prices will raise all milk prices, but the delays in the federal price formula for fluid milk (bottling milk) will cause the temprary price inversion for August.

Farmers Union and Land O'Lakes suggested to Butz that the Class I price formula be advanced a month so that the price increase is passed on to the fluid grade producers more quickly.

Two NCC Courses Set For Roseau, Warren In Fall

Northland community college will be offering three-credit extension courses in Roseau and Warren during the coming fall quarter.

Abnormal Psychology (Psychology 253) will be taught in Warren and Environmental Problems (Science 203) will be offered in Roseau.

The psychology course is intended to help the student determine what constitutes "abnormal" behavior and then discuss the various areas of abnormality. The first meeting of the class will be held Thursday, September 11, at 7 p.m. at Warren high school. Chet Engelman will be the instructor.

The environmental problems course, taught by Orren Bendickson, is designed to generate thought and discussion on current topics which relate to the environment and to raise the level of awareness each person has for the environment around him. The first meeting of the class will be held Wednesday, September 10, at 7 p.m. at Roseau high school.

Tuition for both classes is $10 per quarter hour, or $30. Registration and payment of tuition will be made at the first class meetings. Both classes may be taken for undergraduate credit or general education.

State Reports Major Cut In Milk Production

June, the nationally observed dairy month, provided another major cut in milk production for Minnesota, the nation's fourth ranked dairy state, reports the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Minnesota milk production in June fell to 812 million pounds (70 million gallons), the lowest volume for that month in 41 years.

That was 67 million pounds (nearly 5.8 million gallons) less than June 1974 milk production in Minnesota and was the biggest monthly cut on an annual comparison since February 1966.

Minnesota continued to lead all states in the amount of milk production loss, while neighboring South Dakota, sharing the same depressed marketing area, continues to lead all states in percentage of cutback.

During the first six months of 1975 Minnesota's milk production is down 209 million pounds (18 million gallons) or four per cent, and South Dakota milk production is down 106 million pounds (9 million gallons) or 13 per cent, compared to the first half of 1974.

Excessive June rains that caused flooding in northern and southeastern Minnesota, damaged or destroyed most of the first hay cutting and pastures, and high feed costs that forced farmers to cut milk cows rations by more than 9 per cent during June were factors in reduced milk production for the month. But June was merely an extension of adverse weather and feed prices for dairy farmers for the past year and a half.

Modest increases in prices farmers are receiving for milk helped stabilize the Minnesota inventory of milk cows at 878,000, the all-time low, for the third straight month. Only Wisconsin with 1,807,000, the all-time low, for the third straight month. Only Wisconsin with 1,807,000 and New York wity 914,000 have more milk cows than Minnesota.

Minnesota's 5,037 million pounds (434.2 million gallons) of milk production for the first half of 1975 represented 8.5 per cent of the national supply, compared with 8.8 per cent of the U.S. milk for the same period last year.

One long-standing reason for the self-employed to incorporate has been to gain access to more generous retirement programs. But with the greatly expanded pension plans now available to the self-employed, other factors are more likely to decide the question of incorporating, which is not always as attractive as it once was.

FIELD CHECKING for moisture content of alfalfa before chopping for low moisture silage was one of the skills used this summer by Robert LeCocq (right) of McGrath. He worked for John Erickson on his dairy farm near St. Hilaire for his internship required in his major in dairy production at the University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston.

Erickson Trains Dairying Student

Robert LeCocq of McGrath is finding that practical application of theories taught in the classroom is challenging. LeCocq, a sophomore in dairy production at the University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston (UMC), is working at the John Erickson farm southwest of St. Hilaire this summer as part of his college training. Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul LeCocq of McGrath, and is presently living in Crookston.

Along with nearly 100 other UMC agriculture division students, LeCocq is fulfilling the college's internship requirements by working in dairy production and management at Erickson's. This on-the-job training aspect of LeCocq's two-year, technical education gives him a practical opportunity to apply basic methods and procedures presented in the classrooms and labratories at UMC. His supervisor at the dairy farm is Erickson.

LeCocq's work consists of doing anything needed on a dairy farm—field work, feeding, milking, equipment clean-up in the dairy facility and machinery operation and maintenance.

Students enrolled in the agriculture division complete 110 credits to earn an associate of applied science degree. Twelve of these credits must be earned through a supervised on-the-job program lasting 12 weeks. Purpose of the experience is to provide students with a broad exposure to their chosen career field.

Working locations for the ag students this summer are found throughout Minnesota, in North and South Dakota, and even in states as far away as Wisconsin and Montana. Wherever interns are assigned, they will be putting theory into practice in a real on-the-job situation.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

The law—Is it really on our side? Here is an incident which happened recently as my cousin asked if I would take him out to a car pound to find out about the release of his car. I left on my supper break. Here is what happened when I arrived and waited as my cousin went inside.

As I was sitting there an officer pulled his car up behind mine, walked over to my car. The officer motioned me to roll my window down. Not knowing what was wrong and why he wanted to talk to me, I shortly tried to think. It couldn't be my loud radio since it wasn't on and there was no sign for "no parking". He then very bluntly proceeded to ask if I was driving the car. I said, "Yes". Before I was able to utter another word he furthered himself by stating that if I was to start the car or as much as drive it two feet he would arrest me for D.W.I. Without further enforcement he then turned to my cousin who was then in hearing distance.

The officer then told my cousin, not knowing that there was any connection between us, "Don't let that young lady drive, I think she's been drinking too much to drive."

My cousin was dumbfounded and surprised by this type of police treatment but was able to utter the words I couldn't. "Officer, she has been working at the hospital and is on her supper break to bring me out here to my car." The officer then turned away dissappointed at not being able to give me a ticket.

So there I still sit in my white uniform not making a sound, not daring to move, wondering what I had done to deserve all this.

I think law enforcement is O.K. but only if it's not carried too far. A uniform is to protect and uphold justice, not to accuse it.

GOP Senators To Hold Caucus At State Fair

Minnesota Independent-Republican senators will meet Saturday in a caucus at the state fair, senate minority leader Robert Ashbach announced recently.

"This will mark the first time in the hostory of the state that a legislative caucus has met in such a public place," said Ashbach, whose caucus last year became the first to hold open caucuses.

The caucus, which will begin at 4 p.m., will be held at the 4-H park which is located directly across the street from the 4-H building on the fairgrounds, the senator said.

"We're inviting all the people from throughout the state who may be attending the fair on that day to stop by and watch their legislators in action," Ashbach said, adding that "We think by taking our caucus out to the people we will demonstrate that we are really concerned about what they think."

Ashbach explained that the term caucus means simply a meeting of legislators to organize and plan goals and strategies and sometimes to hear from the public on key issues.

"During the year the Independent-Republicans regularly hold such meetings at their offices at the Capitol," Ashbach said.

The senator said that he hoped open caucuses, such as the one planned for the fair, would help to dispel the erroneous impression that such meetings had to be held in private.

"We have continued to hold open caucuses without any problems even though some of the other groups have not been so consistently open," Ashbach said.

The minority leader said that the agenda was still being formulated but would include a discussion of proposed remedies to prevent legislative logjams similar to the one that marred the recent session.

He also said that following the meeting the senators would be happy to answer any questions the audience had about the legislative process.

Until last year all legislative caucuses of both parties and houses were closed. The senate Independent-Republicans held the first open caucus in history on November 7 and the other three caucuses eventually made similar decisions.

1 Of 3 Vehicles Fails To Pass State Inspection

About one vehicle out of every three examined last year failed to pass an equipment inspection by the Minnesota state patrol.

Conducted from May through October on a statewide basis by special teams of inspectors, the motor vehicle inspection program examined over 92,000 cars, light trucks and motorcycles at random from the traffic flow during 1974. An additional 22,000 full-sized trucks and 16,500 school bus inspections were accomplished during regular examinations throughout the year.

With over 130,000 total vehicles inspected, 36.3 per cent were rejected for having one or more defects in their equipment, a rejection rate that ranks as the lowest since 1968 when random roadside vehicle inspections were first initiated. In 1968 the rejection rate was at a high of 64 per cent.

By vehicle type, motorcycles showed the lowest rejection rate of 16.3 per cent, followed by school buses (examined twice a year by law) with a rejection rate of 29.5 per cent, a significant decline from the 1970-73 average of 45 per cent.

Defective lights proved to be the most frequently appearing deficiency in all vehicles examined, representing 75 per cent of the equipment violations in cars as well as high deficiency rates in trucks of all types and school buses.

Defective exhaust systems, glass, horns, brakes and windshield washers and wipers were among the other most prevalent deficiencies in vehicles inspected.

Random motor vehicle inspection, which examines about five per cent of the total number of vehicles registered in Minnesota each year is currently in operation on various Minnesota highways. On site inspection is accomplished by selecting vehicles from the traffic stream and directing them into a roadside work area for examination.

In most cases, failure to pass the inspection results in a ticket requiring the owner to have the defect corrected, usually within a few days. Vehicles which pass the inspection receive a sticker which is affixed to the lower lefthand corner of the windshield.

Owners of vehicles who wish to have their vehicles inspected can learn the whereabouts of the nearest inspection team by calling the district state patrol office in their area.

He has been a Sunday school teacher at the Black River Lutheran church (less than two miles east of the Sorvig farm) for 20 years and is a member of the church board. He has also been assessor for Polk Centre township for 12 years and is certified by the state of Minnesota.

In addition to being members of the soil and water conservation district, the Sorvigs are long-term members of the farm management program offered through the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute.

Although the yard improvement projects completed to date have created an extremely attractive residential setting, the Sorvigs have more work in mind. Improvement of the machine yard for implement storage is planned and construction of a machine storage building is contemplated. More building removal and clearing is also anticipated.

Senior Citizens To Be Honored At State Fair

A 72-year-old Hector woman and a 76-year-old Bemidji man have been named Minnesota's outstanding senior citizens for 1975 by the Minnesota state fair, governor's citizens council on aging and the Minnesota federation of county fairs.

Mrs. Anna Schaumberg and Clifford Fredrickson, who were selected from more than 90 nominees, will be honored during the annual state fair on Senior citizens day Thursday.

Mrs. Schaumberg, who has lived in the Hector area for 60 years, taught in Renville county schools for 15 years before marrying the editor of the Hector Mirror. After the death of her husband in 1956 she published the paper until it was sold in 1968. Mrs. Schaumberg has also volunteered her time for many community activities, including the Minnesota society for crippled children and adults and American Red Cross. She helped organize the Hector P.T.A., was a Girl scout leader for 29 years, and has been listed in "Who's Who Among American Women."

Fredrickson began working in a general merchandise store in Solway in 1917. A few years later he purchased the store and continued its operation until his retirement in 1969. During these years he was an active member of the Solway Lutheran church, served as clerk and chairman of the Solway school district from 1924-1944, and was village clerk for 30 years.

In 1970 Fredrickson and his wife, Ovina, moved to Bemidji, where his contributions include acting as president of the Bemidji area senior citizens city club and board member of the Beltrami county senior citizens council, as well as other civic projects.

Fredrickson and Mrs. Schaumberg will be presented to the state fair grandstand audience prior to the 6:30 p.m. Lawrence Welk Show on Thursday. They will also be recognized during a special senior citizens program in the bandshell at 2 p.m. that day. All persons 65 and older will be admitted to the fairgrounds without charge through 6 p.m. on Thursday.

Senator Gives Comments About Tariff Appeal

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey recently issued the following statement on the decision by the U.S. court of appeals regarding crude and refined oil products:

"The appeals court decision that the administration's tariffs on crude and refined oil products is illegal is the best news we have heard on the inflation front in a long time.

"If the full appeals court, or the supreme court, does not reserve today's decision in the event of an appeal by the administration, the price of imported crude oil products will drop by $2 per barrel early in September.

"A preliminary analysis by the joint economic committee staff indicates that the impact on oil prices will be striking:

It will cut the price of 'new' domestic oil by $2 per barrel, down to about $11.50 from $13.50 per barrel.

It will cut the average price of petroleum used in this country by about 10 per cent, to $9.40 from $10.50 per barrel.

It will, as a result, cause a direct drop in gasoline prices to levels last seen in January—before the tariffs were imposed, resulting in gas prices of about 52 cents per gallon.

It will cut consumer oil bills by over $15 million daily or by some $5.5 billion a year. Lower prices for fertilizer and other petroleum-based products will run these savings up cloes to $8 billion annually in consumer savings.

"The tariff elimination will accelerate consumer spending and savings, thereby speeding economic recovery and reducing unemployment in a manner that will be similar to a tax cut of the same magnitude.

"It is just the shot in the arm our economy needs to quicken the painfully slow pace of economic recovery.

"The administration should welcome this opportunity to abandon gracefully the tariffs which only serve to boost oil company profits and government tax receipts at the expense of consumers' pocketbooks. I urge the President to accept the decision of the appeals court."

Humphrey, chairman of the joint economic committee of the Congress, has opposed the tariffs on crude and refined oil since their imposition last February

Eating The Cake . . .

Flying of the United States flag upside down beneath the American Indian Movement (AIM) flag at the Chippewa ranch east of Mahnomen prompted comment from the editor of the Mahnomen Pioneer.

He noted that the action caused " . . . folks who live in these parts—of all races and political persuasions—to stand up and be counted when it counted." The reaction was apparently sufficient to cause the practice to be discontinued.

But the act caused the editor to make a few comments about American patriotism and the "Mr. and Mrs. America who have had enough." Here is part of what he wrote:

The Mr. and Mrs. America we are talking about are the kind of folks who believe in the freedom of expression and ideals. Up to now they have been willing to listen. They have been willing to help. They are ready to admit that not all is right in America and there are changes needed.

If there is one outstanding strength in the kind of American we are thinking about it's an ability to stand on his own two feet and to face up to doing the things that need to be done. It may take him a while to get fired up. It may seem that he is unable to find his way through all the political chaff he is fed. He may seem immune to the rash and challenging rhetoric heaped on him daily through the news media by self-appointed leaders whose very freedom to make such utterances is guaranteed by the constitution of the country they attack.

But a word of caution is in order. It may seem that the majority of Americans don't know and don't care about what happens to their country.

Not so! Definitely, not so!

I care! You care! We care!

We care enough to know that we have been pushed far enough—we have seen our country ridiculed long enough—we have had enough glittering generalities and rash accusations about past sins. We have had it up to here with do-gooders and elected representatives who buy just about any sob story handed them without bothering to do a little research work.

Unless we are sadly mistaken, America has only begun to say "no" to those who want to eat the cake and then break the platter. We suspect that the flow of mail to Washington is just beginning and unless someone soon wakes up to the fact that there is a "majority" in America, too, there is going to be a mammoth reaction at the ballot box.

Congressional Priority

Following editorial was prepared by the New York Times Syndicate:

Exhausted by its exertions on our behalf, Congress has departed on another vacation—this one a month's duration. Before leaving, however, the fighting 94th provided us with yet another example of why its standing with its countrymen is now hovering at 15-per cent approval.

With 8 per cent of the nation's work force out of jobs, with inflation moving back toward the double digits, with President Ford calling on Americans to "sacrifice," Congress just voted itself a pay raise. Not one pay raise, mind you, but an annual increase in salary which will guarantee that no member of Congress ever again suffers from inflation.

Each year the raises will go into effect automatically for Congress, top White House assistants, the judiciary and senior members of the federal bureaucracy. Unlike the paychecks of businessmen and workers in the private sector, the salaries of our lords temporal will henceforth be inflation-proof. And Congress forevermore—when the president signs this measure—will be spared the distasteful duty of having to vote its own salary in full public view.

With the heroism we have come to associate with the new Congress, the pay hike was smuggled aboard the innocent vessel of a "postal-safety" bill. It whistled through both houses in about 24 hours, while the nation was conveniently distracted by the Helsinki summit. The measure, which swept the Senate, but passed the House by a single vote, tells us something about the "new priorities" of our political leadership.

Currently, each member of Congress earns $42,500 a year in salary. Piled on top of this are his lecture fees, lavish allowances for staff and travel and expenses. Combined with his paycheck, this puts every congressman in the top 1 per cent among Americans in terms of annual income. Not only are they the nation's political elite, thanks to their own vigilance, they are in the nation's economic elite as well. With this legislation, they are guaranteeing that their relative position in society never suffers as the consequence of the inflation for which Congress is itself largely responsible.

No matter how high they pump up the federal deficit (this year's is now somewhere around $80 billion), they will not suffer the consequences. Under the new congressional salary-insurance plan if the value of the dollar is cut in half, their pay automatically rises 50 per cent to cover the loss. The rest of the country may be going to the bow-wows, but Congress will not lose a step in the race to prosperity. Speak of conflict-of-interest. What greater conflict can there be than to use one's official position to guarantee one's economic standing?

Among the arguments made for raising their pay is that Congress—and the senior bureaucrats in government—should be paid commensurate with private enterprise else they will be lost to private enterprise. What happened to the idea that public service is a public trust, that it is the duty of a good citizen in a republic to make a sacrifice by serving in public office?

One of the causes of the enormous growth of bureaucracy in recent years—one in five working Americans is now on a public payroll—is that it has become so lucrative and so secure in comparison with the private and productive sector. Once all the economic incentives point toward the federal payroll, the chances of ever turning the situation around in America diminish toward zero.

What a change over 40 years. In the bottom of the Depression, Sen. Jennings Randolph related, when he was a young congressman, he and his colleagues looked around at the suffering of their countrymen and voted themselves a pay cut. That is the difference between those times and these, those leaders and these. We are told that by making government salaries competitive, government attracts the best of talent. When one compares the pay and quality of the 94th Congress, that argument ceases to convince.

Keeps 'em In Office

Following editorial is from the Redwood Gazette:

Some day this country will rebel, and it had better be soon, against labor union leaders whose chief tool is blackmail and who believe it to be appropriate, if not mandatory, that they direct affairs of state, commerce, transportation and agriculture, among others.

Granted it keeps them in office, because those members of their bodies who still have jobs are pleased with the additional wages and fringes. It also makes them responsible for considerable inflation, a tremendous amount of unemployment, and a chaos in government which comes from having elected senators and representatives who dare not move without first appeasing the labor louts who own them.

No better example may exist that the big noise being made by the head of the International Longshoremen's association concerning the loading of grain for shipping to the Soviet Union. The grain sales were in the news during the ILA's convention in Miami Beach, and what better way is there to achieve headlines than braying about what the nation will or won't do in a matter of this nature?

The opportunity was so exceptional that AFL-CIO president George Meany plunged in with a few ill-chosen words.

"Why should we sell them wheat at all?" Meany asked, while the ILA boss was concerned about the cost of living effect, and whether supplies are adequate for domestic consumption.

If they were actually qualified to intercede in the matter, they would know that in a normal crop year, American farmers must export two-thirds of the wheat grown, half the soybeans, a third of the corn and two-thirds of the rice and cotton.

Essential as foreign markets are to the farmer, they are no less vital to the rest of us. With exorbitant demands on employers, unions have driven considerable industrial production abroad, causing deficits in the United States' balance of payments even before the oil moguls of the Near East slugged the U.S. with greatly increased oil prices.

Without the exports of farm produce, this country and Meany's unions would have economic problems they perhaps are not capable of imagining.

Borrowed Nonsense

Once there was a man who claimed his dog could talk. He entered himself and his dog in a talent show. On stage, the man asked the dog, "What is all over a tree?"

"Bark, bark!" said the dog. The audience began to boo and hiss.

"Well, what is found on the top of a house?" said the man.

"Roof, roof!" replied the dog. The audience began throwing tomatoes at the man and his dog.

"What is the texture of sandpaper?" was the man's next question.

"Ruff! Ruff!" answered the dog. The audience began to rush the stage.

In desperation, the man asked, "Who was the greatest baseball player?"

"Ruth! Ruth!" said the dog. With that, the audience stormed and threw them off the stage.

Backstage, the dog turned to his master with a bewildered look and said, "DiMaggio?"

Olaf Talks About Trip

Olaf Stolaas left Fargo, N.D. at 3 p.m. several weeks ago and arrived in Oslo, Norway at 11 p.m. our time. It was then 5 a.m. in the morning at Oslo. It was an eight-hour non-stop flight on a D-10 Trans-International plane with 345 passengers and a crew of eight aboard. They traveled 630 mph at 32,000 feet. 28,000 gallons of fuel was used on the 246,000 lb. load.

They landed at Gardmoen military air base about 40 miles north of Oslo. There were buses ready to take to Oslo. We didn't know anyone in Norway, but we had some cousins at Rystad Satesdalen, so I rode the train to Christians and took a bus from there to Rustad. I arrived there at 6:30 the same day.

My cousins entertained me with gracious hospitality. We did a lot of sightseeing. They took me up in the mountains what they called "Hi aw" or "Sateren" where they used to milk cows and put up hay in the summer. Now it is used for cottages for weekend visits or hunting cabins. Then I drove to a church where my mother was baptized and confirmed and we could hear the noise from the waterfall not far away.

I visited the place my father came from and saw how they put up hay by hanging it on wires to dry. They called it "Hesja" this was by the "Sogne Fjord".

I saw the King's palace and the government buildings at Oslo and the "Holmen Kollen" national ski jump. I left from Norway for home on August 2 and landed at Bangor International airport in Maine and went on the customs inspection.

I did not know anyone in Norway, but now I have many friends there. I did not spend one single night at a motel as my relatives insisted I stay at their homes.

My mother and I were coffee guests at the Stolaas home last week and were shown so so many lovely souvenirs of Norway. Olaf along with his wife, Beatrice plan to take a trip to Norway again in a year or so.

Sunday visitors at Harold Haugens were Dale Hansons. Evening visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Myhrer and Galen of Grand Forks.

MINNESOTA REPORT

WALTER F. MONDALE

I detect in the Congress a new emphasis on the problems, desires and needs of the small businessmen in this country. With it comes a new realization of the constructive potential of the small business enterprise in solving our current economic problems.

There has been a tendency in this country to take for granted the service which the business community provides. We depend on business to conveniently and regularly provide us with the necessities of life - - food, clothing and shelter. Unfortunately, we haven't always heard much about the corresponding responsibilities - - governmental and personal - - which make the miracles of our economy possible.

Earlier this year I was appointed to the Senate Small Business Committee. Serving on that Committee has provided me with new insight into the workings of the business community.

In response to charges that the Administration's Emergency Tax Reduction Program favored large corporations, the Small Business Committee held hearings which showed the need for a wider distribution of the business tax reductions. As a result of those hearings, the Finance Committee, of which I am also a member, added four small business amendments which have since been enacted into law. I have now introduced a bill to continue the small business tax provisions of the Emergency Tax Bill.

The Small Business Committee is planning other investigations such as:

An investigation by a federal Commission on Paperwork of paperwork burdens of small businesses and farms. The Commission was founded largely as a result of Small Business Committee efforts.

The establishment of an Internal Revenue Service Advisory Committee on Small Business to study the peculiar problems of the small businessman. The Small Business Committee encouraged the IRS to establish the Committee.

Congress is aware of the problems of the small businessman and I will continue to work through the Small Business Committee and the Finance Committee to ensure that we can harness the enormous potential of small business.

We must be sure that, when we seek to deal with the economic problems of this nation, we remember that our biggest ally is the small businessman.

Census Taker Jobs

WORK A FEW DAYS AS A CENSUS TAKER

In the near future, the Bureau of the Census will conduct a Special Census in this area. Your community has requested it and will bear the cost. Local residents will be needed to visit each household and collect a few facts about each member such as name, age, relationship to head of the house, etc.

EXTRA MONEY

WHY A SPECIAL CENSUS?

Like many other communities that have requested a Special Census, yours stands to benefit from an official population count more up-to-date than the one established by the 1970 Census. Unless a Special Census provides a more recent population figure, this 1970 count is used until the next major Census to determine the allocation of State funds to communities and for many other purposes.

YOUR TRAINING

Before you go to work, you will attend a training session where you will learn the use of census forms and census techniques such as interviewing and map reading. A Special Census Supervisor or Crew Leader will train you, assign your work, answer your questions, and supervise and review your work.

WHEN YOU WILL WORK

Your job will last from five to ten days, including Saturdays, and you must be willing to work eight hours each day, some of which will be in the evening.

YOUR PAY

You will be paid $10 for the training session if you agree to accept an assignment, and a set amount for each person enumerated.

YOUR DUTIES

When you have successfully completed your training, you will be given one or more areas called "Enumeration Districts." Probably your first assignment will be the area in which you live. You will be given a map of this district and the necessary census forms to do the job. It will be your duty to visit each place where people live to obtain and record information about the residents. You must find all the places where people live or might live, and accurately and completely record facts about these persons.

When you accept your appointment, you assume an obligation to stay with the job until your assignment is completed.

The information you obtain is confidential and you must not disclose any of it to anyone except your supervisors on the census.

Can you qualify for Census work?

To qualify for employment with the Census Bureau an applicant MUST:

1. Be a citizen of the United States, with a high school education or the equivalent, and be at least 18 years old.
2. Pass a written test to show he can follow written instructions, do simple arithmetic, and read maps.
3. Be of high moral character.
4. Be in good physical condition for walking, climbing stairs, and standing, and have good eyesight so he can read the print on Census forms. Applicant must be able to hear normal conversation.
5. Be a resident of this area.
6. Be able to attend a training session.
7. Work full time each day, including some evening work. Since not all people will be home during the day, you will have to visit some homes during the evening.

An applicant MUST NOT:

1. Have been fired or discharged from any job because of poor performance of job, dishonesty, criminal or immoral conduct, or major unreliability.
2. Have been convicted of a violation of the law since his 21 st birthday for something other than a minor traffic violation.
3. Engage in any partisan political activity during the period employed.
4. Have been employed as tax assessor, tax collector, or law enforcement officer within the past six months.

Another Successful Pigskin Preview

Warren was the surprise team Saturday during the second annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Prowler Pigskin Preview.

Coach Howard Emerson's Ponies were the talk of the scrimmage portion of the event as Warren outscored East Grand Forks 12-0 and Thief River Falls 12-6 while tying Grand Forks Central 6-6.

Teams ran 20 offensive plays against each of the other three teams in the scrimmage part of the Preview that also included a picnic supper, an official's demonstration, an appearance by the TRFinettes and an earlier scrimmage involving the Thief River Falls junior varsity and varsity teams from Newfolden, Plummer and Goodridge.

Warren gave up only two touchdowns in the two-hour scrimmage, both long scoring plays covering 35 yards or more. Each new offensive series began at the opponent's 40-yard line. Thief River Falls scored against Warren on the ground while Grand Forks Central struck through the air.

Thief River Falls beat Grand Forks Central 12-0 in its first test, bowed to Warren 12-6 and played to a 12-12 deadlock against East Grand Forks.

East Grand Forks edged Grand Forks Central 6-0 in the other scrimmage match-up. There were no extra point tries.

Newfolden starred in the earlier scrimmage session.

Short yardage runs by Jay Kverno and Kent Ehrenstrom from three and one yard out, respectively, accounted for Thief River Falls' 12-0 effort over Grand Forks Central. Kverno, a quarterback turned running back, went 37 yards on the first play.

Another long run by Kverno, this time covering 36 yards, was the only scoring for the Prowlers in the 12-6 setback at the hands of Warren.

Quarterback Jeff Lindquist scored on a three-yard keeper and back-up signal caller Mike Wiebolt passed 23 yards to end Mark Thorstad for Prowler scoring plays in a 12-12 tie against East Grand Forks.

Attendance and money figures have not been announced for the Preview, but it was another outstanding effort on the part of the Sports Boosters Club whose efforts will benefit the entire Thief River Falls athletic program.

Carlson Back In TRF

After having just reported Neil Carlson's address at a Fargo hospital in Wednesday's paper, we're happy to report today that Carlson has returned to Thief River Falls.

Neil, seriously injured in a July 19 automobile accident near Detroit Lakes, attended Saturday's Pigskin Preview.

Changes In Area Football Conferences

North Tri County and Top of the State football conferences will have new looks this fall.

The ten-team North Tri County Conference has divided itself into two five-team divisions. Grygla, Middle River, Goodridge, Oklee and Plummer will make up the Northern Division while McIntosh, Gonvick, Clearbrook, Erskine and Mentor form the Southern Division. The division champions will meet in a post-season conference championship playoff game.

The expanded Top of the State Conference has merged with the Little Six Conference and will use a two-division format this fall. Division I will include last year's Little Six schools: Newfolden, Karlstad, Hallock, Kennedy and Argyle, along with Stephen who fills in for Oslo which dropped to nine-man football this fall. Division II will be the old Top of the State schools: Baudette, Warroad, Roseau, Greenbush, Crookston Cathedral and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart. The division champions will meet in a post-season conference championship playoff game.

Kaiser also provided the game's defensive gem with a perfect throw from shallow centerfield that nailed the potential tying run at the plate with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Warehouse Foods scored twice in the top of the seventh to expand its lead to 6-4. The Jaycees stayed alive when Paul Qualey hit a two-out double and scored on a triple by Ron Leverington. Warehouse 6, Jaycees 0

Bob Goff limited the Jaycees to just four base hits as he pitched Warehouse Foods to a 6-0 first game win in Thursday's championship series opener.

Warehouse Foods collected 16 base hits off losing pitcher Dave Olin, but nursed only a narrow 1-0 lead into the sixth when the margin went to 2-0. Larry Kaiser belted a two-run home run to ignite a four-run burst in the top of the seventh for the winners.

Warehouse 30, Popplers 9

Warehouse Foods completed a 30-9 suspended game rout of Popplers Wednesday.

Warehouse Foods let 17-4 when the game was called in the top of the seventh on Tuesday. The winners tacked 13 runs onto their total Wednesday, highlighted by Mark DuChamp's two-run home run.

Bob Goff was the winning pitcher and Mike Stewart was the loser as Warehouse Foods finished with a 27-10 base hit edge.

WAREHOUSE FOODS won the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch Commercial Division softball playoff championship Thursday by beating the Jaycees twice, 6-0, 6-5. Warehouse Foods entered the final night of the double elimination event with one loss while the Jaycees were unbeaten. Grygla In Second Season Of Football Competition

A year's worth of experience is expected to be a key factor this fall when the Grygla high school football team begins its second year of interscholastic competition.

Grygla finished 2-7 in its maiden season in 1974. Nine returning starters and that before-mentioned experience should improve that mark this year, pointed out second year Eagle coach Jerry Lindstrom. Bill Raduenz is Lindstrom's new assistant coach.

Lindstrom

Raduenz

"The year of experience is definitely going to make a difference," said Lindstrom. "The kids came back with the experience and the willingness to learn. They just didn't realize all the sacrifices needed to play this game last year. Now they know what they have to do and they have good enthusiasm."

There are currently 29 boys working with the squad. The nine returning starters are the only lettermen on hand. The nine starters, all seniors, include quarterback Gary Satre, tight end Arlo Hagen, split end Jeff Stanley, tackles Wayne Thomas and Lee Saurdiff, guard Kurt Hermanson and center Dwight Ruud.

Lindstrom points to size and speed as his team's strong points. "We have a good average size line and a fairly quick backfield," the coach said. "We don't have anyone real big in the line, but then we don't have anyone real small, either. Our backs, especially (sophomore) Gordy Moe, have the speed to go all the

Big Game Rules Available For State Hunters

A synopsis of Minnesota's 1975 big game hunting regulations has been distributed to county auditors and license agents, the department of natural resources announced recently.

Still to be sent out are the synopsis of the small game hunting regulations and the waterfowl regulations.

For many years all the hunting regulations were contained in one synopsis but last year a separate waterfowl synopsis was issued.

A separate synopsis for big game is being used this year so that deer hunters who wish to apply for a special doe permit drawing in the southern buck zone will be able to have the information needed to get their applications completed, mailed and postmarked by the August 30 deadline.

Hunters will have to ask the license agent for the copy or copies they are interested in.

New Coach Directs 1975 Newfolden Football Team

Marshall County Central high school football team, under the direction of new head coach Sam Gebhart, will open its 1975 season Friday when the Nordics visit Greenbush for a 4 p.m. Top of the State Conference ball game.

Gebhart, a Bemidji State College, Itasca community college and Park Rapids high school graduate, is currently working with a squad of 30 varsity candidates.

Fourteen lettermen, headed by senior tri-captains Jeff Sorenson, Brad Engen and Duane Floberg, provided the Nordics with a solid nucleus for a solid football team.

In Sorenson the Nordics have one of the best quarterbacks in the area. As a junior in 1974, Sorenson completed 60 of 114 pass attempts for 636 yards and 11 touchdowns when Newfolden finished with a 5-4 record.

Sorenson's favorite target a year ago, Bruce Rokke, is also back for another year of aerial fireworks. The tight end, a senior, caught 29 passes in 1974 for 416 yards, 10 touchdowns and a 16.4-yards per catch average. He led the team in scoring with 64 points.

Obviously Newfolden will pass the ball this fall. "We're counting a lot on our quarterback," confirmed Gebhart. "He's got a good arm and he's a good all-around athlete. With both Sorenson and Rokke back, we should have a pretty good passing attack."

Sophomore letterman Bob Tunheim and newcomer Joel Waterworth, a senior, should also catch a few Sorenson passes this fall as wide receivers.

Gebhart

Floberg

Sorenson

Engen

Gebhart admits his running attack is still questionable, but feels the potential is there in Floberg, junior Kevin Sethre and sophomores Scott Magner and Casey Riske—all lettermen.

The offensive line looks solid behind the likes of junior lettermen Mike Fincher and Keith Busch, both slated for duty at tackle.

Defensively, Magner may be one of the best linebackers in the conference, backed by Rokke at an end and Sorenson at a safety.

Although he sees a lot of bright spots, not all is perfect, pointed out Gebhart. "We're breaking in a new system," he warns. "If we adapt to it we'll come out alright. We're not real big and we're not real fast either. But, I don't want to cut the kids down. I think we have a real shot at having a good year."

The rest of the lettermen on the Newfolden roster include seniors Randy Skjerven and Don Moose; junior Darwin Nelson and sophomore Keith Lidemoen.

Jim Pederson serves as Gebhart's assistant coach this fall.

Newfolden will open its 1975 home schedule Fri., Sept. 5, against Baudette. The rest of the Newfolden home schedule will find the Nordics playing Fri., Sept. 19, against Roseau; Sat., Oct. 4, Argyle; Fri., Oct. 17, Stephen; and Fri., Oct. 24, Hallock. All Newfolden home games start at 7:30 p.m. except the October 4 game against Argyle which will be the Nordics' homecoming and will start at 7.

The rest of the Nordic road schedule includes Fri., Sept. 12, at Baudette, 7:30 p.m.; Fri., Sept. 26, at Kennedy, 7:30 p.m.; and Sat., Oct. 11, at Karlstad, 7 p.m.

Hunters will be limited to one trip to the stations for the season as a guest or successful applicant. Exception to this rule will be when all hunters without a previous visit have been accommodated on a given date, hunters with a previous visit will then be permitted to hunt. Entry to the controlled hunting zone will be permitted at 5 a.m. by reservation, and 6 and 9 a.m. by drawing.

Additional information on how to apply for a reservation can be obtained by writing to the Thief Lake wildlife management area, or by calling 218-222-3747.

Grygla Starting Second Season

way if they can get in the open."

Headed by Satre and Moe, Grygla will feature a predominately ground-orientated offense attack out of a wishbone-type and slot formations.

Defensively the Eagles will probably go with a 5-3 or 6-2 alignment, headed by Thomas at nose guard. Satre is expected to be a top-notch defensive back.

Lack of experience among back-up personnel is Lindstrom's biggest concern at this stage.

Other members of the Grygla ball club include senior Steve Anderson; juniors Rocky Hagen, Allan Lunsetter, Bruce Mugaas, Tom Olson, Donavon Verbout and Dale Warne; sophomores Tony Moe, Bob Norby, Mark Polansky, Steve Rundell, Tom Morrissey, Maurice Lunsetter and Brian Stanley; and freshmen Bruce Jelle, Jim Morrissey, Terry Ruud, Trent Stanley, Paul Norby, Paul Lillevold and Rex Brawley.

Grygla will open its 1975 season Friday when the Eagles travel to McIntosh for a 7:30 p.m. ball game against the Scots, picked by Lindstrom to win North Tri County Conference honors this fall, along with Oklee.

Grygla will open its home season schedule a week later, September 5, by hosting Goodridge in a 1:30 p.m. contest.

The rest of Grygla's home schedule, all 1:30 p.m. games, will find the Eagles playing Fri., Sept. 12, against Middle River; Fri., Oct. 3, Erskine; Fri., Oct. 10, Clearbrook; and Wed., Oct. 15, Mentor.

Other Grygla road games will be played Fri., Sept. 19, at Plummer, 8 p.m.; Fri., Sept. 26, at Oklee, 7:30 p.m.; and Fri., Oct. 24, at Gonvick, 1:30 p.m.

Minnesota's frog season will remain closed during 1975, the department of natural resources announced recently.

The season was closed last year because of a massive die off of frogs from a disease called "red leg". Officials said a survey just completed of the state's major frog producing zone shows that the population is still too low to allow a season.

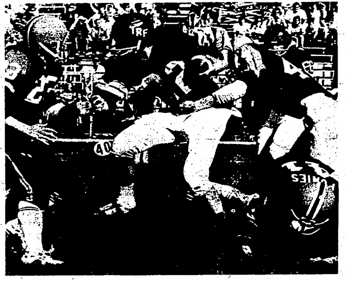
GENERAL REVENUE SHARING
ACTUAL USE REPORT ⑤



PROWLER HALFBACK Jay Kverno picked his way through a maze of Warren tacklers Saturday during the scrimmage portion of the second annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Prowler Pigskin Preview. Thief River Falls will open its 1975 football season Friday at Grand Forks Red River. The Prowler home opener is scheduled Fri., Sept. 5, against Detroit Lakes.

HARLAN RUDE, Warehouse Foods catcher, tagged out Jaycee base runner Steve Beich on a play at the plate during Thursday night's Thief River Falls men's slow pitch Commercial Division softball playoff championship encounter. The once-beaten Warehouse Foods ball club swept the previously unbeaten Jaycees 6-0 and 6-5 to win the double elimination tournament.

Public Hearings Set To Propose More Musky Lakes

Minnesota department of natural resources has scheduled public hearings to present a plan to designated four more Minnesota lakes for muskellunge management.

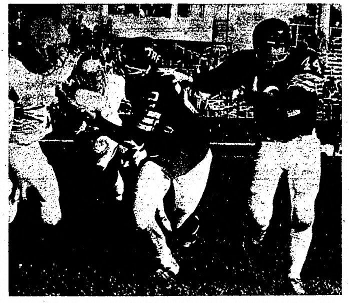
Lakes so designated are stocked with muskies and darkhouse spearing is prohibited. Officials explained that spearing is banned because the similarity in appearance between muskies and northern pike makes it difficult to identify the fish before the spear is thrown.

A proposal to designate Big Lake and South Twin Lake in Beltrami county for muskellunge management will be reviewed at a public hearing on Wed., Aug. 13, at the DNR's regional headquarters in Bemidji starting at 2 p.m.

On Thurs., Aug. 14, in Longville a public hearing will be held on Wabedo Lake and Inguadona Lake in Cass county for the same purpose.

The hearing will be held in the elementary school starting at 10:30 a.m.

Under the law the commissioner of natural resources may designate a maximum of 40 lakes for musky management, providing the total acreage of such waters does not exceed 40,000.



THIEF RIVER FALLS runningback Mike Jury gave teammate Jay Kverno a helping hand in directing a block as he tried to pick up yardage against East Grand Forks during Saturday's Sports Boosters Prowler Pigskin Preview. Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Warren and Grand Forks Central took part in the scrimmage portion of the event on the Prowler athletic field. Also included in the Preview was an earlier scrimmage involving the Thief River Falls junior varsity and varsity teams from Newfolden, Plummer and Goodridge; a picnic supper; an official's demonstration; and an appearance by the TRFinettes. Thief River Falls opens its 1975 football season Friday at Grand Forks Red River.

Fall Party

Eitht towns are combining to sponsor the 19th annual Stu and Dee Mann's Minnesota Ourdoors Operation October fall party in Viking-Land, U.S.A.

The towns are Dent, Frazee, Heming, New York Mills, Ottertail, Perham, Richville and Vergas.

The dates for this year's event are October 3, 4 and 5, enabling guest participants to enjoy Minnesota's fall season while taking advantage of the duck season and famous fall fishing during their colorful panorama weekend.

Each year, operation October fall party is staged in a different resort area. This year's event again highlights Minnesota's gracious hospitality which is being sponsored by the Perham resort association. Its member resorts will provide the finest of resort accommodations, motors, boats and guides. Area businessmen and Chambers of Commerce will provide bountiful meals, refreshments and door prizes. The market research division, department of agriculture, state of Minnesota, will host the Sunday morning brunch.

Guests are outdoor newsmen and their wives from six or seven states. These include writers of magazines, newspapers, radio and television stations and authors. Among the honored guests will be writers from the state of Minnesota's department of tourism, marketing division, department of agriculture, fish and wildlife department and conservation department. Several writers and their wifes representing the AAA are arriving from four states.

Operation October fall party is a copywrited, privately owned promotional party originated, organized and conducted annually by Minnesota's man and wife outdoor writing team, Stu and Dee Mann, who syndicate their columns, "Minnesota Outdoors" to Minnesota newspapers.

Mrs. Mann also authors and publishes vacation and travel guide books. Stu Mann is the ad space salesman for the publications. He also is a sports broadcaster on several stations in Minnesota and Illinois. Mr. Mann will emcee the weekend banquets. Mrs. Mann will supervise the invitational lists and lodging of weekend guests. Ed Savoie and Al Holm of Perham area resort association, are area chairmen.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

Plummer public schools have announced 1975-76 policy for free meals and free milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the national school lunch and special milk programs. School officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

Family Size	Income
1	$ 3,230
2	$ 4,240
3	$ 5,250
4	$ 6,260
5	$ 7,190
6	$ 8,110
7	$ 8,950
8	$ 9,790
9	$10,550
10	$11,310
11	$12,060
Each additional family member	$ 750

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free meals and free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expences of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in the Plummer school. Information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy, Supt. Edward L. Arntson will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Merlin Carlson, Red Lake Falls, Minnesota 56750 — 465-3123 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

Each school and the office of the superintendent has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

U.S. Individual Retirement Bond Now Available

Department of the Treasury has placed on sale U.S. individual retirement bonds. They are specifically designed for investment by persons who lack coverage by any other retirement plan. The Bonds are issued pursuant to the provisions of the employee retirement income security act of 1974.

They are sold at face value in denominations of $50, $100 and $500. Interest accrues at the rate of six per cent per year, compounded semiannually, and is payable upon redemption.

Individual retirement bonds may be purchased from any federal reserve bank or branch, or directly from the treasury department. They may be registered in either single ownership or beneficiary form, in the names of natural persons only. Individual retirement bonds are nontransferable; they cannot be sold or used as collateral.

The new bonds permit persons, who work for employers unable to finance a pension plan, to set aside a portion of their annual income—up to a yearly limit of $1,500, or 15 per cent of gross income, whichever is less—for retirement. The amount set aside annually is deductible from gross income for federal income tax purposes.

Because they are deisgned to be used for personal retirement, the bonds carry certain redemption restrictions. During the first year after issue, they may be redeemed without interest or penalty. They may be cashed, with a tax penalty, until the owner reaches age 59½ after which the bonds may be redeemed without penalty. The bonds may, however, be cashed without penalty, at any time until maturity, for the purpose of changing investments.

In addition, bonds may be cashed without penalty before age 59½ in cases of disability. The maturity date is the first day of the month in which the bondowner reaches age 70½, or five years after the date of the owner's death, whichever is earlier. Both principal and interest are reportable for federal income tax purposes, at time of redemption or maturity.

Complete regulations covering the individual retirement bond may be found in treasury department circular, public debt series 1-75.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin.

Former Pioneer Recalls Life Here In Early 1900

(Editor's Note; Ole Hellie, who moved to eastern Pennington county at age three in 1906, has submitted to the county historical society a number of recollections about early days in the Reiner township area. He moved from this area in 1930 and presently resides at 1235 32nd street in Des Moines, Ia. His recollections follow.)

by Ole I. Hellie

My earliest memory dates back to 1906, when I was three and my family had recently moved to Reiner township from a farm near Grygla, 12 miles north. My one, still quite vivid, image is of myself, in a flannel nightgown, standing with my mother and her "hired girl" (a family friend from Grygla) in the living room of our two-room house that had been moved from Grygla on sleighs the preceding spring.

TIMES FEATURE

My next memory, later in the year, is of watching my father and one or more neighbors building the house that was to be our home for more than 20 years. It had a fairly large kitchen, in which we ate our meals; living room, with a trap-door to the cellar; a downstairs bedroom that could accommodate three double beds; and an upstairs room (later divided) that could accommodate three more double beds. The stairs were quite steep, and it seemed that I was frequently rolling down them.

My first specific memory of life in this house is from the spring of 1907, when at the age of 4½ I decided to go to school; my image is of myself standing on a kitchen chair to comb my hair.

Also vivid in my memory is my first walk to school that day, with my older brother James. The "schoolhouse" was the home of the John Miller family, a mile south of ours. There were no graded roads, so Jim and I walked atop a ridge along a beaver ditch that spanned much of the distance.

The Miller family had "proved up" the homestead and moved back to Thief River Falls for some years, hence use of the house as a school.

Not yet disciplined to school customs, despite admonishment from older girls, I stood up one day—perhaps the first—and looked out the windows. To the dismay of older pupils, and probably the teacher, I yelled out "Skunk!" seeing one ambling across the yard. A family of skunks had made their home under the house. A group of men and older boys gathered one evening and killed them. The next day some older boys built a fire and burned the skinned carcasses. One big boy picked me up and held me above the fire. Since our parents were friends, I was confident he wouldn't hurt me.

In the spring of 1908, I believe, school was opened in a new one-room building on the Jorgenson farm adjoining ours on the southeast (my father later purchased this farm, and deeded two acres to the school district.) A nearby grove had big poplars, oaks and willows, as well as wild berries and rose bushes.

In retrospect, school seems to have been largely a series of recess-time play periods—before school, 15 minutes in mid-morning, an hour at noon, and 15 minutes in mid-afternoon. Whatever the season, outdoor play was inclined to be strenuous, and we probably were more willing to settle down quietly for class work than do some city pupils I have since observed.

In one era, some years later, our recess time was less devoted to athletics. Some of us built an attic floor in the boys' outhouse, and as many as could would crowd up there and spent all available time playing what we called poker. One year another boy and I played "poker" between us in a double seat at the rear of the school room.

At a time when I was, I think, about 10, some of the boys had access to a grocery store. They would help themselves to various tobaccos, and share it at school. So during recesses we would roll and smoke cigarettes, chew plug tobacco and use snuff. I became violently ill from my first chew of plug, and thereafter never really liked the taste of tobacco although I smoked from the age of about 25 to 55.

In the meantime, we did have studies. Each class moved to the front row of seats for questions by the teacher. A pupil could go as fast as he was able in each subject—I was in eighth grade reading at 10, and passed the state examination at 11, excusing me from further work in that subject. I think I received a good grounding in arithmetic, geography and spelling. Our history book was almost entirely an account of how well we did in battles of the Revolutionary War, War of 1812, the Civil War, the Mexican war and the Cuban war.

I loathed our grammar book, and got only a 57 in my last state examination in it—an ironic twist, as much later I was for 27 years a top authority on the English language for the "Newspaper Iowa Depends Upon". But I did a great deal of newspaper and book reading from an early age, and presumably learned something about the use of words in high school and college.

Although my parents believed in hard work for their children as well as for themselves, and we had chores mornings, evenings and Saturdays, I recall boyhood on a farm as on the whole very pleasant.

A major boyhood summer activity was picking wild strawberries. Mother paid us five to 10 cents a quart and she canned 100 to 200 quarts a year. During the season we ate all we could fresh, with cream and sugar. I have since eaten in restaurants and homes in a great many countries, but have never found anything as satisfying as those strawberries of Reiner before the prairies were plowed.

Our favorite summer sport was baseball, in one of our pastures or on neighboring McEnelly farm. Our group included my older brother James, Guy and Roy McEnelly, Bennett Johnsrud, and Obert and Oluf Vraa. At one time we were joined by our cousin Gunder Logvold, whose family came out from Thief River Falls to homestead a Reiner farm. He was our best pitcher. We didn't usually have enough boys for two teams, so we played move-up, rotating batting and field positions. Occasionally we would assemble a full team and play the west school (district 57) team. I recall one game we lost 49-50.

We boys also earned spending money in various other ways. We trapped weasels in winter, whose skins were worth $1 to $2. In summer father paid three to five cents each for trapped gophers. At age eight each boy was given a calf, which we could sell a couple years later to buy bicycles, etc. In pre-auto days we rode everywhere on bikes in summer, except to school. In winter we used skis, made by our father on a Norwegian pattern. Racing over crisp snow was exhilerating fun. We had no hills for sliding, but we usually had some conveniently-shaped strawstacks.

We started doing farm and household chores at an early age. The first assignment I recall was carrying several buckets of water from the pump each morning to crocks in the kitchen. At age 10 we started milking a cow morning and evening, and later we helped feed livestock hay and grains.

Father started farming with two horses, later adding a third and a fourth. Breaking prairie sod with a two-horse plow was slow, so he once hired a Swede to break five acres with a team of oxen. We thought his oxen and his speech were very amusing, as most of our acquaintances spoke Norwegian.

Our third horse, Bill, was reputed to have been born wild in the west, and never became fully tamed. He had a knack for shaking off his bridle, and starting a runaway. Once this happened on the way home from church. Mother was thrown out of the buggy and broke an arm.

Some of our higher land had many stones of various sizes, presumably left by glaciers. As father broke this land with a walking plow, Jim and-or I would often follow with pick or spade digging out the stones, which we later hauled off by wagon or stoneboat. Each field would have one or more big stonepiles. In later years my brothers have dug great holes with bulldozers and buried the stone piles. If someone in the distant future should try to dig there, he might indeed be puzzled, as we are by Stonehenge in England or the menhirs in Brittany.

Old Food Stamps Can Be Traded For New Sunday

"Food stamp recipients will be able to exchange old food stamps for new ones after the old stamps expire on Sunday," states Dennis M. Doyle, regional administrator of the food and nutrition service, U.S. department of agriculture.

"Until August 31, food stamp recipients may use their old stamps in authorized retail food stores," Doyle said. "After that date, recipients will be able to exchange the old stamps at local food stamp offices designated by state agencies. The exchange will be dollar for dollar, new food stamps for old."

USDA introduced the new food stamp series on March 1, 1975. The new $1, $5, and $10 denominations replace the 50-cent, $2 and old $5 stamps.

The amendment to the food stamp program regulations were published in the federal register of August 22, and effective immediately upon publication.

Ashbach Speaks Out On Policy Of Governor

Governor's growing practice of hiring outside consultants for advice on important issues may be indicative of a deeper problem in the administration, Senate minority leader Robert Ashbach said recently.

"While other governors are winning national acclaim for innovative cost-cutting practices, our governor seems to be either traveling out of the state or hiring expensive consultants instead of relying on his already highly paid appointees," Ashbach said.

"This apparent lack of concern for spending is especially upsetting since it comes at a time when all unnecessary government expenditures properly are under scrutiny because of New York's financial mess. This causes us to wonder of the governor is really attuned to the thinking of the people in our state."

The senator said that he was especially disappointed to learn that the governor recently hired Grant Merritt, the former executive director of the Minnesota pollution control agency, to advise him on the Reserve Mining case and other environmental issues.

Reportedly, under the terms of the contract, Merritt, who is now in private practice, will be paid $44 an hour up to $25,000 annually for his consultation.

Ashbach noted that this expense is in addition to other highly paid consultants the governor has hired in the past year such as Francis Boddy, the University of Minnesota professor who did most of the work on the state budget.

"All this would seem to either indict the competence of the governor's appointees, or show that he has no interest in setting cost-cutting examples like governors in neighboring states who have gained national publicity for their actions," Ashbach said.

The senator noted that in Wisconsin the governor moved from his mansion to his private home to save $50,000 and Iowa's governor slashed $300 million in budget requests.

"But last month when our governor appeared on the nationally televised Meet the Press program he was unable to mention even one significant cost-saving measure he had taken," said Ashbach, adding that when the governor returns from Sweden Thursday he will have been out of the state an average of two days a week since the first of the year.

UMC Enrollment Rises Sharply During Summer

Enrollment during the summer session at the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston (UMC), has risen almost 25 per cent in 1975, according to official figures released by the university.

A total of 224 students have taken summer classes or been serving their internships this year. This represents an increase of 50 enrollees above the 174 students registered during the 1974 summer session. Not included in the current head count are a number of student interns who have yet to complete the registration process.

Males outnumber females this summer by a 125 to 99 margin, student profile data shows.

Cost Sharing Available For Flooded Farms

Farms with severe damage to farmland resulting from the July flood may receive financial assistance for repairs, according to Kermit Finstad, chairman of the Pennington county ASC committee.

Special funds through the emergency conservation measures program have been received, and cost sharing can be approved for removing debris from farmland; grading, shaping or releveling severely damaged farmland; restoring permanent fences; restoring conservation structures; filling washouts on farmland; and cleaning drainage ditches that have silted in.

Evaluations of farms requesting assistance are made by the ASC committee to determine if the damage is unusual in character and is not the type which would recur frequently, materially affects the productive capacity of the farmland, if not treated will impair or endanger the land, or will be so costly to correct that the farmer cannot do it without federal assistance.

Applications are now being taken with maximum cost sharing not to exceed 80 per cent of the cost.

Non-Smoking Bill Aired By ANSR Representative

by Paul Forsberg
Times Reporter

Minnesota clean indoor air act, a new bill passed by the state legislature to regulate smoking at public places and public meetings, has been the cause of considerable controversy regarding its merits, and considerable confusion regarding its implementation. Ed Brandt, legislative chairman for the association of non-smokers rights, one of the prime supporters of the bill in the legislature, said it is important that the public be educated about the true contents and merits of the bill in order to cooperate with its spirit.

Brandt visited Thief River Falls Tuesday to attempt some education through discussions with city residents and the news media.

According to Brandt, the bill was passed to protect the rights of non-smokers, who can be adversely affected by cigarette fumes even though they don't smoke. "We are not saying you can't smoke," Brandt said. "We just do not think non-smokers should be forced to endanger their health by breathing the fumes."

Brandt pointed to medical studies which indicate the inhalation of cigarette smoke can aggravate respiratory disorders, increase the possibility of strokes to persons with weak hearts, cause headaches, and be the source of varying degrees of eye and nasal irritation—among other things.

The bill prohibits smoking at public places and public meetings except in designated smoking areas. Smoking is permissable in: The private offices of smokers; public halls serving private functions; and bars, if a sign is posted declaring the bar to be a smoking area in its entirety.

Designation of certain areas in a public place for smoking and non-smoking must be done by proprietors who wish to allow smoking in their establishments. However at this point regulations have not been made to establish proportions in these areas. The legislature has directed the state board of health to adopt the rules and regulations necessary to implement the act.

"We think that since about 63 per cent of the state adult population does not smoke (according to polls) about half of a public place should be designated a non-smoking area," Brandt said. "But this would vary depending on circumstances."

The status of businesses not frequented by the general public is also undecided. The department of labor and industry, in consultation with the board of health, has been directed to establish rules in places of work.

The conclusions of the department of labor and industry and the board of health will be forthcoming in several months following a lengthy process of conferences and hearings. When the regulations are decided, a violator can be charged with a petty misdemeanor, and the day will have arrived when a law officer can walk into a restaurant and issue a ticket for illegal smoking.

Brandt maintained, however, that arrests and court cases are secondary to the purposes of ANSR. "We won't be planning any test cases until we've tried every other way to receive the cooperation of the public," he said.

Unemployment Rate Drops For Month Of July

Minnesota's unemployment rate was 5.9 per cent in July, down .6 per cent from the June rate of 6.5 per cent, commissioner Emmet J. Cushing, Minnesota department of employment services, said recently.

The July rate was 2.3 per cent above July a year ago and compares with a national rate of 8.7 per cent for July. None of these rates are seasonally adjusted. (The national seasonally adjusted rate for July was 8.4 per cent and is the publicly announced rate.)

The number of persons unemployed in Minnesota in July was 107,700, down 12,900 from June but up 41,500 from July a year ago. The number of persons employed in July was 1,731,600, down 6,700 from June and 35,800 below July a year ago.

Minnesota's labor force in July was 1,839,200 persons, down 19,700 from June but 5,600 more than July of last year.

First Disaster Loan Check Is Issued By SBA

Gene Holtmeyer, loan officer with the Small Business administration, announced that the first disaster loan check was distributed Wednesday in Moorhead. The check made payable to Martin H. and Phyllis A. Tonn is to be used for restoring their home which was severely damaged as a result of the flooding in early July.

Fifteen counties in northwestern Minnesota were declared disaster areas by President Gerald Ford because of damage to homes and small businesses.

SBA is authorized to make long-term, low-interest rate loans for the purpose of restoring property in the following counties: Aitkin, Beltrami, Chisago, Clay, Itasca, Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau, Wilkin and Winona and the Becker townships of Atlanta, Spring Creek and Wallworth.

Farmers should report to the Farmers Home administration for disaster loans since they are not eligible for SBA disaster loans.

The Small Business administration disaster headquarters is located in the post office building, room 106, Moorhead. Holtmeyer indicated that September 22 is the last date for filing disaster loan applications with the Small Business administration.

Opening Day Enrollment Down 57 At TRF Public Schools

Back To School . . .

. . . . Determined

. . . . Eager

. . . . Enthusiastic

Opening day enrollment at Thief River Falls public schools show a decline from the previous year for the second year in a row, according to figures provided by the office of the superintendent of schools. Opening day enrollments are not final figures but do provide a basis for year-to-year comparison.

Enrollment when local schools opened today totaled an even 3,200 students in kindergarten through grade 12. This represents a decline of 57 from the mark of 3,257 recorded on opening day a year ago. Last year's first day total represented a drop of 38 from the 1973-74 school year.

Lincoln high school enrollment dropped slightly from 1,104 last year to 1,095 today. Franklin middle school had the most substantial drop, noting only 769 enrolled this year as compared to 828 in 1974. Other enrollments this morning (with last year's comparative figures in parentheses) include the following: St. Hilaire, 147 (141); Mark Twain, 217 (224); Northrop, 303 (324); Washington, 321 (313); and Knox, 348 (323).

By grades the Lincoln enrollment shows 298 in grade nine, 262 in grade 10, 270 in grade 11 and 265 in grade 12. These compare with last year's respective marks of 270, 288, 290 and 256.

Franklin enrollment shows 241 in grade six, 261 in grade seven and 267 in grade eight. Last year the enrollment was 268 in grade six, 269 in grade seven and 291 in grade eight.

Enrollment at the elementary schools by grades includes the following:

St. Hilaire—Kindergarten, 29; grade one, 23; grade two, 19; grade three, 24; grade four, 28; and grade five, 24;

Mark Twain—Kindergarten, 54; grade one, 47; grade two, 29; grade three, 25; grade four, 24; and grade five, 27 (These enrollments are exclusive of nine hard of hearing and two nursery school students who are included in the total school figure);

Northrop—Kindergarten, 50; grade one, 42; grade two, 54; grade three, 48; grade four, 55; and grade five 54;

Washington — Kindergarten, 54; grade one, 53; grade two, 51; grade three, 52; grade four, 57; and grade five, 54;

Knox—Kindergarten, 55; grade one, 51; grade two, 57; grade three, 50; grade four, 53; and grade five, 56. (These enrollments are exclusive of 26 students included in the school total but involved in special education programs of one type or another.)

Two Major Issues Discussed By City

Two major issues confronting Thief River Falls, teamster negotiations for municipal employee contracts for 1975-76, and the medical office building addition to Northwestern hospital, were the subject of debate and resolutions last night (Tuesday) during the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council in the city auditorium council chambers.

The council passed a resolution, moved by Roger Worth, chairman of the council labor committee, and seconded by Arnold Narverud, rejecting a union proposal calling for wage increases totaling $110,000 over a two-year period. Worth, Narverud, Fred Sorensen, Ole Engelstad and Mayor Robert Carlson voted in favor of rejection, Ambrose Wysoski and William Penning abstained. Alderman Milton Reierson was absent.

The city employees agreed on the proposal after a vote Thursday, which followed 10 months of negotiations between the city and the union. The council's highest offer, which was recommended by a mediator but rejected by the union, was $92,000 in total increases over a two-year period. Both proposals included approximately $9,000 in equity adjustments to employees.

A breakdown of the union proposal shows that the employees would receive a 40 cent per hour raise January 1, 1975 (retroactive), an additional 10 cent per hour July 1, 1975 (retroactive) and a 40 cent per hour hike January 1, 1976. Although the total increases are $110,000, the increased direct labor cost to the city (exclusive of fringe benefits) over a two-year period was estimated at $175,000.

The $92,000 city proposal includes a 35 cent per hour raise January 1, 1975, 4 cents on July 1, 1975, 25 cents on January 1, 1976 and 10 cents on July 1, 1976. The additional direct labor cost to the city was estimated at $148,000 over a two-year period.

With a difference in excess of $25,000 prevailing between the two proposals, the city regarded the union offer as far too costly. Before casting his vote, Mayor Carlson, disappointed that the prolonged negotiations would continue, said "I would have hoped the mediator could have helped us come to an agreement."

Another disagreement developed later when Norman P. Peterson, executive vice president of Northwestern hospital, and Marvin Lundin, vice chairman of the board of trustees, discussed proposed board action concerning the disposition of certain hospital property.

In a meeting Monday, the council was informed by letter, the hospital board determined that serious consideration should be given to disposing of property located on block 58 north of the hospital on LaBree avenue which was acquired by the hospital for development of a medical building but ultimately not utilized. In addition, the board indicated a ten foot strip on west line of lots 3 through 16 would remain as city property on a lease which stipulated that the hospital would receive title to the medical office building at the end of a 30-year bond repayment period.

The council balked at the assumptions expressed in both proposals, maintaining the city was entitled to the 50 foot area (which is presently being used for public parking next to the Lind Motor supply building) in exchange for city property acquired by the hospital, and that the city, not the hospital, would receive title to the medical office building at the end of the 30-year repayment period. Councilmen maintained that publicity prior to the hospital bond elections had assured voters (and the councilmen) that ownership of the medical building would revert back to the city.

Although, as Lundin pointed out, the hospital is not legally required to present any property to the city and no written agreements state that title of the medical office facility will ultimately rest with the city, councilmen said the hospital board was morally obligated to make these concessions to the city in order to comply with the spirit under which the hospital bond issues were passed.

After an extended period of discussion, the council delayed action on the matter pending future discussion of alternatives. However, two resolutions affecting the medical office building were passed.

A resolution moved by Sorensen and seconded by Penning awarded bids on the $2,800,000 general obligation temporary hospital bonds to be used for financing of construction. The low bid (presented Tuesday afternoon) was by First Northwestern state bank of Thief River Falls, with bonds to be made payable at Northwestern national bank of Minneapolis.

Review County Historical Book

To review activity and coordinate current actions on the Pennington county historical book now being compiled, Neil Kimmel of the publishing firm will meet with Pennington county historical society members and township history chairmen on Thursday, September 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the city auditorium meeting room.

"This meeting is only for purposes of compiling and improving the book project," states Mrs. Inga Geving, president of the county historical society. "Mr. Kimmel will answer questions and every township chairman and anyone else interested in assisting with publication of the book should plan to attend."

The county society president said that histories for the book have been coming in well with some outstanding stories being received.

"In reviewing the early history of Pennington county," she said, "we must recount the contributions of an outstanding pioneer Lutheran clergyman, Rev. Halvor Bjornson. He came to this area in 1898 and served churches in the Silverton and Mavie area, living on a farm 11 miles east of Thief River Falls.

"Rev. Bjornson had many talents. He was known for his interest in preservation of the Norwegian culture, his poetic ability, great physical strength, his daring experiences and his exceptional memory," Mrs. Geving said.

The story is told that one day Rev. Bjornson asked a boy in his confirmation class what he wanted to be when he grew up. "One thing I know for sure," the lad replied, "I'll never get married." When asked why, he replied "Because that is a great sin." The pastor persisted in asking the boy what he would do. "Oh, I'll be a peddler," he said. "He has beautiful lace in his satchel."

The peddlers of that day would go from place to place with many items to sell, carrying their wares on their backs as they journeyed from home to home. The boy never did become a traveling peddler, Mrs. Geving said, but he did get married and still lives between Goodridge and Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Geving also recalls the tale of Rev. Bjornson refusing to pay a toll for crossing a corduroy bridge and becoming involved in a fight with the cantankerous would-be land owner and toll collector. As the story goes, the fight was physical enough so that the bridge keeper had three fingers bitten off in the battle.

Other early ministers in the area were listed by Mrs. Geving as Rev. V. Aakre and Rev. E. O. Sabo, serving the parishes of Goodridge and Grygla. Rev. Henry Lutz, a young German pastor, reportedly died on the operating table while having his tonsils removed at the age of 28.

"We hope that people familiar with the stories of early clergymen will make the effort to submit them for the book," Mrs. Geving said. "And we also urge them to hurry because time is passing quickly toward story compilation deadlines."

Judge Orders Investigation Before Sentence

District Judge Warren A. Saetre ordered a pre-sentence investigation before sentencing Reynaldo Martinez, 23, of San Antonio, Texas, who pleaded guilty to aggravated assault in connection with a recent shooting death near East Grand Forks, during his arraignment in Pennington county district court Monday.

Rudolph Corona was found guilty of second degree murder July 25 in Crookston for allegedly shooting Ruben Rios, at the Frank Mack farm June 21. Rios was one of three men who were approaching Martinez and Corona that night.

Martinez, during questioning by Judge Saetre and public defender John Roue, Fosston, admitted firing a single shot into the ground in front of his nephew Juan Martinez (another of the three approachers) in an attempt to scare him.

Martinez' guilty plea was the result of negotiations between Roue and Polk county attorney John A. Winters. In return for the plea, a recommendation that Martinez be placed on probation was given the court. Acceptance of that agreement by Judge Saetre is to be ruled upon when the pre-sentence investigation is completed and Martinez appears for sentencing. Corona is also awaiting sentencing.

"Make It With Wool" Contest Entries Needed

"Despite the heat, now is the time to plan on entering the Make It Yourself with Wool Contest which will be held at the Northland community college in Thief River Falls on November 1," states Mrs. Wilbur Hallstrom, Pennington county chairman.

Fabric stores have their new wools in, so now is the best time to get your pick of fabric. Although the wool need not be manufactured in the United States, just be sure your material is at least 70 per cent wool.

DeEtte Stamnes of Lake Bronson has sent in the first entry in the senior division before going off to college. She has made and will model two pants suits. She will have a double chance of placing in the District Contest!

Pre-teens (10-13) take part only in district competition; junior (14-16), senior (17-21) and adult (over 21) winners will all advance to the state contest.

Anyone in nearby North Dakota is invited to participate in the Thief River Falls district I contest. Garments need not be finished before the entry is sent in. Home agents, fabric stores and county chairmen have entry blanks, or you may write to: Mrs. Gunder Legvold, District I Director, 325 North Tindolph, Thief River Falls.

Main Crossing Causes Variance In River Depth

Due to construction of a water main crossing at Greenwood street and the Red Lake River, the U.S. Corps of Engineers has closed the dam at Red Lake from Tuesday through Monday, causing the river water level to fluctuate sharply, John T. Anderson, superintendent of utilities reported.

Anderson said the water above the Thief River Falls dam will vary from two to three feet below normal to two feet above normal, but will reach its lowest level Saturday and will retain the same approximate depth until Tuesday or Wednesday. He added that the water below the dam will be very shallow during this period.

The work could be completed sooner than expected. If so, the period of fluctuation will be shorter, the superintendent said.

Sherryl R. Dahle Weds Robert A. Hansen At Zion

Two white, nine-globe, candelabra graced with multi-colored miniature carnations, greens and spring bows, formed the setting at Zion Lutheran church in this city for the recent wedding of Miss Sherryl R. Dahle and Robert A. Hansen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thormon Dahle of this city and the groom is the son of Mrs. Alice Hansen, also of this city, and the late Lavern Hansen.

Rev. Alexander Stoffel officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. James Dalager was the organist and Karl Dalager, the guitarist. For the processional, Mrs. Dalager played Handel's "Praise Be To Thee." The recessional was Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary." During the ceremony, Greg Herling, a friend of the couple, sang, "Precious and Few," "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride and groom were escorted to the altar by their parents. They were followed by the bridesmaids, who were escorted by the groom's attendants.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown designed by Mori Lee Fashions of New York. The gown, fashioned of organza over satin, featured a princess styled front and an attached chapel-length train trimmed with Venice lace. Re-embroidered lace trimmed the fitted sheer sleeves, complemented at the wrists by flair cuffs. Miniature pearls outlined the scooped neckline. Her veil, edged with matching lace, was held in place by a Camelot headpiece trimmed with Venice lace, rows of miniature pearls and flowers. She carried a cascade of pink sensation roses, white mini-carnations, trailing ivy, and babies breath.

Cyndi Dahle of Cando, N.D., a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink mylair chiffon daisy flocked print over a pink polyworld underskirt. The gown was styled with butterfly sleeves, a low V-neckline and a high waistline featuring a sash that tied in back.

Other attendants were Mrs. Debbie Pritchard of Park Rapids, sister of the groom, Renae Joppru and Mary Grundhaus of Minneapolis, friends of the bride, and Miss Shirley Hansen of this city, another sister of the groom. Their gowns, fashioned like the maid of honor's were in lilac, mint green, yellow and blue. Each carried a white satin parasol with white lace edging, trimmed with clusters of miniature carnations, cornflowers and babies' breath, with spring ribbon streamers on the ivory handles. The miniature carnations on each parasol were the same color as the gown worn by the attendant.

Wearing a similar gown, only in white, was the flower girl, Amy Pritchard of Park Rapids, niece of the groom. She wore a white picture hat and carried a basket of multi-colored miniature carnations, cornflowers and babies' breath, corresponding with the attendants' colors.

Miniature bride was Sheila Malony of Fridley, a niece of the groom. Her gown of white nylair chiffon over satin with Venice lace trim was styled like the bride's. Similar lace trimmed the headpiece that held her floor-length veil, edged with appliqued Venice leaves. Her bouquet was a miniature replica of the bride's.

Best man was Jim Gunstad of St. Hilaire, a friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Rod Ernst and Jeff Fournier, friends of the groom, Michael Hansen of Morris, brother of the bride, and Michael Dahl, a brother of the bride. All wore white Newport tuxedos, white ruffled shirts with black edgings, black bow ties and single carnation boutonnieres to match the colors of the gowns worn by the bridesmaids. The groom's Newport tuxedo was complemented by white braid trim, a crossover vest and a boutonniere of three pink roses. Wearing similar attire was John Matson of this city, a cousin of the bride, who served as miniature groom. Travis Overbye of this city, a cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a white satin pillow. He also wore a white Newport tuxedo.

The ushers, who also lite the candles at the beginning of the ceremony, were Mark Nelson, a cousin of the bride, and Lee Rupprecht, a friend of the groom.

The mother of the bride wore a light blue floor-length gown with a V-neckline and long full sleeves. Her accessories were in white and her corsage was of pink roses and carnations. The mother of the groom wore a gown of the same style, only in peach color, accented by a corsage of yellow roses and carnations.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Matson, grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Erickson of Minneapolis, god parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Nelson of Yankton, S.D., the bride's sponsors, and the bride's personal attendants, Karen Overbye of St. Paul, cousin of the bride, and Shelly Melin, a friend of the bride.

A reception for 300 guests followed. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Erickson of Minneapolis, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Malony of Fridley, brother-in-law and sister of the groom. Mrs. Michael Hansen of Morris, sister-in-law of the groom, registered the guests as Miss Janice Matson of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Reuben Dahle of Cando, N.D., aunts of the bride, served the punch.

Highlighting the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake, iced in white, decorated with pink roses, and featuring a lighted water fountain. Two smaller cakes, which supported a filigreed bridge with a miniature wedding party. A pedestal ornament with feathered doves in a netting nest topped the larger cake while the smaller cakes were topped by doves in a bed or roses. Mrs. Harold Coffman of Naperville, Ill., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Odin Devick of Burnsville, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. Clifford Dahle of Newfolden, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Larry Pickett of Fridley, sister of the groom.

The groom's cake, a Kransekaga, the traidiitional Scandinavian wedding cake, was distributed by Eddy Pickett of Fridley, a nephew of the groom. Both the wedding cake and groom's cake were baked and decorated by Mrs. Donald Rupprecht, a friend of the bride's family.

Waitresses were Mrs. Les Olson, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Rod Ernst, Rosalie Donarski and Cory Swanson, friends of the couple. At the gift table were Mrs. Duane Kuzel of Grand Forks, aunt of the bride, Christi and Lori Dahle of Newfolden and Sandra Dahle of Cando, cousins of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, the couple is now at home in Thief River Falls at 619 North State. Both are graduates of Lincoln high school and are employed in this city. The bride, who is also a gradunte of AVTI, is employed by Northwestern hospital, and the groom is employed by Bjorkman's. Photo, LaMar Photography of Crookston.

Retired Teachers Attend Workshop At Bemidji SU

Five members of the Northland Retired Teachers local attended the Minnesota area workshop for retired teachers held at Walnut hall on the Bemidji State University campus.

Representing the local group were Myrtle Myrin, president, Bertha Hastad, Alma Peterson, Ellen Peterson and Olga Bloomaness.

Other representatives attending were from the Paul Bunyan local of Bemidji who hosted the workshop.

Joseph M. Mork, assistant state director of the National Retired Teachers, of Moorhead, and W. H. Dittes, President of the Retired Teachers of Minnesota, of Red Wing, were the directors of the workshop, assisted by Walter M. Loomer, associate area vice president of Grand Forks, N.D., and Curtis Johnson of Minneapolis, state director. Loomer outlined the objectives of the workshop and Mork discussed the insufficient annuities for pre-1973 retired teachers. He stated that the matter would be on the agenda of the January, 1976, legislature along with the investigation of nursing homes and home health care. He commended the legislature for the consideration of senior citizens in the omnibus tax bill, free education for senior citizens in institutions of higher learning, bus service, and meals on wheels.

President Dittes stated that there are now eight divisions with 25 locals in Minnesota. The memberships range from 22 to 682, for a total membership of 2,000 out of an availability of 7,000. President Dittes also said that the report that there were too many letters written to legislature was untrue, and Loomer added that personal contacts previous to letter writing were especially valuable and attributed the passage of legislation for senior citizens by both Senate and House in North Dakota. Loomer also dealt with the contents of the Handbooks, including travel, drugs, health insurance, publications for new locals, pre-retirement, and people that might be a resource for programs.

The film, "The Wisdom of Age" was shown, crediting Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus with establishing the National Retired Teachers Association in 1947. The American Association of Retired Persons, a sister organization, was founded in 1958. The two cooperate.

Following the luncheon, served in the Walnut dining room, Miss Hazel Hogenson, chairman of the "Pride in America", discussed the national program and urged teachers to write 200-300 word stories of their early teaching experiences.

Curtis Johnson introduced the programs of the National Retired Teachers and the Association of Retired Persons, dealing with church relationships, crime prevention, VIM (Vigor in Maturity), Senior Citizens service, Retirement and Widowhood, Tax aid programs, and Lifetime Learning, of which there are 29 centers.

The workshop closed with representatives given an opportunity to summarize the accomplishments of their units.

Joy McLean-Ellis Austin Speak Vows At Grygla

Candelabra and vases of white daisies and carnations, in pastel shades of blue, yellow and pink, graced the altar at Grace Lutheran church in Grygla for the wedding of Miss Joy I. McLean and Ellis A. Austin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sundberg of Grygla. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Austin of Grand Forks, N.D.

The double ring ceremony took place at 3 p.m., with Rev. Leland Uden officiating. Mrs. Roy Nordby, organist, olayed Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" for the processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," for the recessional. She also accompanied LuAnn Lillevold of Grygla, a friend of the bride, as she sang, "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," and "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar. The ceremony concluded with the bride and groom presenting red roses to their parents, symbolizing love and understanding between families.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her step-father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white dotted Swiss with Venice lace enhancing the bodice, stand-up collar and bishop sleeves. Flowing from her lace trimmed, profile headpiece, was a chapel-length veil, edged with the same lace that trimmed her gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses and white daisies with babies' breath.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Julie McLean. She wore a floor-length gown of Blue polyester crepe with a floral print overlay. Wearing similar gowns, in yellow and pink, respectively, were the bridesmaids, Mary Austin of Grand Forks, sister of the groom, and Sue Saurdiff of Grygla, a friend of the bride. To complement their gowns, they wore picture hats trimmed with matching fabric, and carried white baskets of multicolored carnations, white daisies and babies' breath. Their necklaces were gifts from the bride.

The bride's personal attendant was Mrs. Sharon Hook of Thief River Falls, a friend.

Ron Schnebli of Grand Forks attended the groom as best man. Serving as groomsmen were Bernie DeSautel and Fred Larson of Grand Forks, friends of the couple. The men in the wedding party wore black tuxedos with ruffled shirts in white, blue, yellow and pink. Ushers were Glenn Sundberg and Danny Bragg of Grand Forks, brothers-in-law of the bride. Distributing the wedding programs were Miles Austin of Grand Forks, brother of the groom, and Tony McLean, nephew of the bride. At the reception, they distributed the groom's cake and the rice packets.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sundberg wore a light blue floor-length gown with white accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a gown of beige floral print accented with brown accessories. Both wore identical corsages of yellow roses and carnations.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents gave a wedding reception in the church parlors. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McLean, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. Members of the Mary circle were in charge of the serving.

Mrs. William Reynolds of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Harold Martin of Crookston, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively, cut and served the wedding cake featuring a large white cake decorated with blue, yellow and pink flowers. Topping the cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Sheldon Peterson of Grygla, was a gold Christogram.

Mrs. Wallace Anderson of Goodridge, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Ronnie Olson of East Grand Forks, aunt of the groom, poured.

New Program Is Proposed For Land Transfer

A Minnesota farm leader recently proposed a land transfer program as one means to alleviate the inflationary impact of land prices on estate and gift tax evaluations.

Cy Carpenter, Minnesota farmers union (MFU) president, told the joint hearing of the U.S. senate small business committee and joint economic committee that the land value and, thus, assessment for estate tax purposes is applied to land that is skyrocketing in value each year. Purpose of the hearing was to review the impact of federal estate and gift taxes on small businessmen and farmers.

"To attack the cause of the problem, we need to restrict the outside pressure on land and allow pricing and resulting value placed on the land to be principally the result of competition between the farmers."

MFU is currently supporting development of a land transfer program where the state would act as an agent in the land transfer. Under the plan, those who desire to sell would be given the opportunity to predetermine who the purchaser will be. The purchaser would be a qualified and preferably young farmer.

Land transferred under such an arrangement would be priced in accordance with its capability for producing profit. This would result in establishment of a realistic value for tax assessment applied to the estate or inheritance tax.

"Much of the increase in land values is the result of outside pressure and is not related to the profit-producing capability of the land for the farmer. While the land price and, thus, the valuation for tax purposes is real because it can actually be sold for that price, it is hollow because it does not provide a commensurate profit to the operator. The farmer only realizes a value when he goes out of business."

Carpenter also urged raising the legel of exemption to $100,000 from the present $60,000. He said the present level of exemption is outdated because of inflation alone.

Minnesota AAA Reports Record Summer Season

A record number of Minnesotans are enjoying their "last fling" with summer vacations as September approaches, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA).

July travel requests, which generally reflect auto travel planned through mid-August, were 18 per cent above the same month last year, according to Gene Haustein, AAA auto travel manager.

"Travel requests made in August and thus forecasting September motoring plans, however, are reflecting the usual seasonal drop following Labor Day," Haustein adds.

During the four-month period of April through July, Minnesota AAA has processed approximately 20,000 travel requests.

"The Black Hills is our most popular destination this summer," Haustein says. "Los Angeles, which attracts more Minnesotans than any other single location on a year-round basis, has dropped to a close second during the summer."

On a state-by-state basis, AAA reports, California has beckoned nearly twice as many Minnesotans as any other state this summer. Colorado places second with Minnesota following close behind. Florida, the most popular winter destination for Minnesotans, is number four during the summer.

U of M Regents Will Meet Sept. 11-12 At UMC

University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston will host the Board of regents and top-echelon administrative officials on September 11 and 12.

Regents will be meeting in Crookston for the first time since 1969. Committees will be in session at UMC on the afternoon of September 11.

The next morning the regents will hold their monthly board meeting in rooms 204 and 205 of Dowell hall. A committee-of-the-whole will be in session preceding the board deliberations.

Legislators, leaders in industry, business and education, and invited guests will join with the college in welcoming the regents to Crookston at a banquet the evening of September 11 at the Upper Deck restaurant.

Master of ceremonies for the after-dinner program will be Armin Ross of Fisher. Ross is president of Northwest educational improvement association, a citizens' fund development organization that assists in promoting the college. NWEIA and the Crookston Chamber of Commerce are co-sponsors of the reception earlier.

Ross will introduce several dignitaries from northwestern Minnesota and other guests on the speakers' platform. Among those are agent L. J. Lee of Bagley, UMC provost Stanley D. Sahlstrom, and Crookston Mayor Harold Thomforde.

Featured speaker will be Dr. C. Peter Magrath, university president. Dr. Magrath will be introduced by regent Neil Sherburne, chairman of the board of regents.

Also participating in the program will he Dr. B. E. Youngquist, superintendent of the university's northwest experiment station, who will trace the agricultural development and cultural history of the Red River valley.

MC Ross will close the program with a special commemorative presentation to the college.

Motorists Urged Against Labor Day Littering

As the Labor day weekend approaches, Minnesota highway commissioner Frank D. Marzitelli reminds Minnesota motorists of the stiff penalties for littering.

Anyone convicted of littering is subject to a fine, or the judge may order the offender to pick up litter along public roads.

Motorists are urged to put litter in the containers provided in rest areas, service stations or other designated areas.

Motorists paid more than $750,000 in 1974 for collecting 9,500 truckloads of litter along state highways.

Minn. Secretary Of State Boosts ER Amendment

Secretary of state, Joan Anderson Growe, announced Friday passage of a resolution supporting the equal rights amendment at the National convention of the secretaries of state held in Las Vegas, Nev.

"I am delighted that a resolution I authored supporting the equal rights amendment was adopted by the National association of secretaries of state", Growe reported.

"Although I was opposed in this effort by the dean of the national association of secretaries of state, I am pleased that the majority of the secretaries saw benefit in putting our association strongly on record in full support of adoption of the equal rights amendment. I believe this action will have a positive effect on its adoption.

"I was also pleased to participate in the successful passage of a progressive position on post card registration. My predecessor in the office here in Minnesota and the national association had previously taken strong stands against national post card registration. The resolutions committee on which I served passed out a compromise position in which the national association basically supports many aspects of national post card registration", Growe explained.

Secretary Growe was appointed to a select committee of NASS charged to work with Congress on election legislation. "I believe that many of the same changes made in Minnesota can be instituted nationally where standard procedures in voting among all 50 states will improve the whole American electoral process," she said.

Corporate Farm Annual Reports Due Sept. 15th

Changes in the Family Farm act by the 1975 legislature have stepped up the annual reporting date for some farming corporations to this September 15 instead of next April, the Minnesota department of agriculture announces.

Required to report early are corporations that do not themselves cultivate land for the production of agricultural products, but hold either an interest in agricultural land or in land that is used solely for livestock, dairy or poultry production.

The special reporting deadline is part of the tightening of definitions, exemptions and reporting requirements in the Family Farm Act of 1973 following one year of experience with the model law designed to restrict corporate farming and strengthen family farming opportunities.

It will be the second report within five months for some corporations that filed reports for calendar year 1974 although they technically were not required to do so prior to the Legislature taking action to clarify ambiguous language in the original law.

Generally, the special registration applies to corporate feedlot farming, where none of the hay or feed is produced on the corporation's land but is purchased from commercial sources and no other cash crops are grown on the corporate land.

The September 15 deadline must also be met, assistant commissioner Tom Kalitowski said, by corporations that own or lease agricultural land even if the corporation leased out the land and does not actively participate in the farming operations of the renter.

Corporations subject to the new reporting requirements must report by September 15 concerning 1975 acreage and production, identify stockholders owning more than ten per cent of the corporation stock, and list the livestock, dairy and poultry products which the corporation or its agents or renters produce or intend to produce. These corporations will not have to file another report until April 15, 1977. The April 15 reports filed this year were for 1974 farming operations in Minnesota by corporations.

All old corporate farming report forms are now obsolete and should be destroyed. Proper new forms for filing the corporation farming reports are now available at all county agricultural extension service offices or from the Minnesota department of agriculture, 420 state office building, St. Paul, Minn. 55155.

Ask Drivers To Be Watchful For School Buses

With schools in the state set to reopen over the next week, Minnesota state patrol chief James C. Crawford urges motorists to exercise extra caution while driving, and to be particularly watchful for the many school buses which will be transporting youngsters to and from school.

With over a half million students traveling on the 11,000 school bus routes in the state and a good number of others walking or riding bicycles, the need for extra caution becomes a serious obligation, according to Crawford, particularly during those first few days when the excitement of returning to school might make some youngsters a bit careless.

Minnesota law specifically states that drivers of all vehicles must stop, not closer than 20 feet, for a bus that is stopped to pick up or discharge pupils and is displaying flashing red lights and has the stop arm extended. This applies to vehicles approaching the bus from the front or rear.

Motorists are warned well in advance of the school bus's intention to stop by flashing amber lights which are always turned on before the red lights are activated and the stop arm is extended. The amber pre-warning lights, standard equipment on school buses since 1973, are flashed at least 300 feet from the stopping area when outside of a municipality and at least 100 feet before stopping within a municipality.

"The pre-warning amber lights have proven to be a very effective device, in traffic safety," Crawford said. "They can be seen from long distances regardless of weather conditions, and they give the driver ample notice of the bus's intention to stop.

Whereas some drivers used to complain that the buses caused some sudden and unexpected braking for other motorists, there is little excuse for getting caught in a panic stop now."

Either when following or approaching a school bus from the opposite direction, drivers are warned of the impending stop by the flashing amber lights, and must stop and remain stopped while the flashing red lights and stop arm are extended. The only time a stop is not required when the bus's red lights are flashing is when a driver is meeting a bus when approaching from the opposite direction on a separated roadway with a safety island or zone between his vehicle and the bus.

FIRST MILLION dollars in real estate sales has been recorded by Marilyn and Dale Nelson of the Northland Realty company office in Thief River Falls. Shown at left are Charles Erickson and Harry Johnston, brokers and owners of the company headquartered in Detroit Lakes. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson have just completed their first year as sales representative and district manager, respectively, in the Thief River Falls office. During their first year they also established an office in Fosston. "The Nelsons have done a fine job and we're proud of them," stated Erickson and Johnston in noting the million dollar sales figure.

BUNGALOW SCHOOL is one of several rural schools which existed in the Mud Lake area of Marshall county. The buildings were removed in 1936 and 1937 with this building becoming part of the present Thief Lake church. The picture was taken in the mid 1920's when Hilda Odie was teacher there. Photos like this are to be brought to the Mud Lake reunion September 7 at Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt.

11-15 Fatalities Expected Labor Day Weekend

Over the three-day Labor Day weekend, the Minnesota safety council estimates that 11 to 15 persons may die in Minnesota traffic crashes. There were 17 fatalities in 1974 and 11 in 1973.

According to safety council president Sylvester Laskin, tired drivers are more accident prone. He urges persons taking a short three-day vacation especially to begin their return trip early enough to arrive home before sundown to avoid heavy state fair traffic.

The safety council offers four suggestions for a safe holiday:

(1) Observe posted speed limits; 55 mph saves lives.

(2) Plan your trip carefully; avoid driving too great distances in one stretch.

(3) If you are the driver, don't drink; if you do, allow one hour to pass for each drink before taking the wheel.

(4) Please—wear your safety belts and insist that all of your passengers buckle up.

In addition to fatalities, there were 789 Labor Day holiday accidents in 1974, with 248 disabling injuries and 426 other injuries.

Mrs. Stone Hears Former Student In Piano Concert

While attending a piano workshop presented by the Schmitt Music company in Minneapolis August 14 and 15, Mrs. Ione Stone of Thief River Falls had the opportunity to hear a former student perform as a guest piano soloist.

Hans Olaf Chommie, son of Mrs. Val Chommie and the late Judge H. O. Chommie of Thief River Falls, was soloist at the clinic, playing the composition "L'Union" by Gottschalk-Adler. Chommie was a student of Mrs. Stone for eight years, and one of four of her students to win honors at the Northwest talent contest at Crookston.

Program notes listed the composition which Chommie played as: "A fine transcription (Bicentennial) for piano solo with band accompaniment. The "Union" was originally written as a battle piece for piano solo in 1862 and was played for President and Mrs. Lincoln in 1864. It contains an imaginative arrangement of the "Star Spangled Banner', 'Hail Columbia' and 'Yankee Doodle'."

The piano school was presented by Stecher and Horowitz, a two piano team with a music school on Long Island in New York. Mrs. Stone had previously heard them play at a national music convention in Cincinnati, Ohio, a few years ago.

Mini Employment Office Arranged At Northland CC

J. K. Stadum, area manager, Minnesota department of employment services in Thief River Falls, announced Tuesday the opening of a mini employment office at Northland community college to provide a placement service for junior and college and vocational students. Ken Wiebolt, dean of students at Northland, and Arnt Aune and Richard Berry of the area vocational-technical institute, assisted in the planning for the expanded service.

The aim of the mini-office is to assist the students of both schools in securing parttime work after school hours and in finding fulltime work at the completion of their field of study.

Employers who require either full or parttime help are encouraged to list their job openings with the mini-office or with the area office in Thief River Falls. By doing so, students will be aided in the financing of their school expenses, Stadum said.

In addition to local jobs, the students who desire work in other Minnesota areas will be able to view the Minnesota job bank of daily job opportunities throughout the state.

Stadum said that the mini office will be a pilot program starting on September 2 and running to November 30. At that time the mini-office concept will be reviewed and a determination made regarding its continued operation. The operation will only be successful with the full cooperation of area firms who regularly list job order requests with the employment service office, Stadum added.

The office will be staffed with a trained employment interviewer who will be assisted by work-study students furnished by the school. Additional staff may be provided by the employment service, depending on workloads.

The office will be housed in room C-14 at Northland. Hours of operation will be 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Wednesday of each week. Job openings can be placed by calling 681-2181 or at the state employment service, 681-1100.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to a letter from Faith Rud printed in the Monday, August 18 issue of the Times.

It is interesting to me that Ms. Rud is now upset about Northland's decision to begin a varsity football program. As Vice President of the Northland Student Association, she was a member of the student committee which gave its' approval with no negative comments when the proposal was presented to the students during the past school year.

However, it is not my intention to present, an opposite philosophical viewpoint. Knowing Ms. Rud as a person as well as a former student, I feel confident that her intentions were probably aimed in the "right" direction. I'm certain that her concern is not one of "women's rights" but rather of "people's liberation" regardless of sex, race, age, etc.

Her letter, however, does contain so many basic falsehoods which are presented as facts from a knowledgeable person that I feel Northland College and particularly the women's athletic program could be done a disservice if not properly identified and corrected.

(1) It is NOT TRUE that the women's athletic teams were denied overnight trips because of "no money" while "all of the men's away games of any substantial distance included overnight accommodations." The fact is that overnight trips are primarily decided on a basis of economic feasibility. For example, it is less expensive for a basketball team of either sex to stay overnight rather than make two trips to the Iron Range.

It is a fact that the women's teams did make overnight trips and men's teams did make trips of over 400 miles in one day.

(2) It is NOT TRUE that the women do not have a full time Athletic Director. The Minnesota Community Colleges determine at the State level what constitutes a "full-time Athletic Director." Within these state guidelines Mr. Al Adams is the men's athletic director and Miss Debbie Jacobson is the women's athletic director. The single position of athletic director is not a full time job for either.

(3) It is NOT TRUE that our athletic offerings for women are "meager crumbs" while the men's program is "overloaded." It is a fact that at present we offer three men's sports (basketball, hockey, baseball) three women's sports (volleyball, basketball, softball) and two sports that are co-ed at Northland as well as on the State and National level, (golf, tennis)

(4) It is NOT TRUE that women's sports suffered with an unequal budget. It is a fact that women's athletics were one of the few budget items that received the full amount of money requested for 1974-75. Most activity budgets (including men's athletics) were required to take a cut because of the economic conditions that existed. It should also be pointed out that when it became apparent that the changing times were going to cause a situation where money would be short anyway, the Women's Athletic Director requested and received an increase in her budgets. Ms. Rud should remember that as she was on the committee which approved the budget change!

It also should be pointed out that in the 1975-76 budget, line items such as equipment, practice uniforms, mileage, meals, lodging, officials, etc., the same rates are used for women and men.

(5) It is true that the women used the same uniforms for volleyball and basketball. This again was a decision that I'm certain the women's athletic director made primarily on the basis of economic feasibility. Both teams use the same type of attire, and we should also remember that last year was the first year of intercollegiate athletics for women at Northland. As an additional note new uniforms have already arrived for this year's program.

(6) It is also true that the girls' softball team paid for part of their uniforms. This part, however, is retained by the players as their own personal property and would not have been necessary for them to have had they not voluntarily decided they wanted to buy it.

(7) It is NOT TRUE that "the women's coach did not have funding to go out to surrounding high schools and recruit athletes for the coming season!" Like everything else the recruiting policies are exactly the same for women as they are for men. Our Women's Coach did in fact recruit and it is also a fact that all coaches on the Northland Staff, men and women, cooperate in the recruiting of athletes regardless of sex or sport.

(8) It is NOT TRUE that the money budgeted for varsity football could be better utilized by providing a course in Organic Chemistry or a Day Care Center. Budgets for student activities and student instruction are two separate entities and cannot be overlapped or substituted. In fact any monies allotted from the State for varsity football would simply not be allotted if the program were not instituted. In other words our monetary award from the state will be increased with the addition of football.

I stated earlier that it was not my intention to debate philosophy and I shall not. There are at least two other items that should be commented on, however. The first is Ms. Rud's comparison of intramurals and varsity athletics. I think that practically all educators agree on the value of a solid, wide reaching intramural program to augment intercollegiate athletics. I feel certain that Faith is aware, even though the general public may not be, that Mr. Adams directs one of the most comprehensive intramural programs in the Minnesota Community Colleges. Northland is also one of only two colleges in the system that does not play varsity football.

The other item is Ms. Rud's opening statement that "even four year schools are dropping football because of the tremendous expense." I cannot honestly label that statement as untrue because I don't know it to be untrue. However, I don't know of a single school that has dropped the program and I would suggest that Ms. Rud would be hard pressed to name two if you called her now. I would further suggest that if someone were to make an official check on the number of schools dropping their football programs they would find that they represented less than one per cent of the competing schools.

Certainly no school that is running an educationally sound football program in the first place will be dropping it.

In conclusion I would like to suggest that the public certainly should be concerned with the manner in which their institutions are operated and the way in which their tax dollar is spent. I would only suggest that you not accept everything written as a fact to indeed be a fact. And, when I say don't necessarily accept information as fact—I include any information I have presented above as fact. I would personally consider it a sign of a concerned taxpayer rather than an affront to my honesty or knowledge if you were to go to proper administrators at Northland to question anything I have presented.

I guess my major disappointment in Ms. Rud's letter was that it was difficult for me to understand how someone who was as active in Student Government as she was, which included approval of all Activity Budgets, could still have such a poor working knowledge of how the budget is organized.

I hope that this letter has clarified some of the misinformation she presented.

Sincerely,
Chet Engelman

Board Approves Contracts For New Teachers

Acceptance of contracts for several more faculty members took place at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening at the school district service center.

Hired by the board were Mary Andrus, special education teacher at Lincoln; Lowell McDougall, industrial arts teacher at Franklin; Ronald Halvorson, counselor at Lincoln; and Harriet Lee Heinecke, health occupations at the Northwest vocational center.

Other positions filled Monday evening were as follows: Larry Ekman, custodian at the school district service center; Juli Hromyak, clerical aide at Lincoln; Edward L. Resignation was received from Roy Jablinske, bus driver, and employment of Olga Leach, helper-dishwasher at Franklin was terminated in accordance with board policy.

The board accepted the recommendation of the business manager in the development of a cash handling and safekeeping procedure for the school district. It was also resolved that the administrative procedure require a current list of people responsible for handling cash to be kept in the business manager's office.

Action on vocational school house projects was deferred to a special meeting Thursday at 6 a.m. in the school district board room. At that time the board will also conduct negotiations with administrators and select an arbitrator for a teacher salary concern.

Only 34 Apply For Census Jobs By This Morning

Only 34 applications had been filed as of Wednesday morning for interviewer jobs during the special Pennington county census to begin next week. By noon Thursday, the deadline for applications, it was hoped that 80 applications would be compiled to fill approximately 37 openings.

"I'm disappointed there hasn't been more local response so far," said C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor, who is receiving the applications. Rodekuhr said a shortage in the number of census takers might force the available interviewers to work larger enumeration districts.

Interviewing and testing of the prospective interviewers will be conducted Thursday afternoon in the city auditorium basement meeting room by John Rundle, Pelican Rapids, the jobs director.

According to standards set by the bureau of the census, prospective interviewers should be citizens of the United States and at least 18 years of age. They should be of good appearance, physically able to do considerable walking and climbing of stairs, write legibly and be mentally able to understand instructions.

Also, they should be able and willing to work full time until their assignments are completed. They will be paid a piece rate of 11 cents for each properly recorded name in accordance with the instructions furnished them. The average interviewer will be able to enumerate approximately 200 names per day.

Students attend an all youth retreat at Faith Haven, Battle Lake, over Labor day weekend. Classes officially begin September 3. The public is welcome to audit classes any weekday 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Workers Recalled By Soo Line To Build Box Cars

Soo Line railroad company will conduct a freight car construction program this fall that will put many previously laid-off mechanical employees back to work.

The company has begun recalling employees at its Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, shops to begin freight car construction in September. Involved in the recall are approximately 120 machanical employees who were laid off earlier in the year as a result of the slump in rail business.

The recalled employees will be involved in a program to construct 125 new 70-ton box cards. The shops have conducted similar new car construction programs each of the past few years. Approximately $3.5 million worth of new freight equipment will be built at Fond du Lac this year.

WADDLING HIS WAY through the halls of the Northwestern hospital pediatrics unit Tuesday, the seven-foot "A & W root bear" took time to present gifts to the youngsters in the unit. His presence met mixed emotions, from one youngster who insisted "I don't want that bear!" to the tyke above who enjoyed rubbing the fuzzy character's nose. The bear will greet the public Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the local A & W drive-in. He also visited the hospital CNC unit and Oakland Park and Valley Home on Tuesday.

TRF, Red River Match Attacks Friday

It will probably be a battle of wishbone offenses Friday when Thief River Falls visits Grand Forks Red River in the 1975 football season opener for both ball clubs.

The Prowlers will begin their fifth year with the ground orientated wishbone offense that was devised originally by University of Texas head coach Darrel Royal. Although there is no current scouting report on the Roughriders, the Prowler coaching staff expects Red River to use the wishbone again this fall. Red River coach Dallas Kopp installed the offense three years ago.

Most major college and university football teams have dropped the wishbone in recent years. At its peak in the early 1970's, it seemed the biggest portion of the football world (outside of the pro's, of course) was caught up in the wishbone. However, defenses have since caught up with the formation.

Sims has no immediate plans to erase the wishbone from the Prowler offense, though. "It's still a great offense," Sims said at the start of pre-season practice drills. "I like it because of the simplicity of it. People can play several positions with very little learning changes."

Five years of wishbone has brought on some changes, though. "We've done some things with it," said Sims. "We've added some new wrinkles—we have every year."

Thief River Falls fans cannot argue against the success of the wishbone for the Prowlers wno have had the likes of Rob Swenson, Kent Smith and Jerry Sandahl picking up big chunks of yardage off the formation. This year you can expect Jay Kverno, Mike Jury and Bryan Olson to pile up yards for the Prowlers running out of the wishbone.

Game time Friday is 8 p.m. at Cushman Field in Grand Forks.

Northland Cagers To Be Strong In 1975-76

Classes begin next week at Northland community college and Northman basketball coach Chet Engelman expects perhaps as many as 24 students to be on hand who will be playing basketball for him this winter.

Sophomores Preston Curtis, Tom Johnson, Frank Ridley and Bill Whitney, all key ball players on last year's sensational 23-1 ball club, are enrolled here again this year.

In addition to the return of the four lettermen, sophomores Joe Brown and Bill Gusa will be back in school and will play basketball again in 1975-76. Brown and Gusa were both members of the 1973-74 team, but sat out last year.

Eighteen freshmen are expected to join the six sophomores when basketball practice starts in November.

Area ball players enrolling here include Dallas Kemmer and Brian Waale of Thief River Falls; Daryl Byklum, Steve Sparby and Howard Vigen of Grygla; Tony Solem of Oslo; Jon Bergman of Alvarado; Keith Pommprenning of Warroad; Dave Caspers of Waubun; Tom Bendickson and Don Grabowska of Goodridge; and Ron Kragnes of Halstad.

Others who have indicated they will attend Northland include David Davenport of Inkster, Mich.; Eugene Murray of East Rutherford, N.J.; Keith Cheek of Canton, Ohio; Tom Sumpter of Sumter, S.C.; Ronald Patrick of Roanoke, Va.; and Charles Cummings of LaFollette, Tenn.

Davenport, all 6-7 of him, is reported to be perhaps the best of a good freshman group. Sumpter was a teammate of now graduated Northland star David Dickey two years ago when they played together on the Grand Forks Air Force base team.

"I think we'll be tough," said Engelman, looking ahead to the 1975-76 season. "We lost three very good basketball players (Dickey, Ralph Fitts and Burnie Stephens who all graduated after leading Northland to two straight MJCAA Northwest Division pennants and two state tournament berths), but we have some good basketball players coming back. We expect all of our sophomores to be improved, and we have some good quality freshmen coming in."

Prowlers Open At Grand Forks Red River Friday

Coach Jim Sims' Lincoln high school football team opens what is hoped to be a highly successful 1975 season Friday when the Prowlers visit Grand Forks Red River for an 8 p.m. game on Cushman Field.

Sims and his coaching staff—John Schmitz, Gene Jurgens, Charlie Cornell and Glen Peters—feel the Prowlers have the material to be a good, if not a very good football team this fall. Friday night's opener against the Roughriders may or may not prove how good the Prowlers are, but it will make a big difference between a good and very good season.

"The first one is always a big one," warns Sims. "We need that first one to get a good start on a successful season. We've got some potential. If we stick it all together we're going to be able to give anybody a good football game."

The Prowler starting line-up for Friday is not yet definitely set in a number of positions. However, Sims did announce a tentative line-up to face the Roughriders.

Senior Jeff Lindquist (5-9, 158) will quarterback the Prowler wishbone offense. Senior Bryan Olson (5-9, 180) will start at fullback, with senior Mike Jury (5-11, 168) and junior Jay Kverno (6-1, 182) in the halfback spots. Jury's status is questionable, however, as he recovers from shin splints. Sophomore Doug Dallmann (5-10, 184) could start in place of Jury.

Senior runningbacks Kent Ehrenstrom (6-3, 211) and Duane Gonsorowski (5-9, 163) and junior quarterback Mike Wiebolt (6-2, 165) may also see playing time.

In the offensive line, senior Chris Biegner (6-0, 195) will start at center, with seniors Kevin Anderson (5-10, 155) and Mike Kosel (5-11, 195) at guards and seniors Terry Sullivan (5-10, 203) and Arlie Engelman (6-0, 205) at tackles. Either senior Bob Forberg (6-1, 172) or junior Mark Thorstad (5-11, 155) will start at an end while the tight end spot is up for grabs between seniors Mike Burstad (6-1, 172), Gary Krueger (6-1, 158) and Forberg. Junior Paul Wurst (6-1, 200) may also play at a tackle.

Defensively, Biegner will start at nose guard, Engelman and Sullivan will be the tackles and Kosel and either senior Geoff Dagg (5-9, 140) or junior Murray Semanko (5-9, 145) will be the ends. Senior Tim Rude (5-11, 176) may also play in the front line.

Ehrenstrom and either Anderson or senior Kirk Reed (6-0, 159) will be the inside linebackers, with Kverno and junior Matt Overbye (5-11, 160) on the outside. Jury and Gonsorowski will probably be the deep backs. Lindquist, Forberg, Kverno and junior Brian Peterson (5-9, 157) may also see action in the secondary.

Lindquist or Peterson will handle the team's punting chores, Dallmann or Kosel will kick-off and take over the place-kicking assignments and Kverno will do the snapping on all kicks.

"We seemed to have found some competition at every position," said Sims, "and, of course, that's good."

Sims feels his club's progress through nearly three weeks of practice has been more than satisfactory. "We're moving along fairly well," he said. "We've still got a lot of things to accomplish between now and Friday, but we plan on getting them done. We'll be ready Friday."

Naturally not much scouting information is available on a season-opening opponent. "It's a guessing game as to what Red River will do," admitted Sims. "But our backlog information on them shows that they will probably run the wishbone like us. We'll have to adapt to them as the game goes along."

Thief River Falls will open its home season next week when the Prowlers host Detroit Lakes Fri., Sept. 5, on the Prowler athletic field.

Arctic Power Completes Title Sweep Of Hartz

Arctic Power, a seventh place finisher during the regular season, completed a two-game championship series sweep of Hartz Monday to capture the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball league Major Division playoff title.

Arctic Power entered Friday night's scheduled championship finale with one loss in the double elimination tournament; needing two wins over the unbeaten Hartz squad to take the title.

The underdog Arctic Power ball club did indeed take a pair from Hartz, winning Friday's first game 14-6 and then matching that effort with an identical 14-6 win in the title-deciding second game that was suspended after five innings Friday and completed Monday.

Arctic Power's two-game championship sweep of Hartz followed a pattern set by Warehouse Foods in the Commercial Division playoffs last week. Once beaten Warehouse Foods swept the unbeaten Jaycees 6-0, 6-5 Thursday.

Arctic Power and Warehouse Foods both reign as slow pitch softball league champions. League officials have decided against matching the two playoff winners as earlier announced.

Power 14, Hartz 6

Arctic Power built a 9-5 lead in Friday's doubleheader nightcap before the game was suspended by darkness with Arctic Power batting in the top of the sixth inning.

The winners made Monday's finish anticlimatic by scoring three quick runs in the sixth for a comfortable 12-5 lead enroute to a 14-6 triumph.

Balance keyed Arctic Power's success as every ball player collected at least one hit; every ball player except one drove in at least one run; and every ball player except one scored at least one run.

Arctic Power out-hit Hartz 20-9 with Larry Poole enjoying a four for five effort at the plate while John Olson went three for five. Winning pitcher Dennis Bendickson drove in three runs.

Jon Looker was the game's losing pitcher. He was handicapped by seven Hartz errors.

The two teams, East Division winner Arctic Cat and West Division winner Schmidts, are scheduled to meet tonight (Wednesday) at 9 p.m. Arctic Cat led Schmidts 4-0 in the third inning of Monday's scheduled game, but tonight's contest will start anew from the first inning.

Four Girls Teams Prepare For 1975 Fall Schedules

Four different Lincoln high school girls' athletic programs are in full swing this week as the Prowlers ready themselves for the upcoming fall season.

Fall sports for girls at Lincoln include volleyball, tennis, golf and swimming. Cindy Vennec is coaching the volleyball team, Pat Johnson directs the tennis program, Sylvia Anderson leads the golf squad and John Hustad is in charge of the swimmers.

Ruth Onkka is the Lincoln girls' athletic director.

The volleyball team will be the first girls' team to open its 1975 season. The Prowlers host Warren in a volleyball match Tues., Sept. 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln gym. The other three teams will all open their respective seasons on Thurs., Sept. 4. The golf team will play a 4 p.m. match at Fosston, the tennis team travels to Waubun for a 3:30 p.m. match and the swimming team is at Detroit Lakes for a 4:30 p.m. meet.

A capsule look at all four teams:

Tennis

Thief River Falls captured District 31 and Region Eight tennis honors a year ago enroute to a state meet appearance. With four starters returning off that state tournament team, new coach Pat Johnson looks like she's inherited a winner.

Seniors Marty Minor and Kris Gibson, junior Lori Lundin and sophomore Marchell Cuppett were state meet performers in 1974. Minor, this year's captain, and Gibson played singles last year while Lundin and Cuppett teammed up in doubles.

"The experience of the state meet really impressed them," pointed out Johnson who expects that experience to be a major factor in another successful season.

A total of 25 girls began practicing with the team August 18. Joining the four letter winners are seniors Pam Prichard, Jennifer Pluth and Wanda Carlson; juniors Mary Kay Winjum, Renae Sheridan and Kelly Bjorkman; sophomores Donna Cork, Carol Anderson, Mary Kay Larson, Julie Gilbert, Marci Gustafson, Pam Matheny, Joanne Wefald, Konnie Kompellen, Debby Mortrud, Jane Ternes and Susan Hellie; and freshmen Kari Kemnitz, Laurie Achenbach, Suzie Matheny and Ruth Ferber.

Home schedule—Sat., Sept. 13, Mahnomen, 10 a.m.; Mon., Sept. 15, Roseau, 4 p.m.; Sat., Sept. 27, Bemidji, 10 a.m.; Wed., Oct. 1, Waubun, 3:30 p.m.; Thurs., Oct. 2, EGF and Detroit Lakes, 3:30 p.m.; Mon., Oct. 6, Crookston, 4 p.m. Away schedule—Thurs., Sept. 4, at Waubun, 3:30 p.m.; Mon., Sept. 8, at Crookston, 4 p.m.; Thurs., Sept. 18, at EGF, 4 p.m.; Mon., Sept. 22, at Mahnomen, 4 p.m.; Tues., Sept. 23, at Detroit Lakes, 4 p.m.; Mon., Sept. 29, at Roseau, 4 p.m.; Tues., Oct. 7, at Bemidji, 4 p.m.

Golf

New golf coach Sylvia Anderson has eight girls competing for spots on the Prowler roster. Elaine Charlson will serve as captain of this year's squad. Charlson and Sherry Onkka were golf team members a year ago.

Others on the squad this fall include Karen Ingrund, Cindy Restad, Jane Swanson, Amy Jesch, Tammy Schwartz and Deb Reierson.

Home schedule—Thurs., Sept. 25, Fosston and Crookston, 4 p.m. Away schedule—Thurs., Sept. 4, at Fosston, 4 p.m.; Fri., Sept. 5, at Crookston, 4 p.m.; Mon., Sept. 8, at Perham, 4 p.m.; Mon., Sept. 15, at Fergus Falls, 4 p.m.; Mon., Sept. 22, at Detroit Lakes, 4 p.m.; Mon., Sept. 29, at Breckenridge, 4 p.m.; Mon., Oct. 6, at Fergus Falls, 4 p.m.; Mon., Oct. 13, at Perham, 1 p.m.

Volleyball

With all eight starters returning from her 1974 team, volleyball coach Cindy Vennec is looking forward to a successful season this fall.

Seniors Gail Peterson, Jane Achenbach, Sandy Schob, Celeste Waswick, Tammy Robson and Barb Brenna, along with juniors Gwen Landis and Nancy Sandahl all return after seeing regular duty last year. Peterson and Achenbach are the team' co-captains.

"I think we'll be better than last year," predicts Vennec. "The girls worked over the summer and I can already see the improvement."

Home schedule—Tues., Sept. 2, Warren, 7:30 p.m.; Thurs., Sept. 4, Moorhead, 7:30 p.m.; Thurs., Sept. 18, Fisher, 7:30 p.m.; Thurs., Oct. 9, Alvarado, 7:30 p.m.; Tues., Oct. 14, Red Lake Falls, 7:30 p.m.; Thurs., Oct. 23, EGF, 7:30 p.m.; Tues., Oct. 28, Crookston, 7:30 p.m.; Thurs., Oct. 30, Fosston, 7:30 p.m. Away schedule—Tues., Sept. 9, at Crookston Cathedral, 7:30 p.m.; Tues., Sept. 16, at EGF, 7:30 p.m.; Tues., Sept. 23, at Crookston, 7:30 p.m.; Mon., Sept. 29, at Stephen, 7:15 p.m.; Mon., Oct. 13, at Climax, 8 p.m.; Tues., Oct. 21, at Goodridge, 8 p.m.

Swimming

A squad of 28 makes the swim team the largest team—number wise—among the four fall sports.

Senior Joy Grant and junior Joan Jury, the leading point scorer on last year's team, serve as co-captain for coach John Hustad's squad.

Other returning letter winners include senior Kim Wigness, juniors Shelly Lund and Jody Dallmann (who earned her letter as a diver with the boys' team) and freshmen Georgi Desrocher, Kathy Omdahl, Beth Nichols, Deb Williams and Marci Pluth, the second leading scorer a year ago as an eighth grader.

The rest of the 14-member varsity line-up will probably include senior Paula Delap; junior Sue Bottner; freshmen Angie Sinn, Carla Reed and Kari Worner; and seventh grader Brenda Lund.

"The girls made some big improvements in the AAU program during the summer," pointed out Hustad. "They're already swimming a lot faster than they did a year ago."

New incentive for this year's team is the first ever girls' state swimming meet scheduled later this fall. State meet qualification will be through regional competition.

Home schedule—Thurs., Sept. 11, Moorhead, 4 p.m.; Sat., Sept. 20, Grand Forks Red River and Central, 2 p.m.; Tues., Sept. 30, Brainerd, 4 p.m.; Sat., Oct. 4, Bemidji, 2 p.m.; Tues., Oct. 28, Detroit Lakes, 4 p.m. Away schedule—Thurs., Sept. 4, at Detroit Lakes, 4:30 p.m.; Tues., Sept. 23, at Bemidji, 4 p.m.; Thurs., Oct. 2, at Moorhead (and Bismarck), 4 p.m.; Tues., Oct. 7, at Grand Forks Red River (and Central), 4 p.m.; Sat., Oct. 11, at Fergus Falls Invitational, 10 a.m.; Tues., Oct. 21, at St. Cloud Tech, 4 p.m.; Thurs. and Fri., Oct. 23 and 24, at Marshall Invitational.

Football Season Starts Friday For Area Teams

Friday will mark the beginning of the 1975 football season for all four Times area small schools as Goodridge, Marshall County Central, Grygla and Plummer initiate new grid campaigns.

Two of the four ball clubs will be at home for season openers as Goodridge hosts Gonvick at 7:30 p.m. and Plummer entertains Clearbrook at 8 p.m. in a pair of North Tri County Conference games.

Marshall County Central and Grygla will both be on the road to start the year as Newfolden visits Greenbush for a 4 p.m. Top of the State Conference game while Grygla travels to McIntosh for a 7:30 p.m. North Tri County Conference assignment.

Friday's Newfolden-Greenbush game will mark the debut of Nordic head coach Sam Gebhart who took over the school's football program this fall, succeeding Denny Dinius who took a similar position at Langdon, N.D.

Elsewhere the head coaching posts remain unchanged with Gary Brantl at Plummer, Ken Ewertz at Goodridge and Jerry Lindstrom at Grygla.

Games scheduled next week, Fri., Sept. 5, will find Goodridge at Grygla, Plummer at Gonvick and Newfolden will host Baudette.

Sophomores Dominate Plummer Football Roster

Brantl

Poole

Rosten

Plummer, coming off a 4-5 season in 1974, will open its 1975 football season Friday when the Cardinals host Clearbrook in an 8 p.m. North Tri County Conference football game.

Veteran head coach Gary Brantl begins his sixth year at the Plummer helm with 28 ball players, a number increased by 12 over last year's slim roster.

However, only five lettermen are among the Cardinal ball players. The five letter winners, all starters a year ago, include seniors Dave Walter and Steve Rosten and juniors Carl Torkelson, Tom Martell and Todd Gustafson.

Walter, a quarterback in 1974 who is slated for duty at an end this fall, and Rosten, a defensive end, serve as Cardinal co-captains.

Youth and inexperience are Brantl's chief concerns as the season opener approaches. Six of the 11 Plummer offensive starters will be sophomores and three others will be juniors. Walter will be the only senior in the starting line-up offensively against Clearbrook.

"Our success this year will depend upon how well and how fast our young people come along for us," pointed out Brantl. "We aren't big, either, but we're pretty quick and we should be able to compensate for our lack of size with speed."

The rest of the list of Plummer lettermen include seniors Dean Hess and Mark Genereux and sophomores Jerry Fisher, Bob Brekke, Kyle Adolphson, Dan Willett, Stan Tvedt and Martin Hess.

Fisher will direct the Plummer offense at quarterback this fall after playing behind Walter a year ago when he passed for 144 yards as a freshman.

Martell will start for the Cardinals at fullback while Adolphson and sophomore John Greenwald, the team's fastest ball player, line-up at halfback spots in the Cardinal double wing formation. Martell led the 1974 ball club in rushing with 761 yards and a 5.9 yard average.

Brantl promises an even 50-50 percentage of run-pass offense for the Cardinals this fall. Walter and Hess will start at the ends, but Brantl warns that his runningbacks will be pass receivers as well.

Torkelson and Martell, the team's outside linebackers in a 5-3 formation, spearhead a tough Plummer defense that was a bright spot during Saturday's Thief River Falls Prowler Pigskin Preview. Rosten will also be a key defensive figure at an end and Walter should anchor a young secondary.

"We should be able to play defense pretty well this year," pointed out Brantl. "Our offense still needs a little work, though. We've got so many young people (on offense), we just have to hope they come around."

The rest of the Plummer roster includes senior Neil Konickson; juniors Tom Willett and Erwin Marty; sophomores Neil Mattison, Dale Mattison, Randy Konickson and Lonnie Eskeli; and freshmen Tim Pahlen, Jerry Mattison, Mike Gustafson, Brian Brekke, Alan Genereux, John Zimple and Craig Pahlen.

Bill Poole will again serve as Brantl's assistant coach this fall.

Other Plummer home games this season will find the Cardinals playing Fri., Sept. 12, against Goodridge; Fri., Sept. 19, Grygla; Fri., Sept. 26, Erskine; and Fri., Oct. 10, McIntosh. All Plummer home games will start at 8 p.m. except the September 26 encounter against Erskine that will be the Cardinal homecoming game. It will start at 7:30 p.m.

Plummer road games will be played Fri., Sept. 5, at Gonvick, 1:30 p.m.; Fri., Oct. 3, at Mentor, 1:30 p.m.; Tues., Oct. 14, at Middle River, 3 p.m.; and Fri., Oct. 24, at Oklee, 7:30 p.m.

Brantl points to McIntosh and Gonvick as the top teams in the South Division of the North Tri County Conference this fall, with Oklee rated as the team to beat in the North Division. Plummer, Oklee, Grygla, Goodridge and Middle River make up the North teams. McIntosh, Gonvick, Clearbrook, Erskine and Mentor form the South half.

WALT LEACH of Thief River Falls enjoyed a banner fishing expedition on Lake Superior in early August by boating his limit of big lake trout while fishing out of Ashland, Wis. The biggest fish weighed 15¼ pounds and measured 35 inches. He received a special Master Angler award from Ashland television station WEAU for his catch.

Deadline Nears For Deer Zone Nine Applicants

Hunters who apply for a permit to take an anterless deer in Minnesota's southern buck zone (zone nine) must have their applications postmarked no later than August 30, the department of natural resources reminded today.

Hunters who wish to apply for an anterless permit will obtain an application form when they buy their big game license. A computerized drawing will be held to select about 2,600 hunters from among those applying. Those who receive a permit will be allowed to take one deer of either sex or any age, while other hunters in that zone will be restricted to take only a buck with at least one polished antler.

The purpose of the zone nine regulation is to divide hunting pressure between November 1 and November 6, 7 and 8, to stabilize the herd at a desirable level by taking a limited number of does.

DNR wildlife officials said that many early applicants for anterless deer permits have omitted the deer hunting license number and the signature of the license seller. It is the hunter's responsibility to be certain this information is included on the application.

New Hawk Trick To Help Prevent Bird Injuries

Homeowners with large picture windows are often troubled by birds flying into those windows. For the birds, that sudden, unexpected collision with a pane of clear glass is often fatal.

Is there an answer to this problem—other than keeping the window blinds or draperies drawn at all times?

Yes, according to the current (August-September) "Ranger Rick's" nature magazine, a conservation periodical for youngsters published by the national wildlife federation.

It's known as "Ranger Rick's hawk trick," and it consists of cutting out the silhouette of a hawk in flight (most bird field guides show you what a flying hawk looks like) and pasting the cutout on the picture window. The "trick" saves the lives of small birds, because hawks are their natural enemies and, if the cutout looks anything like a hawk, they won't go near the window.

The more realistic the hawk silhouette, according to "Ranger Rick," the better the "trick" works as a bird lifesaver.

Police Ask Driver In Bicycle Mishap To Call The Dep't.

Thief River Falls police department has requested that the woman driver involved in a car-bicycle accident Tuesday, August 19, contact the department immediately.

Sandra Foster, 15, of Thief River Falls was riding her bike north on Main at approximately 10:23 p.m. when she cut across Main to go west on Sixth street and was struck by a car heading west into Main, and which was apparently about to make a left turn. The woman driver stayed at the scene to render assistance but the Foster girl indicated she was not injured. Later, however, she was taken to Northwestern hospital and found to have a bump on her head and a sore ankle. The police wish to contact the woman for more information.

Two other automobile accidents were reported to the police department last week. At 1:57 p.m. Friday, Emil Zutz of the city, traveling west on Nora Street, pulled up to a stop sign at Pennington avenue beside a semi-trailer driven by Kelly Holthusen of Grygla, which was headed in the same direction. When the semi pulled away from the stop sign to make a right turn, it struck the car. Damages were estimated a $400 to the Zutz car and $160 to the Holthusen semi.

At 7:52 p.m. Monday, William Haapoja of the city was driving west on Ninth street and Denton Pederson of the city was traveling north on Knight avenue when their cars met in the intersection. The Haapoja car was totaled, and $200 damage was reported on the Pederson car.

Two incidents were reported Wednesday, August 20. A local store apprehended Leverne Underdahl, 47, of Middle River for allegedly shoplifting packages of meat valued at $1.93. Betty Grytdahl of the city reported that $20 worth of groceries were stolen from her house the previous Sunday.

In one of three incidents reported Thursday, Erling Olson, TRF, told police that his garage was broken into between midnight and 6 a.m. Two windows were broken and an alternator was taken from a 1964 Ford Mustang. The loss was valued at $85.

Bruce Ternes of the city said a bocci game valued at $50 was taken from his car during the night.

Steve Sorenson, TRF, reported that his wallet was taken from him the previous evening while he was in the municipal liquor store. The wallet was found by a mailman the following morning inserted between two buildings, but $300 was missing. The case is currently under investigation.

Curtis Nordling of the city reported Friday that both brake cables were cut on his bike while it was parked at the Pennington county courthouse. Damage was estimated at $10. The municipal liquor store was broken into between 6:20 and 6:40 p.m. the same day. A considerable amount of money was taken and all the drawers had been ferreted. An estimated $20 damage was caused when the door was kicked in and the latch broken off.

In one of two incidents reported Saturday, a local store apprehended a female juvenile, 14, for allegedly shoplifting a pair of earrings. Upon further investigation, it was alleged that another female juvenile, 15 was also involved and items had been taken from two stores. An estimated $4.87 worth of necklace and earrings were taken.

Mrs. Tillie Sabo of the city reported that someone had entered her home and taken money from her purse.

The next day, Mrs. Clara Bakke of the city reported that an intruder had entered her home and taken some money. Also on Sunday, Richard Booen, TRF, said a rabbit had been taken from a cage in their yard at approximately 1:45 a.m.

Monday, Robert Lund of the city said that at approximately 3 a.m. a rotten crab apple thrown at his house broke a window, causing an estimated $25 damage.

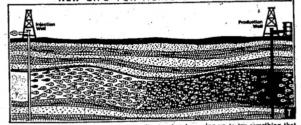
NEW LIFE FOR AGING OIL FIELDS



Picture an abandoned oil field — its pumps no longer bobbing, its pipelines torn out, its roads given back to prairie grass, and its remaining oil lost to a nation in need.

Such might be the fate of many an oil field in the U. S. without new recovery processes to keep them producing for many years.

One such new process is called "low-tension waterflooding", now being tested by Mobil Oil Corporation at its West Burkburnett, Texas, field.

For years, the specter of abandonment has haunted the men who operate the field. After its peak in 1953, when 150 wells pumped 7,000 barrels a day, the field's production declined to 180 barrels a day in 1973. Dr. S. L. Meisel, vice president of Mobil Research and Development Corporation, picks up the story.

"Just to bring up that 180 barrels, we were pumping 7,000 barrels of water into the oil formation every day. But the well still had half the oil it originally held. The problem was how to get it out, with maximum economic efficiency.

"Getting oil out of a field like this is like cleaning an oil-soaked towel. First you wring the towel, then you flush the towel with water. We've been using waterflooding at 'West Burk' since the 1940s.

"A waterflood pushes out a lot of oil but it leaves a lot more behind — as much as 60 percent in some fields. What you need to do next is to give the 'towel' a good scrubbing with a detergent. That's what low-tension waterflooding does."

Mobil's new process uses special detergents to remove oil left in the reservoir after a waterflooding operation. The oil is trapped in the small pores of the rock by "interfacial tension" The detergent is mixed with water and pumped down nearby injection wells, to lower the tension and make the oil flow to the production well.

"If it works," says Dr. Meisel, "it could bring up another five million barrels of oil out of West Burk alone, over the next 20 to 30 years. The trouble is, these detergents are expensive."

Because of the high price of imported oil — approximately $11.00 a barrel — many oilmen feel that the cost of these new recovery techniques is justifiable. At least half of U. S. domestic oil production comes from wells where waterflooding has raised recovery from an average of 20 percent to an average yield of 34 percent. The use of detergents and other chemicals now promises to raise the recovery rate to 40 to 50 percent.

However, in spite of these optimistic projections, Dr. Meisel remains cautious.

"The very size of this project calls for new methods. In one phase of the operation, for example, we have to pump millions of gallons of our different chemical solutions into the reservoir. To pull this project off, it's going to take a lot of research and field people teaming up to try something that may not work."

West Burk is not the only field that's gearing up for low-tension waterflooding. Mobil has projects planned or going on at other locations around the United States.

Not all these fields are on the verge of abandonment, either. Mobil's 7,000-acre West Ranch Field in South Texas is producing 37,000 barrels a day under a natural waterdrive. That means that an underground water supply continually forces oil to the surface. Even so, Mobil engineers have conducted a preliminary small-scale field test of the low-tension waterflood process there.

"There are risks," Dr. Meisel says. "Shortly after starting the test, it started raining, flooding the test site under four feet of water. The rain didn't bring up any oil, just a lot of snakes. But that's the kind of hazards you have to be willing to take if the oil is going to keep flowing.

"I think the West Ranch test has been a success. Technically, we found that the process displaces oil that can't be displaced by conventional recovery practices. This pilot project will help us design a future large-scale application in West Ranch."

Low-tension waterflooding is a gamble but if it works, old fields like West Burk and West Ranch will have a second childhood — and the country will get more oil.

Study Hearing Loss In U of M Program

By Markie Harwood
U of M News Service

What happens inside the ear when hearing is lost? An interdisciplinary team of University of Minnesota researchers under the direction of Michael Paparella, chairman of the department of otolaryngology, is attempting to answer this question.

Although the incidence of hearing loss is widespread (approximately 8.5 million Americans are handicapped by hearing loss and few people over 35 can hear as well as they once could), the physiological mechanisms of hearing loss are still not adequately understood, the researchers maintain.

The cochlea, the essential organ for hearing, has been a "no man's land" as far as research is concerned, according to Mary Jayne Capps, associate professor of otolaryngology.

An understanding of how the system works in necessary before attempts can be made to repair it, said David Nelson, assistant professor of otolaryngology and communication disorders.

In an effort to fill this knowledge gap, Nelson will coordinate projects on the identification and differentiation of hearing disorders.

In one project, patients with hearing loss are placed in a chamber where only sounds produced by a computer can be heard. The computer manipulates the sound environment and the patients respond to the sounds they can hear. Noting which types of sound a patient can and cannot hear, researchers will try to determine which parts of the auditory system are not functioning properly, Nelson said.

Essentially, the researchers will try to discover how sound is being modified in the ears of the patients, making them unable to distinguish some sounds from others, he said.

Study by neurophysiologists of how sounds are coded into electrical impulses in the nervous systems of animals may also prove useful. By measuring electrical impulses, researchers will attempt to determine what sounds the cochlea can handle both when it is operating normally and when normal operation breaks down, resulting in hearing loss. Inferences can then be made from animal to human cochleas, Nelson said.

Other research teams are particularly interested in what happens inside the ear—and specifically in how the cochlea is damaged—when noise and drugs interfere with hearing. The mechanisms by which hearing loss occurs with the introduction of these agents are likely to be similar to those of hearing loss due to old age or other agents such as viruses, according to the researchers.

Capps will coordinate the projects on drug-induced hearing loss. Some drugs, mostly antibiotics and drugs prescribed for kidney diseases, somehow reach the ear and cause hearing loss as a side effect. the purpose of her team's reaearch will be to determine how certain drugs get to the ear and why the ear has no barrier against them.

In many cases, patients taking these drugs have a choice between hearing loss and death, Capps said. If it is known how the drugs cause hearing loss, perhaps a patient's physician could monitor the effects of the drugs and eliminate or reduce dosages when hearing is severely threatened, she said.

Her research will mainly involve animals, although some studies will involve people who are already taking the drugs.

W. Dixon Ward, professor in otolaryngology and communication disorders, will coordinate the projects on noise-induced hearing loss. It is known that measurable hearing loss occurs with steady daily exposure to noise at 80 decibels and that hearing loss that is significant to daily living occurs at 90 decibels, Ward said. The sound of the human voice, at a normal tone, is usually about 60 decibels.

While the effects of steady exposure to noise are fairly well known, the adverse effect on hearing of intermittent and impulse noise, such as gunfire, is not known and will be an important subject of Ward's investigations.

Animals will be exposed to noise to determine temporary or permanent hearing losses that result from different sound levels, Ward said. There may be a critical exposure level at which temporary hearing loss becomes permanent and hearing is never recovered, according to Nelson. The data gained from the study of animals will be used to attempt to determine the critical exposure level for humans.

The chinchilla is the chief experimental animal used in this research because its auditory system is similar to man's and because it can easily be trained to indicate when it hears a sound. After two months of training, a chinchilla will jump across a barrier whenever it hears even the most minute sound, Nelson said.

The hearing study comprises 18 projects involving researchers from the fields of biochemistry, neurophysiology, psychology, speech science, vestibular physiology, histopathology, electronmicroscopy and psychoacoustics.

The research is funded by a $1.9 million five-year grant from the national institute of neurological and communicative disorders and stroke.

Overpayments To Vets Recovered By Reductions

Overpayments resulting from assistance provided to veterans and servicement enrolled in GI bill training must be recovered, Irvin D. Noll, director, veterans administration center at Fargo, said recently.

Every effort is made to avoid overpayments, Noll said, but this requires a coordinated effort on the part of the VA, the veteran and the training institution. Overpayments most frequently occur when the VA is not informed promptly of a change in the veteran's training status.

He said that, generally, any indebtedness to the U.S. government is recovered through reduction of future VA monthly assistance checks until the overpayment is satisfied.

To minimize the inconvenience and additional paperwork caused by overpayments, the VA director urged veterans to notify the VA immediately of any changes in training. This notification has been simplified at schools in the state where VA's "vet reps" provide on-campus service.

Noll also said it was important for GI bill students to keep the VA informed of changes in dependency status and addresses. This will help to insure that the veteran is receiving the proper amount and that delivery of monthly assistance checks is not interrupted, he said.

Bicycle Motor Vehicle Mishaps High In Minn.

Public safety commissioner Edward G. Noval recently called for an all-out effort by motorists in the state to halt the rising number of fatal bicycle-motor vehicle crashes, most of which involve a very young bicyclist.

"Through July, 15 fatal bicycle accidents have already been reported in the state and that's only one short of the total we recorded for all of 1974," Novak stated.

Particularly disturbing, according to Novak, are the young ages of nearly all the victims. Only one was over 15 years of age with the average being about 12. Five of the victims were less than ten years old.

"We believe that both motorists and bicyclists realize that the law applies equally to them," Novak said, "but the high involvement of very young people in the fatal crashes dictates that motorists simply must be extra cautious when they observe youngsters on bikes."

Novak emphasized that it is not the question of who is at fault that is being addressed, but rather saving lives, in this case very young ones. Preliminary reports from investigating officers indicate that fault is about evenly divided in the 15 crashes this year.

"We hope that ongoing education programs in the schools and by local police and civic organizations will help in teaching bicyclists their rights and responsibilities," Novak stated, "and at the same time motorists must do their part in insuring that bicyclists are given the use of the road to which they are entitled.

"With schools in the state reopening again in the near future," Novak concluded, "increased numbers of young bicyclists will be on the roads in the morning rush hour traffic periods. Because of that, the deaths we have already experienced this year, we urge all motorists to be extremely careful when a young bicyclist is observed."

New Procedure To Fix Bridges Now Being Tried

Potholed, deteriorated bridge decks are an ever-increasing hazard, involving substantial repair costs as well as inconvenience for the nation's motorists. In an effort to prevent bridge deck deterioration in Minnesota, the highway department's physical research section is studying a newly developed system, cathodic protection, on the TH 100 bridge over CSAH 66 (Duluth street) in Golden Valley, state highway commissioner Frank D. Marzitelli said.

Recognizing premature bridge deterioration as a serious, widespread problem, the highway research board, the national experimental and evaluation program, and state highway research sections are investigating possible solutions. The system being installed in Golden Valley is a demonstration project and, as such, will be partially funded by the Federal Highway administration.

Corrosion of the reinforcing steel, rebars, is considered the main cause of accelerated deck deterioration. As rebars corrode, they expand, causing stress in the surrounding concrete. Under heavy traffic, surface cracks and dish-shaped potholes, or spalls, appear.

Rebar corrosion is caused by an electric current flowing out of the rebar at one point, the anode, and back into the bar at another, the cathode. Salt, which seeps through the deck from the surface where it is used to control ice, speeds up current flow and rebar rusting. Corrosion stops if the current flow stops. By providing a slightly higher current in the opposite direction, cathodic protection stops the corroding current in the rebars. The corrective current needed is about 0.8 volts, half the amount found in a standard flashlight battery.

The current is provided by a direct current rectifier from a power supply cabinet to be installed beneath the bridge deck.

Before the cathodic protection system is installed, spalls must be patched and cracks filled with epoxy or sealer. Then anodes, small cylinders, are bonded to the deck and covered with a special current conducting layer of coke-modified asphalt, called coke breeze. A final riding surface of standard asphalt is laid over the coke breeze. The corrective current will be sent to the anodes and then flow through the coke breeze and into the deck. This current will prevent the rebars from discharging and will stop corrosion.

During the next four years the new system will be monitored, inspected, and evaluated. The Highway department's physical research section will prepare a final report and make recommendations for future use.

FALLACIES and FACTS about TAXES

FALLACY: Capital gain treatment is nothing but a loophole; a way to avoid paying taxes.

FACT: Capital gain tax treatment encourages investment in high-risk or long-term resources. Such treatment allowed for income earned from timberlands, for example, is an incentive to landowners to expand this nation's valuable forest resources.

FALLACY: Allowing capital gain tax treatment for timber encourages devastation of the land.

FACT: Since the capital gain tax incentive for timber was established in 1944, Congress has found that it makes for better forest management. In the 1930's, the United States had less timber at the end of every year than at the start. Now, over 22 million acres of private land have been planted to trees, compared to only 3 million acres in all the years preceding the enactment. Capital gain tax benefits help make good land management good business.

CAPITAL GAINS

FALLACY: Capital gain treatment helps only big business.

FACT: In fact, 59 percent of forest land is owned by small individual landowners and 13 percent is owned by the forest products industry. Healthy forests are everybody's business. Capital gain treatment enables both small landowners and land resource companies, such as International Paper, to grow more trees for the many paper and wood products we all use every day as well as for wildlife, watershed and public recreation.

Farm Bureau Is Adamant About Loading Boycott

A boycott invoked recently by maritime unions of U.S. grain shipments to the Soviet Union will be "damaging not only to agriculture but to the entire economy," the board of directors of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation meeting in St. Paul has declared.

The board, representing the state's largest general farm organization, urged the Ford administration and Congress to intervene, asserting in a statement that labor has "no qualifications, or right, to interfere with U.S. trade policy."

Farm Bureau board statement, issued in response to AFL-CIO President George Meany's announcement that longshoremen at East, Gulf and Great Lakes ports have been ordered not to load newly purchased grain aboard Russia-bound ships, follows:

"The boycott of ships transporting U.S. grain to Russia is a demonstration of organized labor's arrogance. This action will be damaging not only to agriculture but to the entire economy. American farmers, consumers and taxpayers stand to lose if the nation's agricultural producers are denied access to vital export markets. If farmers who depend on the market for their income are denied this outlet, it may mean possible production cutbacks, with reduced supplies and higher consumer prices.

"The concern of Mr. Meany and maritime union officials that the American-Soviet grain sale will mean sharply increased prices for U.S. consumers in nothing short of a cruel hoax on the public. Recognized authorities say these sales should have little impact on food prices. Some 10.3 million metric tons of wheat, corn and barley is well wtihin the productivity of our farmers and ranchers. Even the most pessimistic of 1975 crop yield estimates assure that we will have plenty of grain to meet domestic needs and still have ample stocks to compete in the world market.'

"A healthy movement of farm exports into foreign trade channels in essential. Our farm economy's dependence on exports is well established. Farm exports also mean more jobs for those who process and distribute them—union members included. In addition, farm exports play a major role in improving the U.S. balance of payments, in helping pay for costs of increased oil imports and sharply reducing government farm program costs to taxpayers.

"The board of directors of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation suggests that labor has no qualifications, or right, to interfere with U.S. trade policy. Therefore, the board strongly believes it imperative that the Ford administration and Congress return American trade policy from a handful of labor leaders to the proper authority of government. We urge such action be taken immediately so that we might meet our export commitments to farmer producers, grain companies that have completed sales and our foreign customers who have made the purchases."

Youth Turned On By 4-H Electric Program

CHICAGO—Electricity means power.

That power may be 1,000 kilowatts for a locomotive, 100 watts for a lamp, or only a tiny fraction of one watt picked out of the air by a radio transmitter. But every day the energy generated by electricity vitally affects man and his environment.

The why's and how's of electricity are being explored by 122,000 young people from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H electric program. In its 40th year of sponsorship by Westinghouse Electric Corporation, the learn-by-doing program helps 4-H'ers fathom the mysteries of this important energy source.

Understanding electricity

How electricity heats, what makes motors run, how electric bells and buzzers work, how cells and batteries operate, are some of the topics examined.

In activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H members acquire electrical safety skills aimed at preventing personal injury or property damage. And 4-H'ers learn to play a part in easing the energy crisis by using electricity efficiently in the home.

Practical 4-H electric projects range from the relatively simple, like making a circuit board or rewiring a lamp, to the progressively more complex—building a crystal radio or radio voice transmitter, for example.

Some of last year's winners of national college scholarships offered by Westinghouse built an oscilloscope (an instrument that works much like a television set), designed stage lighting for theatrical productions, and wired an electric fence and heating lamps on the family farm.

Awards for achievement

This year, in addition to six $800 national scholarships, Westinghouse will provide an expense-paid trip to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago, to one top program member from each state. Medals of honor will go to as many as four 4-H'ers in each county.

Winners are chosen by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

County extension agents can furnish additional information on this and other 4-H programs.

In the national 4-H electric program 122,000 young people learn by doing that electric energy vitally affects man and his environment. As they take part in projects supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H'ers can work for awards donated by Westinghouse Electric Company, which has supported the program for 40 years.

A Simple Operation!
Simplicity describes the design as well as the operation of this drying system. Fewer moving parts reduces 'downtime' and eliminates a lot of unnecessary worry. Controls are placed for easy use and identification. There is no need to stand by the controls adjusting and readjusting. Depending on field drying conditions, periodic moisture tests and compensating adjustments are all the attention that's required.
For reliability and simplicity in a one pass continuous flow dryer, it's the Tox-O-Wik II 960.

Disabled Cars On Interstate Must Be Removed

Vehicles that become disabled on Interstate highways should be removed as soon as possible, state patrol chief James C. Crawford warned recently, adding that those are not removed or that are left in positions that endanger other traffic will be towed away at the owner's expense.

"If a motorist is forced to leave his vehicle on the freeway and expects any delay in removing it, he should call the state patrol and identify the vehicle and its location and give the reason for the delay," Crawford stated.

Vehicles that must be temporarily abandoned due to mechanical difficulties should be parked on the shoulder as far as possible off the travelled roadway. The parking lights should be left on if it is dark or if the motorist expects that it will be dark before he can return.

"If a vehicle is left in a driving lane, or a ramp or in an exit lane or other location where it is a hazard to other traffic, the State Patrol will order it towed at once," Crawford stated.

Pointing out that any stops on Interstates except those caused by an emergency are prohibited by law, Crawford added that for reasons of safety, a driver should stay off the freeways if his vehicle is malfunctioning or is in such poor condition that there is danger of a breakdown.

"A car that is disabled by the blowout of a bald tire, a failing battery, an empty fuel tank or other preventable failure places other drivers in danger needlessly," he said. "Some malfunctions are bound to occur, and we allow adequate time for a motorist to correct his difficulty. However, a vehicle that is not removed after a reasonable period of time or that is carelessly abandoned is a traffic hazard and will thus be towed at the expense of the owner."

the MIND to imagine.. the SKILL to do!

In 1682, J.D. Cassini had the mind to imagine and the skills to create the first really accurate map of the world in the world!

In 1935, R.A.W. Watt had the skills and imagination to develop a new method of detecting distant objects, particularly aircraft. He called it Radio-Detection-and Ranging, RADAR for short, and military experts believe that without it, England probably would have lost the Battle of Britain!

Today, RADAR and map making have been combined by the minds and skills of the people at Motorola. Using a device called Side Looking Airborne Radar or SLAR, they can take an aerial "photograph" under almost any conditions, better, cheaper, faster, in greater detail and over a larger area than film: a great help to engineers, environmentalists and geologists.

Wild Blue Yonder

It's just an old toy—yet in his imagination this boy can climb to supersonic heights with it.

In his fancy, he is at the controls, soaring high above the earth. One step more, and he will pilot a rocket to the moon.

It may well be that these dreams, moon and all, will someday become reality for this young man. Meantime, there is countless wonder and joy in his boyish fancies.

There should be countless wonder and joy, too, in his church experience. Non-churchgoers are apt to think that religion is a dull, dour, fearsome matter. Rather, it should be one of the most glorious parts of life.

Look deeply into your own religion. Go to the church of your choice this Sunday.

"Blew through Washington yesterday. Everybody that I tried to talk to about the Presidential nomination was a candidate himself. Both Houses spent all week arguing politics. Did you ever figure it out? They are the only people that are paid to do one job, and do every other one there is, but that. If businessmen strayed as far from their actual business, we would have the prosperity of India."

Inept Congress

The following remarks are excerpted from an address by Michel T. Halbouty to the National Energy Forum III in Washington. Halbouty, of Houston, is a consulting geologist, petroleum engineer, independent producer and operator.

I think it is very obvious who is going to pay the bill for our lack of a national energy policy.

There are some who envision energy independence and zero imports by 1985, but they are perverting reality to fit their fantasies. I can safely predict that this foolish assumption will not happen and could not happen because of the decisions and actions already taken and implemented by an inept Congress.

This fact—as well as the crisis itself—is a tragedy and a blight on our leaders because this nation is rich in energy potential. It is a national disgrace that we ever became dependent on foreign sources for as much as a single barrel of oil.

There is an archive full of warnings of a predicted energy shortage which were first pronounced over two decades ago.

For example, in 1951 President Truman appointed a commission on natural resources generally known as the Paley Commission. The study clearly showed that the U.S. was outgrowing its resource base. It bore down on the future shortage of crude oil and natural gas.

Business and labor, as well as those in science, technology and the media, applauded the commission's findings, but as far as I know, that was the end of it.

The only segment of our society that ignored the findings was the government itself. President Truman, after receiving Chairman Paley's report, was virtually unresponsive.

The report recommended not only that petroleum be conserved and exploration stepped up, but that research into the gasification and liquefaction of coal be undertaken, that we immediately develop nuclear energy, examine shale oil prospects, solar and other forms of energy.

Instead, the public went on an energy binge. Cars got larger, artificial price limits were put on natural gas, making it available to every boiler and blast furnace in the nation.

Foreign oil was permitted to displace domestic oil and 30,000 independent wildcat explorers were forced out of the industry.

Crisis was in the making. Nothing could stop it.

Even now, with the immediate past two years of embargos, shortages, OPEC cartel and confusion, we still do not have an energy policy, and it seems unlikely we will get one in the near future—and maybe never, if we consider what Congress has accomplished in the attempt to establish a policy.

It is really amazing to realize that during this entire energy crisis the Congress of the United States has not taken one single step toward increasing the supply of energy in this country.

To the contrary, at a time when the petroleum industry needs every incentive and encouragement to discover more petroleum on our own lands, onshore and offshore, the Congress has done everything in its power to discourage the addition to new supplies, has laid every conceivable roadblock to prevent new discoveries, and for some unknown reason has virtually set out to deliberately attempt to destroy the lifeblood industry of this country.

Frankly, I cannot understand this action any more than I can that of a mother who would deliberately set out to destroy her own child.

Those in Congress have not realized that the attitude of the public is not in conformity with their own.

In a recent Harris poll, 46 per cent of the public favored deregulation of prices of domestic oil and gas, against 31 per cent who did not. This must have been a surprise to the members of Congress who were working on the theory that the 42-28 plurality that opposed deregulation a year ago was still the public attitude.

Another recent poll shows the public in favor of offshore drilling, 73-13. A majority of 68 per cent also favored taking steps to diminish dependence on foreign oil.

During most of my lifetime, the U.S. marketplace demand for oil and gas was all the incentive those of us in the petroleum industry needed to go out and look for it; with luck, find it, and sent it on its way to the consumer.

There was little need to file forms, ask permission, argue about national policy, wait for decisions to be made in Washington and wrangle over what constitutes an acceptable rate of return on investment.

Today we live in a confused new world of allocations, price controls, regulations, harassments and a never-ending flow of government forms.

So who is going to be hurt? Who is going to pay the bill?

It will be the consuming public, in whose name so many destructive regulations have been imposed.

Everyone of these ill-conceived; unworkable regulations is costly, and the consumer pays the cost. None of these ideas is designed to produce one additional barrel of crude—and the consumer will inevitably face the shortages and adverse consequences.

It is paramount for the American people to fully understand that our increased dependency on foreign petroleum would destroy 200 years of progress and growth and could—easily, eventually—destroy the nation.

A Weak Alibi

Following editorial is from the Duluth Herald:

Boy, it must be tough for those legislators . . .

Monday a special grand jury criticized three public officials for their activities during the 1973 Legislature. The grand jury has been investigating the now infamous River Villa nursing home in Minneapolis.

The jury said former State Reps. Gary Flakne and John Salchert, and Rep. James Rice, "parlayed their positions of public power and trust into personal profit."

The three legislators, the jury said, all helped the nursing home industry generally or River Villa specifically through their work on special legislative committees. At the same time, all received some form of financial support from River Villa, Flakne for legal counsel, Rice for public relations counsel, and Salchert, a physician, for being the River Villa medical director and house doctor.

Flakne, now Hennepin County Attorney, said he was "sorry" if his actions now appeared improper, but added that conflicts of interest are almost inevitable for part-time, citizen-legislators.

"What does a farmer do who sits on the agriculture committee," Flakne asked, "or a school teacher on the education committee, or a labor official on the labor committee?"

He uses his head, that's what he does.

Really, it shouldn't be that difficult. It's one thing for a school teacher to work for legislation that benefits his profession generally, and quite another to work on legislation for specific personal rewards. A teacher who works to increase state aids to local school districts may indirectly be increasing his salary. But that is not similar to a lawyer being paid by a nursing home at the same time that he is writing legislation to exclude that home from certain state fire regulations-as Flakne did, according to the jury's report.

A farmer-legislator who writes laws regulating soil conservation is one thing. If the same man writes legislation requiring all Minnesota farmers to buy X-brand tractors, and at the same time is being paid on the side by that tractor manufacturer, that farmer-legislator has a conflict of interest.

Admittedly, the distinctions are not always black and white. But they are rarely so gray as to confuse a good conscience.

A man went into a coma after receiving a bump on the head and did not awaken for 20 years. After getting his bearings, he called his broker. His hundred shares of AT&T were now worth $8 million, his shares of General Motors were worth $6 million, his holdings of Xerox had advanced to $15 million, and so on. The man figured he must be at least a billionaire.

Just then the telephone operator came on the line and stated: "Your three minutes are up, sir. Will you please deposit $75,000?"

If the safety pin had been invented this year, instead of long ago, it would probably have six moving parts and two transistors, and require a serviceman twice a year.

MINNESOTA REPORT

WALTER F. MONDALE

Americans have had to pay a very high price to own their own homes. The homebuyer has paid and continues to pay outrageously high mortgage rates. To attack this problem I have recently introduced an amendment which would cut thousands of homebuyer's FHA mortgage insurance costs by a full 50 per cent.

My amendment would cut the insurance premiums on FHA mortgages on one-to-four family dwellings insured under the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund from one-half of one per cent to one-quarter of one per cent. The MMIF insures the mortgages on thousands of FHA one-to-four family dwellings.

This amendment would save a Minnesota family with a $19,000 mortgage as much as $943 over the life of the mortgage. A family with a $25,000 mortgage could save $1,280. It would appreciably lower the present high cost of buying any of the one-to-four family homes insured by FHA.

Mortgage interest rates for FHA insured mortgages have been above seven per cent for the past six years. Currently, the maximum FHA interest rate is 8.5 per cent.

A reduction in mortgage insurance premium levels has the same effect as a reduction in mortgage interest rates. Homebuyers pay one-half of one per cent insurance charge on their outstanding mortgage balance every month. This charge is usually paid as part of the monthy mortgage payment check. Cutting the insurance fee in half is exactly like lowering the mortgage interest rate by one-quarter of one per cent.

The reduction of 50 per cent in the MMIF insurance premium is actuarially conservative and sound. While there have been dramatic increases in defaults under the Special Risk Fund and the General Fund, defaults under the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund have not risen dramatically.

Thousands of American homebuyers - - with MMIF mortgages under FHA - - are paying a needlessly high insurance premium. The government is collecting needless reserves at the expense of the average homebuyer.

Over the years, between 30 and 40 per cent of the FHA insurance premiums have been going to pay FHA's expenses. FHA administrative costs should be reduced and I believe that my bill will help accomplish this goal.

notes from the governor

Since territorial days the people of Minnesota have recognized the need to preserve the past. Scattered throughout our state are hundreds of historic places to visit, study and enjoy.

One of the most fascinating is the Sinclair Lewis Interpretive Center in Sauk Centre, just west of Saint Cloud. Sauk Centre was the home of Sinclair Lewis and the setting for one of the most important works in American literature, Main Street.

Earlier this summer I had a chance to visit the new Sinclair Lewis Interpretive Center shortly after it opened to visitors. I came away from that experience with a deeper appreciation for Minnesota's history and heritage.

No one can determine what social chemistry produces great politicians, physicians, artists or novelists. But early twentieth century Sauk Centre, with its blend of Scandinavian, Irish and German backgrounds, provided the necessary ingredients which produced Harry Sinclair Lewis.

At that time, rural Minnesota was a patchwork of small communities and farms, a wild and untamed land with a few larger municipal areas starting to emerge. Railroad service was just over twenty years old. Electricity was yet to come. The great Indian uprisings of the 1860's were still remembered and talked about in daily conversation.

Rural farm communities were, of necessity, self-sufficient, and each one had its own clearly defined social structure, moral climate, and rules of behavior.

This was the atmosphere in which Sinclair Lewis was born and raised, and against which he rebelled in writing Main Street. Published in 1920, the book became a literary and popular success, making Lewis one of the most important authors in America. In the books that followed, he continued to challenge America's romance with the small, rural town. He won the Pulitzer Prize in 1926 and the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1930.

Though he was accused by his neighbors of betraying them through his writings, Lewis had a deep appreciation for his rural Minnesota upbringing. And perhaps he expressed his appreciation for Sauk Centre best in an essay he wrote on the occasion of Sauk Centre High School's fiftieth anniversary. After writing of his childhood and his growth to manhood in Sauk Centre, Lewis concluded his essay by saying, "It was a good time. It was a good life. And it was a good preparation for life."

There is little more a city or a state can offer its children.

Gasoline prices have gone up as much as 50 per cent since the oil boycott, but they are still a lot lower than in most foregin countries, where motorists pay more than twice what we do for a gallon of gas.

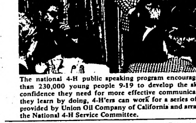
4-H'ers Speak Up For Better Communication

CHICAGO—More effective communication may be one solution to closing, or at least narrowing, the generation gap.

Working to establish better rapport with adults—and with peers—are more than 230,000 young people from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H public speaking program.

Through learn-by-doing activities, these 4-H'ers become skilled and confident in presenting their ideas formally to an audience. As a result, they are better able to get their message across clearly and convincingly in informal, everyday situations.



The national 4-H public speaking program encourages more than 230,000 young people 9-19 to develop the skills and confidence they need for more effective communication. As they learn by doing, 4-H'ers can work for a series of awards provided by Union Oil Company of California and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

The 4-H public speaking program is sponsored by Union Oil Company of California and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service. New this year is an eight-page booklet, "The Organized Public Speaker—You," prepared by Union Oil especially for program members.

Hints for speakers

The booklet advises 4-H'ers to:

- Choose an interesting topic, research it thoroughly, organize material carefully, then write an outline.
- Speak clearly (don't slur or mispronounce words) and loudly enough to be heard throughout the room. Avoid nervous mannerisms.
- To capture audience attention, open with an anecdote, startling statement or quotation.
- Cover no more than three to five main points in the body of the speech.
- Stick to the time limit. Close with a summary of major points and an effective quotation, surprise statement or appeal for action.

Incentives from Union Oil

To recognize the accomplishments of 4-H'ers, Union Oil offers medals of honor to a maximum of four members per county, and $50 U.S. Savings Bonds to an outstanding boy and girl in each state.

18 sectional winners, chosen from among state winners, get expense-paid trips to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago. Six sectional winners receive national recognition and $800 college scholarships.

Winners are selected by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment, with special emphasis on growth and development in 4-H public speaking activities. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Additional information on the program is available from county extension agents.

NEWEST RESIDENTS of Thief River Falls are Ngoc-Thuan Do, his wife Duong Le Tri and their two-year-old daughter Do Thi Hang. Refugees from Saigon, South Viet Nam, the family was evacuated to Guam and then to Ft. Chaffee, Ark., where they were listed for placement. Local sponsorship is being provided by the congregation of the United Methodist church which provides housing, clothing, financial assistance and a continuing friendship.

Vietnamese Family Comes To TR Falls

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Thief River Falls' newest resident family has lived three places in less than six months—Saigon, South Viet Nam, the island of Guam and Ft. Chaffee, Ark. Current place of residence is 1123 Knight av. N. in Thief River Falls and the family hopes it will be the final stop in its travels.

Ngoc-Thuan Do, 26, was a military policeman in the South Vietnamese air force for seven years, serving as a high ranking sergeant at the time he fled Saigon on April 29 (the day before the war ended) with his wife Duong Le Tri, 25, and their two-year-old daughter Do Thi Hang. They lived among refugees on Guam for about a week before being moved to Ft. Chaffee where many unplaced refugees still remain.

The Do family arrived in Thief River Falls Wednesday evening on North Central airlines with air transportation arranged for and paid by the United Methodist committee on relief. The United Methodist church congregation of Thief River Falls is sponsoring the family here.

Rev. Jonathan Law, pastor of United Methodist, said that the church's administrative board voted in late June to poll the congregation on whether or not it wanted to sponsor a refugee family. Information was obtained from headquarters of the United Methodist committee on relief in New York—the church agency handling placement of refugees—as to what responsibilities the congregation would assume in sponsorship.

Requirements listed by the committee were temporary housing, financial support until the head of the household could secure a job, assistance in securing employment and continuing friendship for the family as it adjusted to the local situation.

The congregation was polled in July and voted in favor of sponsorship. A committee was formed which made inquiries about possible places of local employment, available housing and the amount of money and support the congregation could raise to support the family.

Members of the committee made inquiry at Ft. Chaffee as to whether a small family was available and was informed that only large families remained to be placed. Later, however, the commitee was informed that the family which arrived Wednesday evening was still available. Administrative board of the congregation voted at the August meeting to invite the family to Thief River Falls.

LaSalle Chairs TRF United Way Downtown Drive

Jack LaSalle, owner and operator of Bruce pharmacy, was appointed to chair the downtown business area during the annual Thief River United Way campaign, according to Larry White, local United Way board chairman. Appointed to assist LaSalle were United Way board members Donald M. Olson, Bill Dee and Mrs. Neil McEwen.

The residential business area will be co-chaired by Gordon Peterson and James Lambert. Other appointments were: school system—Deone Cerny; professional area—Dr. Ed Nelson and Dr. Rick Heinrichs; Arctic Enterprises union employees—Hazel Huot; Arctic non-union—Larry White; residential door-to-door—Mrs. Joe Phelps, Mrs. Milton Hoff and Mrs. Neil McEwen. Each board member is responsible for their assigned area.

Board members are presently recruiting helpers, with Art Heinze, executive secretary of the local United Way, responsible for overall coordination.

October 1 has been set as the kick-off date for the United Way campaign, according to LaSalle, with completion date set for October 11. "A quick, concentrated effort will be made to complete the campaign on schedule," LaSalle said.

To assist in publicity efforts, a local slide presentation depicting people served through United Way supported agencies will be available for public showings. United Way films available for public meetings may be obtained by contacting any board member or Art Heinze at 681-1624, or 681-4240.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS planning the reception to be held for Dr. Alex Easton, new president of Northland community college, met Friday morning at the Rex cafe. Left to right are Bill Kottke, Edith Etter, Robert Flynn (committee chairman), Albert Kotrba, Bob Carlson and Don Grabanski. The welcome dinner for Dr. Easton will be held on Saturday, September 6, at 6:30 p.m. in the college gymnasium. It will be served buffet style with tickets at $3.50 each available at Northland, Thief River Falls chamber of commerce office, First Northwestern and Northern state banks. Advance ticket purchase is requested although a limited number of tickets will be available at the door.

Police Request Information On Painting Crew

Any persons having knowledge or information regarding a crew that engaged in painting houses and roofs and possibly tarring of driveways in Thief River Falls during the first half of August are requested to contact the police department.

Inquiries are the result of police suspicion that the crew may have been involved in improper business practices and a possible felony, although specific details of the group's activities were not released.

At least three men are said to be included in the crew. Descriptions of the workers and their vehicles are desired by the police, particularly from city residents who may have hired crew members for any work at their homes. It is hoped that additional assistance will aid law enforcement officials in a search for the men, who are no longer in the Thief River Falls area.

Needham Indian Pipes Go With Gov. To China

If Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota offers a peace pipe to Chinese officials during his visit to China, it will likely be one crafted by Dan Needham Sr. of rural Goodridge.

Needham, who is a past treasurer of the tribal council of the Red Lake band of Chippewa Indians, now operates the Chippewa Indian craft shop at his farm home east of Goodridge. He quarries pipestone at the Indian quarry near Pipestone and carves ornate pipes which he fits with carved sumac stems and decorated with feathers, fur or pipestone ornaments.

Mrs. Mary Anderson, the governor's wife, admired some of Needham's work while in Thief River Falls for the opening of the recent Artrain exhibit. She ordered seven pipes at that time, at least several of which were taken by the governor on a trip to Sweden.

Mrs. Anderson's secretary called Needham about two weeks ago and asked him to send whatever other peace pipes he could prior to the Andersons' departure for China. Thirteen pipes were supplied by the reservation craftsman.

Name Arbitrator For Grievance In TRF District

Selection of Arnold A. Karlins of Minneapolis as arbitrator to hear a grievance case between School District 564 of Thief River Falls and its teacher organization was made at a meeting of the two bodies on Thursday.

The River Falls Education association—representing all teachers in the Thief River Falls school district—has presented a grievance regarding the pay scale for the 1975-76 school year. Negotiations for the 1975-76 and 1976-77 school years have been underway for a number of weeks without being resolved.

The education association contends in its grievance that salaries for the present school year should be paid on the basis of last year's salary plus a one-year increment on the experience level. The board contends that no contract exists for the present school year and that teachers therefore are teaching under continuing contract.

Karlins' decision as arbitrator in the case will be binding upon both parties. Possible dates for the case to be heard have been set for September 22, September 29 or September 30.

Tamarac Watershed Helps During Flood

by Thomas C. Gahm
Information Specialist
Soil Conservation Service

It rose out of a bog in northern Marshall county and—depending on the season—trickled or raged its way for 40 miles over the fertile valley farmland into the Red River of the North.

In spring or after a heavy summer rain it would jump its banks and spill onto miles and miles of cropland. In the fall of a dry year its force would dwindle, and it would betray the town of Stephen which depended on it for municipal water. Too often the unsloping farmland within the watershed would be covered with water for too long, and crops would be lost to rot or disease.

That was Tamarac river a decade ago.

Today the story is different because the people of Marshall county decided to do something about it. Their's was some of the richest land in the country, and they knew it could be even better.

They asked the soil conservation service (SCS), U.S. department of agriculture, to launch a watershed protection and flood prevention program on the quarter-million-acre Tamarac River watershed. That project is underway today. Although only partially completed, the project withstood its first severe test and possibly the most strenuous it will ever face—early this summer. The eight inches of rain that fell on July 1 resulted in much of the Red River Valley being declared a disaster area, but damage was noticeably less where the dams, channeling, river bank improvement and soil conservation practices of the Tamarac river watershed project were in place.

Hilary Kuznia, who farms 450 acres near Florian, figures he lost 15 per cent of his crop because of the heavy rain this year. The Tamarac river and one of the project's four branch channels go through his farm. Kuznia believes that without that channel his loss would have been more like 50 per cent.

"Without that ditch the water wouldn't have gone off the fields for 48 to 72 hours," he said. "That channel took the water off in 24 hours and the crops survived."

Getting excess water off the fiels is one of the main problems the Red River valley farmer faces. Natural drainage is minimal because the land is as flat as a table top, and tile drainage is virtually impossible because of the heavy soils of the area.

This water management problem is the primary one the Tamarac River watershed project is tackling. The project calls for 40 miles of channeling. Except for two miles of new channeling, this will consist of improving existing channels. The four branch channels move excess water from fields into the Tamarac, and about eight miles of the Tamarac's main channel are being widened to double the capacity of the river.

As the channels are completed, banks are seeded and inlets are designed to control soil erosion

A total of 37 county residents took the test, which queried the applicants' ability to comprehend written instructions, perform simple arithmetic and read maps. The testing was supervised by John Rundle, a census bureau employee from Pelican Rapids, who was selected to carry out the county census. He is pictured in the upper right hand corner of the picture above to the immediate left of county auditor C. W. Rodekuhr, who assisted Rundle. The census is scheduled to begin this week, but a shortage of interviewers still persists, particularly in the rural townships. Although applications from all areas in the county have been requested. Arlene Skibicki-G. Novak Wed At Red Lake Falls

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Novak are at home in this city following an exchange of marriage vows at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Red Lake Falls and a wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells.

The bride, the former Arlene Skibicki, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Skibicki of Thief River Falls; and the groom is the son of Mrs. Elsie Novak of St. Hilaire.

Rev. Gerald L. Noesen officiated at the double ring ceremony. At the organ was Kathy Barron, who played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Nancy Mosbeck, Edith Johnson, Diane Mosbeck and Roseann Johnson as they sang, "Colour My World," and "Wedding Song."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white silk organza with cotton lace outlining the ruffled V-neckline. Matching lace trimmed the long, puffy sleeves that were gathered into wide cuffs and bordered the skirt above the hemline. Lace appliques were scattered across the skirt that flowed back into a chapel-length train. Her tiered chapel-length veil was edged with the same lace that trimmed her gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations, yellow roses, white pompons, babies' breath and ivy.

Mrs. Evonne Wold of Alvarado attended her sister as matron of honor. Other attendants were Carol Wilde, a friend of the bride, and Mrs. Linda Timm, a friend of the couple. The matron of honor was attired in a floor-length gown of pink polyester crepe flocked with multi-colored pastel flowers. Similar gowns in green and yellow, respectively, were worn by the other attendants. Their picture hats trimmed with ribbon matched their gowns. Each carried a lace backed nosegay, featuring a mum, tinted to match their gowns, babies' breath, greens and ribbon streamers. Their pearl necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Joan Hagen and Cory Swanson attended the bride as personal attendants.

Flower girl was Stacy Skibicki, a niece of the bride. She wore a white gown, flocked with munticolored flowers, and a veil with appliqued lace motifs. She carried a basket of mixed flowers. Her locket was a gift from the couple. The rings were carried by Lynn Skibicki, a nephew of the bride. He was attired like the groom in a white tuxedo with black trim, black trousers, white ruffled shirt and a yellow rose boutonniere.

Best man was Ralph Swick, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Steven Skibicki of Goodridge, brother of the bride, and Terry Timm, a friend of the couple. The usher were Wesley Skibicki, brother of the bride, and Roger Novak of Crookston, a brother of the groom. They wore gray tuxedos with black trousers, ruffled shirts and carnation boutonnieres tinted to match the gowns worn by the bride's attendants.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Skibicki selected a sleeveless dress of pastel green polyester accented by a corsage of yellow roses and carnations. The mother of the groom wore a pastel orange dress with coordinating purse and shoes. Her corsage was identical to the one worn by the bride's mother.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for approximately 200 relatives and friends. Highlighting the serving table was a wedding cake featuring individually frosted cakes arranged on a five-tiered white wrought-iron stand. Topping each cake was a flower tinted in yellow or pink. The upper tier supported the traditional first anniversary cake, decorated with matching flowers and topped by a miniature bride and groom ornament. Mrs. Evelyn Vanek, godmother of the groom, served the cakes as Doris Vanek, aunt of the groom, poured.

The guests were registered by Shirley Novak, sister of the groom. Patty Swedenburg and Mary Lane, friends of the couple, served the punch. Waitresses were Myrna Schroeder, Marilyn Haugen, Yvonne Gonsorowski and Hollie Olson, friends of the bride. In charge of the gift table were Delores Hillyer and Mrs. Martha Dahl.

The bride and groom are residing at 526 Nora street. They are graduates of Lincoln high school. The bride, who is also a 1975 graduate of the local AVTI, is employed by Pepsi Cola Bottling in this city. The groom is farming in the St. Hilaire community.

Paying Dues Is Stressed At VFW Auxiliary Meet

Paying dues was stressed at the regular meeting of the VFW auxiliary 2793, held Monday at the Post club rooms.

Stressing the payment of dues was District Senior vice president Lorraine Morben. She stated that if possible dues should be paid before September 17 as memberships received after that date will be too late to be credited to the auxiliary for the fall conference at Grand Rapids, set for September 18th. She also announced that it is urgent that dues be paid by December 31 as the national per capital will increase January 1st. After that date, a member is in arrears and suffers the loss of cancer insurance for six months. Mrs. Morben said that dues may be sent to treasurer Marge Bacon, route 3, or to President Mariann Myhrer.

President Myhrer presided at the meeting and also welcomed Sharon Brahosky as a member.

Several donations were made by the auxiliary. Included were $10 to the Jerry Lewis telethon for muscular dystrophy; $15 to VA hospitals for silver dollar bingo; $45 to VA hospital Christmas fund; $100.80 for hospital and rehabilitation; $25 for Health and Happiness fund; $5 to the National home Christmas cheer fund and $2 to the National Home Christmas seal fund.

The meeting also included the draping of the charter in memory of Clara Halland and Past District President Myrtle Lovejoy. Both died in August.

The meeting began with a Bicentennial tour of the Pioneer Historical village. The attendance prize was won by Mildred Rux and the door prize by Tilda Burstad. Hostesses were Marion Houfek, Alice Keck and Donna Kotaska.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Today's Kitchen Karnival is a tribute to all who have made the past weeks easier for Tiny Grandma and for the rest of us. When it became evident that Tiny Grandma needed medical help, she was brought back to Thief River Falls and was hospitalized. Since then, little strokes have left her left side weakened and her mind slightly confused. We miss the sparkle in her eyes and her quick laughter.

In the past, Grandma has been so fortunate. Her previous slight strokes didn't affect her mind. After she broke her hip at the age of 89, she learned to walk again without the aid of her walker. Much credit can be given to her determination not "to spend the rest of my life in a wheelchair," plus the TLC (tender loving care) that she received. With that same care, maybe her laughter and sparkling eyes will again return.

We in this area are fortunate in having several places where senior citizens can spend the last years of their lives. Those who are able to care for themselves are enjoying the senior citizens' units. Especially grateful for those apartments are the ones who lived in dingy upstairs rooms. (Remember?) For those who need room and board, Valley Home and several private homes are available. The CNC unit and Oakland Park Nursing home are available for those needing specialized or extended care. All the homes have one thing in common. They require a staff to care for their people.

It takes a special type of a person to adequately care for the needs of the elderly. Not all people are suited for this work. Especially needed is compassion and an endless amount of patience. Having those ingredients are: the young girl who patiently coaxed the little old gentleman to button his clothes before going into the dining room; the gray-haired woman who dignified her patient by softly whispering, "Do you want to go the the bathroom?" the girl who gently walked near her patient with halting footsteps; and the little blond who upon entering the room, cheerfully calls her patient by name. They are the ones to whom the patients look for tender loving care, knowing that they will receive it. They are the ones that make it possible for us, the family, to sleep at night, knowing that our loved ones are receiving care.

To all of you, including those who were instrumental in improving living conditions for the elderly, we, the family of Tiny Grandma express our deep gratitude.

The recipe today is an original by Mrs. Donald Barron of this city. After much experimenting, she discovered the right ingredients. She entered the Beef-cook-off contest, sponsored by the Minnesota Cowbells, an auxiliary of the Minnesota Beef Producers, Assn. Her recipe won second place in the state contest.

Mrs. Barron, whose husband raises wild rice as a hobby, has become interested in collecting recipes using Wild rice. In addition, she has begun a hobby researching and collecting information pertaining to wild rice. At present, she is serving on the promotion board and the Growers' association board. The Barrons have three children: Cathy, who is employed by Piggly Wiggly; Lee, who is employed on a beef ranch and will attend Northland Community college this fall; and Darby, a ninth grader. Mrs. Barron's husband is soil scientist with the Federal Soil Conservation service.

Congratulations, Mrs. Barron.

Peggy Ann Bue Marries Jeffrey Skime At Skime

Peggy Ann Bue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bue of this city, and Jeffrey Dean Skime, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Skime of International Falls, exchanged marriage vows at an afternoon ceremony at the Bethesda Lutheran church in Skime.

Rev. Erling Huglen officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Gilbert Loe served as organist and Mrs. Erling Huglen sang, "The Lord's Prayer," and "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white Camelot styled gown trimmed with lace. A corresponding headpiece held her elbow-length veil. She cerried a hand bouquet of white roses, red carnations and babies' breath.

Jean Tweten of Thief River Falls was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Grahn of Bemidji, cousin of the groom, and Pamela Bue, sister of the bride. They wore identical gowns of a light blue floral print chiffon over a darker shade of blue. To accent their attire, they wore white picture hats with light blue bows, and carried a large football mum surrounded by babies' breath.

Wearing similar attire was the flower girl, Shelia Verbout of Grygla, a cousin of the bride. The rings were carried by Peter Dale Swenson of Roseau, another cousin of the bride.

Attending the groom were the best man, Wade Nordstrand of International Falls, the groomsmen: Delano Bue of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride, and Gary Skime of Thief River Falls, brother of the groom, and the ushers: Mike Skime of International Falls, brother of the groom, and Mylan Loken of Wannaska, cousin of the bride. All the men of the wedding party wore navy blue tuxedos with blue ruffled shirts and blue carnation boutonnieres.

Honor guests at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Hammer, grandparents of the bride; Oscar Roseen, grandfather of the groom, and Mrs. Elizabeth Schires, great-grandmother of the bride.

A reception in the church parlors followed with members of the Bethesda Ladies Aid in charge of the serving. Mrs. Bill Ellis presided at the guest book as Shelly Skime, Sherry Swenson and Bonnie Verbout served the punch.

Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Kenneth Brateng. The cake was iced in white and decorated with red roses. It was cut and served by Mrs. Elmer W. Erickson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Kenny Englund, cousin of the bride. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Mike Mielke, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Bruce Sirotiak, a cousin of the groom. Gift bearers were Shelly Skime, Tom Skime and Tim Bue.

The couple is now at home in Thief River Falls at Countryside Trailer court, lot 58. The groom in employed in this city by Arctic Sports.

Owners Of Buses Must Paint Them Different Color

Owners of buses formerly used as school buses in Minnesota were warned today by Minnesota state patrol Chief J. C. Crawford that as of August 1, the color of such vehicles must be changed and their school bus related lettering and equipment be removed as requred by state law.

Following an announcement of a month ago which provided a grace period for the owners of thse buses to complete the changes, Crawford stated that the August 1 date marks the end of the grace period and the beginning of the issuance of citations for the offense.

The vehicles, often purchased by groups or individuals for recreational use, must be repainted to a color other than yellow or orange, as well as have their special roof mounted warning lamps, stop arm and school bus lettering removed. The law applies similarly to buses used for church camp or Sunday school purposes.

However, a church which operates a school bus in connection with a private or parochial school at which general education is imparted may use the school bus for Sunday school, Bible school or other activities, but during such use, the "school bus" signs must be covered or removed and the special warning lamps and stop arm cannot be used.

1976 Provisions Announced For Feed Producers

USDA has announced that there will be no set-aside requirement for the 1976 feed grain and wheat programs. It will be the third consecutive year for the feed grain and wheat programs in which no set-aside was required.

Feed grain and wheat producers are being discouraged from taking cropland out of production next year, department officials explain, because even though this year's corn and wheat crops are expected to be at record levels, export demand is strong.

As announced in 1973, there will be no conserving base requirement for the duration of the agriculture and consumer protection act which runs through the 1977 crop year.

In 1976, as in the present year, producers may substitute any non-conserving crop (except marketing quota crops) or any conserving crop used for hay or for grazing in order to preserve their wheat and feed grain allotments.

Tamarac River Project Helps During Floods

and keep the channels free of sediment and other debris.

Most of the main channel work on the Tamarac has been finished.

"Guys along the Tamarac didn't lose enough to cry this year, when previously they would have lost it all," says Lawrence Kuznia, who farms five miles northeast of Stephen. "Areas that flooded in past years, when water levels were lower than this year, weren't flooded this year."

An ardent supporter of the watershed project, Kuznia, believes that Marshall county is one of the richest in the valley—and getting richer. "We're draining so much of the county that was never in production before. Good farming is a reality where it never was before."

Kuznia farms, 4,360 acres and says that 1,100 of them have suffered from crop disease because water did not move off them fast enough. Much of his land is along a yet uncompleted branch channel.

"This branch just has to go in to save us all," he says.

More obvious than the channels are the two dams of the Tamarac watershed project. These are designed for several functions, including holding back floodwater and creating bodies of water for human and wildlife use.

The East Park flood control and wildlife management area is located at the headwaters of the Tamarac about six miles east of Strandquist, and was the first part of the watershed project completed. Water from 44,000 acres is held behind the dam and released as needed. The dam can store 4,520 feet of floodwater, and in so doing, creates waterfowl habitat and a popular hunting area in the marshy area behind the dam.

Two weeks after the big rain storm, water was being released through the dam still a couple feet higher than normal. Hilary Kuznia, 18 miles west of the dam, believes that he would have been flooded had the East Park dam not been there to hold the water back.

While the dam keeps unwanted water off the farms below it during the wet season, it performs a directly opposite task for the people of Stephen during the drier times. The water it holds is assurance that the community will have a sufficient year-round water supply.

"Three years ago, it was very dry and we almost lost our water supply," recalls Mayor Lawrence Sunsdahl. "But last year, because of the water backed up behind the dam, the river flowed full all fall, and the town's reservoir was full all winter.

"The town's main concern is about the water supply aspects of this project, although flood control is more important to us than we realized it would be."

Sunsdahl said the widened Tamarac channel going west out of Stephen saved the town from flood damage this year because it moved the water out faster rather than allowing it to back up into the town. He believes that two bridges, the golf course and swimming pool would have been damaged, in addition to the several wet basements which would have occurred.

Downstream from the East Park dam and wildlife management area, the brand new Overton dam straddles the Tamarac. Its most obvious fuction when completed will be the creation of an 80-acre lake. A lake is about as rare as a hill in this part of the country, and people have already planned a variety of public recreational uses.

Known as Florian flood control and recreation area, this part of the project will result in a county park with campsites, a swimming beach and a boat landing. The lake will be more than 20 feet deep in spots and will be full by next spring—or by this fall if there is much rain.

Stephen, Marshall county, and the Marshall soil and water conservation district are sharing costs of the nearly $3 million watershed project with the federal government. SCS is providing more than $2 million in financial assistance and technical help to the local sponsors and landowners.

Everyone in the watershed is being assessed by the county for the improvement works. Mayor Sunsdahl says Stephen will pay $1,000 a year for ten years. Farmers are assessed according to the benefit they will receive. Hilary Kuznia, for example, pays $130 a year for 10 years on his 450 acres.

"The way I look at the assessment," he says, "is that it benefits the community as a whole."

Dennis Pate, SCS, district conservationist at Warren, says there is good support for the project among farmers of the area as evidenced by the fact that 65 per cent of the farmers in the Tamarac watershed are signed up as cooperators with the Marshall soil and water conservation district. About 25 per cent of the county as a whole is signed up with the conservation district.

All the farmers along the main channel are operating their land with conservation plans, according to Pate.

"Farmers who are signed up as cooperators and practicing conservation, such as windbreaks and minimum tillage, are actually helping assure the longevity of the watershed project," he says. "By controlling soil erosion in the uplands of the watershed, they are keeping silt and sediment out of the channels and the Tamarac itself."

Harry M. Major, SCS state conservationist, says that the practice of soil conservation by farmers is really the main part of a watershed project in the eyes of the SCS.

"A watershed project is actually planning good resource management and conservation for the whole watershed," Major said. "The more landowners who are cooperating in the conservation effort, the better the watershed project will be."

The Tamarac project, which includes part of Roseau and Kittson counties in addition to Marshall, is one of eight currently under operation in Minnesota by SCS under PL 83-566, the small watershed protection and flood prevention act.

Another seven projects have already been completed.

Newest Family In TRF Comes From Viet Nam

A house at 1123 Knight av. N. was secured by a church member, women's circles of the church were in charge of furnishing the house and providing clothing for the child, and members of the church were asked to pledge gifts to be used to support the family until the man finds employment. Rev. Law called Ft. Chaffee on August 19 to make the invitation for the family to come here.

It is hoped by the United Methodist congregation here that arrival of the family will encourage other churches to invite refugee families through their own church agencies or the United Methodist committee on relief, Rev. Law said.

Ngoc-Thuan Do speaks practically no English. What English he learned in school was forgotten when he served in the air force. He reportedly had little contact with Americans while in service and what communication did take place was by way of interpreter or information printed in the Vietnamese language.

Through a student at Northland community college whose home is also in Saigon, we learned that Do is extremely pleased with the house here and the friendliness which has been shown by local church members and others. He asked that thanks be extended on behalf of himself, wife and daughter to those who had helped bring the family here.

Asked if he would prefer to return to his home country as some refugee families have indicated, he gave an unhesitant and emphatic "No!"

But he is worried about a close friend—a former military buddy—who is also at Ft. Chaffee and awaiting relocation. He knows the friend would like to come to Thief River Falls. At present, there appears to be no local sponsor to make that possible.

Sunday morning Do was scheduled to begin work at Lon's cafe, working in the kitchen and learning some basics in food preparation. Although his military service did not provide him with a trade, he reportedly worked in the mess hall at Ft. Chaffee and has expressed an interest in learning to be a cook.

"We'll give it a try," Lon Gobell told the Times this morning. "We'll show him how to run the dishwasher and a Vietnamese student will help him learn the items on the menu. We hope it works out O.K."

Awareness Is Topic For UMC Regional Meet

A regional conference at the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston, on September 9 will impart "Aging Awareness" as seven authorities on the subject supply input to conference registrants.

Registration for the day-long conference in the Agricultural research center, Room 114, is scheduled at 9 a.m. Featured speakers during the morning and afternoon sessions will be Etta Saloshin and Gerald Bloedow.

Saloshin is professor emeritus in the department of social work at the University of Minnesota and is considered by many to be one of the nation's foremost experts on gerontology, which entails the scientific study of aging and problems of the elderly.

Bloedow is executive secretary of the Governor's citizens council on aging, which is chief sponsor of the conference. He has worked closely in various senior citizens' programs since 1959 when he was hired as director of a state prject in preparation for the first White House conference on aging, which was held in 1961. Thereafter he was named regional coordinator on aging in southwestern Minnesota for the Governor's council on aging, and in October of 1966 he was appointed to his present position.

Bloedow also serves as a special consultant on the aging process and problems of the aged to the Minnesota department of public welfare.

Saloshin will be making two presentations during the conference. Her morning topic will be "What Happens to People When They Grow Older?" and afternoon topic is "The Family, the Community, and the Older Person." Bloedow's address during the morning's program will answer the question "What's Happening to Older People in Minnesota?" A question and answer period will follow all three speeches.

Because of a grant from the governor's citizens council on aging, there will be no charge to attend the conference except for a dinner to be served to participants. Pre-registration is recommended, however. Those wishing to indicate their interest are asked to telephone UMC, 281-6510, extensions 243 or 296.

Another feature of the afternoon segment will be a panel discussion at 3 p.m. Panel members will be Laurel Sorlie, project director for Region IV area agency on aging; Virginia Portman, coordinator of the Fergus Falls senior citizens program; Roger Wetzel, representing the aging services department of Devils Lake, N.D.; Erwin Strandquist, Newfolden, chairman of northwest regional development commission (NWRDC), which is headquartered in Crookston; and Gene Abbott, NWRDC executive director. Panel participants will also act as facilitators for meetings of special interest group workshops. These small group discussions are slated from 3:30 until 5 p.m.

Objectives of the conference are three-fold, according to its sponsors. One of their goals is to "present physiological and biological stages of aging." A second objective is to "involve the participants in an understanding and awareness of the feelings of the aged." The third aim is to "acquaint participants with services available to the elderly in their respective communities."

Certificates will be awarded to those completing the workshop. One credit hour is also available through the home and family services division of UMC should participants elect to enroll for credit.

Additional information can be obtained from the Continuing Education-Community Services office of UMC (281-6510, ext. 243). Three other units are cooperating with the prime sponsor in staging the regional event. They are Home and Family Services Division, UMC; Continuing Education and Extension, University of Minnesota; and Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, Inc., Crookston.

That Lid Shortage

Shortage of lids for use by homemakers during the current canning season continues to he a major puzzle. It would seem that an item so simple in nature could be produced by the jillions in a relatively short time, and producers have had a year to prepare for the season rush.

Manufacturers have claimed in lengthy publicity releases that they have greatly increased their production, that they are working their plants 24 hours per day, and that they are making their products available on an allocation basis to their customers. All of this seems logical, for there is no profit to the company with no product to sell.

On the other hand, local distributors and retailers have not been able to receive a fraction of the number of lids they would ordinarily expect to receive in a normal year. In other words, not only are they failing to see the benefit of the reported production increase, they are unable to obtain their regular allocations.

The question immediately arises: If the lid manufacturing companies are telling the truth about their increased production—and we would prefer to believe they are—where in the distribution system is the valve which diverts the supply away from regular customers? Is the "black market" in lids really so large that it can control a large part of the production of at least several major companies?

A recent editorial in the Glenwood Tribune states: "We're convinced there are sufficient lids available to supply the wants of every housewife in the United States. But manufacturers have manufactured a shortage when none exists to simply drive up the price."

It would be easier to agree with that assessment if lids were available at high prices. As it stands, homemakers in this area are unable to purchase lids at any price because they are simply unavailable. When the rare case or two does trickle into the area supply line, the price is not unduly inflated.

We are more inclined to believe that the problem really does lie in the distribution system. Somewhere the increased production is being siphoned off the regular channels—either to supply a favored area of the country or to feed black market profiteers. Our consumer protectionists in the government and elsewhere are singularly ineffective in finding the problem and dealing with it.

Intervention of Goodwill Industries to attempt becoming a savior of the housewife was a real bust. The organization did secure a supply of lids by diverting them from the normal market. It advertised them for a higher price to cover costs of packaging and shipping. Then it received orders with money enclosed for far in excess of the available supply. The result was that paying addressing, envelopes and postage to return the unfilled orders would result in a major loss for the company. There is a story about business sense somewhere in that situation.

There is no question the canning lid supply will continue to be short this year. The American free enterprise system being what it is, however, the profit motive will induce greater manufacturing capabilities by either new or existing companies. By next year the problem should be considerably reduced.

The Best Way

One of our exchange papers provided the following bit of wisdom which could benefit anyone faced with minor irritations on the way to achieving an overall goal:

An old farmer had plowed around a large rock in one of his fields for years. He had broken several plow shares and a cultivator on it and had grown rather morbid about the rock.

After breaking another plow share one day, and remembering all the trouble the rock had caused him through the years, he finally determined to do something about it. When he put his crowbar under the rock, he was surprised to discover it was only about six inches think and that he could break it up easily. As he was carting it away, he had to smile, remembering all the trouble the rock had caused him and how easily it would have been to get rid of it sooner.

There is often a temptation to bypass small obstacles when we're in a hurry to get a large problem solved. We simply don't want to stop and take the time to deal with it now. Like the old farmer, we "plow around it." Usually we tell ourselves that we'll come back to it later. What often happens is that we never do.

If the obstacle is of a type that will keep reappearing over and over, we're usually better off to take the time to fix it and be done with it. If we are tempted to go around it time and time again, we had best stop and ask ourselves if the cost in time and money and trouble is worth it.

As someone once said, "The best way out of a problem is through it."

Old age is sneaking up on you when, after painting the town red, you need a long rest before applying the second coat.

Increase Whose Crops?

Comment on the addition of staff members for U.S. senators is contained in this editorial from the Baltimore Sun:

The Senate voted (recently) to add 120 committee staff members to its payroll, an increase of 10 per cent. Normally we support efforts to strengthen the Congress, but what the Senate did is not likely to make the Senate or its members more efficient. The new rules allow each member of the Senate who does not now control staff positions on committees to spend up to $101,925 a year for professional help in the area of his committee assignments. Presently committee staffs are controlled by senior members, so the new rules will allow junior senators to enlarge their staffs. Now senior senators will tell juniors to use their own new aides even when there is a greater need for concerted committee staff effort.

Senators' personal staffs have increased dramatically, too. Joseph Tydings had a staff of 18 when Glenn Beall defeated him in 1970; Mr. Beall now has a staff of 31. If Mr. Tydings had had that large a staff in 1970 he might still be a senator today. That is one thing that worries us about the continued growth of the staffs of senators and representatives: the political fortunes of incumbents are improved at taxpayers' expense. These aides are writing speeches and doing other political chores, particularly in election years. A second thing that concerns us is that there is a vicious circle at work here: senators ask for more staff because they have wider responsibilities, and when they get more staff, they increase their responsibilities. Today's senator is spread so thin that he seldom can be an expert in anything.

Take the Tydings-Beall case further. Both served on the Commerce Committee. Mr. Tydings was on four of its sub-committees, Mr. Beall is on nine. Mr. Tydings was on 12 subcommittees; Mr. Beall is on 20. Twelve is too many; 20 is ridiculous. There are 147 Senate subcommittees. Not only is there incredibly confusing overlap, but each senator does each added assignment less well. In such conditions, there cannot be much deliberation left in the World's Greatest Deliberative Body. If the Senate is to become a more powerful and coherent institution, what it will need is more focus and expertise among its individual members, however much they may be enticed by an excess of issues and personal bureaucracy. Several senators have proposed a complete review of Senate rules and practices. It is indeed time the Senate took a good look at itself.

Following editorial is from the recent issue of "Farmland News":

Rep. John Y. McCollister (R-Neb.) has a point.

"I find it incredible that some people can stand up and say that 'we' should not sell our grain to the Soviet Union," he says.

We? Whose grain is this, anyway? Is it the longshoremen's grain? The government's grain?

For the government to interfere and prevent sales would be outright confiscation, he says—without compensation, without a hearing, without so much as an apology.

Increasingly, we encountered the kind of logic that regards the nation's crops as public property, to be disposed of by the government. The outrage of other independent businessmen—were they subjected to this same reasoning can only be imagined.

Pointing out that our farmers have produced a huge surplus of grain and that its sale is saving the taxpayer millions of dollars in storage costs, in addition to giving our balance of trade a badly needed boost, seems to have no effect at all. Reminding critics that the slipshod handling of the 1972 sale to Russia has been replaced by careful planning, full disclosure and hard bargaining doesn't help either. One wonders if anyone can seriously believe that the best interest of consumers requires rock-bottom commodity prices and a liberal sprinkling of farm bankruptcies.

It's ironic that farmers, virtually the only true independent businessmen left, are subject to such intense attempted regulation of the sale of their products.

"We" American consumers, usually with the encouragement of our legislators, do seem to regard the wheat fields and corn fields as "ours".

Do "we" plow until midnight, worry over fertilizer shortages, and take "our" losses when hail or drouth destroy crops? Where are "we" when it's time to buy the fertilizer, cut the wheat and pay the mortgage?

Even in socialist countries, McCollister points out, where the government owns the means of production it does not destroy individual property rights or repeal the law of supply and demand. Yet the leaders of some segments of organized labor and their friends in Congress presume to do just that.

An increasing number of women are taking up the study of law. The usual number continue to lay it down.

ROY ROGERS and Dale Evans opened the Minnesota state fair by greeting the Courage Children of the Year, Kevin Spaeth, left, of Blaine and Michelle Goodsell, Crystal. The motion picture and television stars are helping Camp Courage for handicapped persons by serving as the honorary chairpersons of the pony express ride. Dan Bamberg, right, Rt. 1, Chisago City, represents the pony express riders throughout Minnesota who will carry mail and donations to Camp Courage, Maple Lake, Minn., Sept. 13. On the same day, the "200 Mile Ride for Courage" to Courage North, Lake George, takes place. Anyone wishing to support this cause may send donations to P.O. Box 9705, St. Paul, Minn. 55197. All proceeds will provide camping experiences, including horseback riding, for children and adults with physical, speech or hearing handicaps at Camp Courage.

Wendell R. Anderson

Every year, 750 Minnesota business firms export an estimated $1.5 billion worth of manufactured goods and agricultural products to other nations.

Minnesota ranks 16th among the 50 states in the total value of its exports to other nations, and 7th in the value of our agricultural exports, even though we have just two per cent of the population of the nation.

Each $100 million in exports is estimated to create 660 jobs — an estimated 99,000 jobs in Minnesota are directly related to exports. The 3M Company, the state's largest employer, estimates that about 5,000 of its jobs in Minnesota, between 20 and 25 per cent of its total employment in our state, are related to export business.

The population of the People's Republic of China is thought to be somewhere between 700 million and 900 million, or about one-fourth the population of the entire world.

That's one reason we have been working for more than three years to interest trade officials in China in sending a delegation to Minnesota or inviting a Minnesota delegation to China. We believe Minnesota agriculture and agricultural technology, Minnesota computers, pacemakers, and other electronic technology, Minnesota medicine and medical technology should be of great interest to the Chinese as they continue to develop their nation. And Minnesota needs to know more about Chinese agriculture, medicine, and high technology as well.

So I was pleased to receive an invitation to put together a broad-based group of Minnesota agriculture, business, medical and professional people to visit China this month. The invitation and the schedule gave us very short notice. It's the first time the Chinese have extended an invitation to a delegation from a single state, and it's the first time they have invited a broad-based group rather than scientific or educational specialists.

Each member of the Minnesota delegation will pay his own travel expenses, and the group will be guests of the Chinese government while they are in China.

We expect to learn a great deal about Chinese agriculture, medicine and technology needs, and a great deal about the Chinese people and their country. We can't expect specific trade commitments to come from this trip, but we hope this first step for Minnesota interests will lead to a visit here by the Chinese and an idea of what we are like in Minnesota.

The long-range potential is tremendous. Wayne Thompson, senior vice president of the Dayton Hudson Corporation, is one of the Minnesota businessmen traveling to China. In a recent interview, he pointed out that cultural exchanges usually lead to economic trade arrangements.

"This is a historic experience," he said.

All Americans have a growing interest in the People's Republic of China. But Minnesota has a special interest because of the importance of exports to our economy and the high level of our technical knowledge in this state.

We hope and believe this will be a productive effort.

Don't spend a lot on an office in your home expecting to claim it as an income tax deduction unless you can meet the strict requirements. To qualify for the deduction, the work must be such that it has to be done at home—not just because you prefer to do it there but for a valid reason such as the fact that your employer's premises are not suitable or available. The IRS requirements are the same. The tax court enforced them.

Senate Report

— by —

Senator Richard Fitzsimons
Minnesota District One

Recently a news item appeared that featured comments by Kittson county attorney, Dennis Sobilik; District Judge, Warren Saetre; and Roseau county sheriff, Paul Knochenmus. Since this article first appeared in the Roseau Times-Region I have been asked to comment about it on numerous occasions. I am including in this news item a letter that I have sent to the chairman of the Senate judiciary committee that clearly explains my views on the subject.

"Senator Jack Davies, Chairman
Senate Judiciary Committee
State Capitol
St. Paul, Minnesota

Dear Senator Davies:

"Enclosed you will find a news item that I feel best describes the feeling toward needed changes in our corrections system and our methods of parole. The incident referred to in the article has prompted many people in this area of the state to seriously doubt the wisdom of our present system.

"As chairman of the Senate judiciary committee you are in a position where your judgment on changes in our judicial system as it applies to criminal justice can and will have influence on any changes that might be suggested by the Senate. I am fully aware of your concern for laws that are fair and just and your total commitment as chairman of the committee to carefully consider any such changes.

"I will be prepared when the 1976 session of the Minnesota Legislature meets to offer some suggested changes and will try to have some of them prepared ahead of the session for consideration of your staff. I am sure you will agree when you have read the enclosed article that some of the privileges now extended to the people committing crimes are being carried to excess. The victims of crimes feel the pendulum of justice has swung to such an extent that they are even more a victim because of the criminal justice system.

"Since the case referred to in the article has been concluded I have received an enormous amount of public expression. Without exception it has been directed in a manner of public outrage toward our present system that lets such things happen, let alone continue. When I have completed putting together the suggestions that I am receiving, I will be back to you with some suggested law changes.

Yours truly,
Richard W. Fitzsimons"

When I have some proposed legislation drawn up I will report on it in another news letter.

Funds Available For Projects On Humanities

Representatives from the Minnesota humanities commission, a funding agency of the national endowment for the humanities, will be in East Grand Forks and Crookston on Tuesday to explain how groups can receive grants and assistance from that organization.

Catherine Lynch and Lynn Smith of the commission staff will be at the following locations to meet with anyone interested in the commission's funding, particularly for bicentennial projects:

East Grand Forks: council chambers, city hall, 1:30 to 3 p.m. Local contact: Steve Gravseth, 773-2724.

Crookston: room 114, agricultural research center, University of Minnesota, 7:30 to 9 p.m. local contact: Steve Kraatz, 281-6510 x243.

The commission provides support for public discussion programs which address current policy issues and involve humanities faculty in the discussion. Any non-profit organization such as service clubs, citizens' groups, professional associations, bicentennial committees or colleges are eligible to receive a grant for that purpose. Past programs have addressed such issues as land use, educational alternatives, criminal justice, health care, individual rights and other topics.

The commission was established by the national endowment for the humanities to promote the use of history, philosophy, literature and other humanities subjects in understanding policy issues and the role of the citizen. The commission has over $225,000 to be granted for this purpose.

"The Enemy" To Be Shown At GF Assembly of God

The seventy-minute color feature film "The Enemy" will be shown at the Grand Forks Assembly of God, September 6 at 7:30 p.m.

"The Enemy", adapted from the book by the same title, reenacts the experience of a young couple who served as youth sponsors in their local church.

The young couple encounters two teenage boys whose strange behavior, according to the film, turns out to be demon possession. How they deal with the problem is explained in the film.

If you borrow for a big purchase such as a car or a home, find out the total cost of the loan, not just the monthly installments. On a 20-year $20,000 mortgage, an increase of half a percentage point in the interest rate can cost you an extra $1,488.

Hamline School To Open Doors On Wednesday

Hamline university, St. Paul, will welcome about 420 new students to the campus Wednesday.

The week will be devoted to acquainting freshmen and transfer students to the private liberal arts college before more than 800 upperclassmen join them for the start of the fall term on September 8.

In addition to auditions and testing programs to help them plan their programs, there will be recreational activities including sports events, movies, a concert and a dance as evening events.

Series On Women And Management Begins Sept. 11

Barriers and educational needs for women interested in breaking into management positions traditionally held by men will be the subject of a 20-show series beginning at 6:30 p.m. September 11, on KFME-KFGE TV.

"Breakthrough: Women and Management" will be offered in a talk-show format moderated by Dr. James Swenson, associate professor of management science at Moorhead state university. The hour-long show will be broadcast weekly at 6:30 p.m. Thursdays over both KFME-TV (Channel 13), Fargo, and KFGE-TV (Channel 2), Grand Forks.

The series is being produced by the North Dakota state university continuing studies division under a $142,983 department of health, education and welfare (HEW) grant directed at developing the business and community leadership potential of women.

"Breakthrough" will be divided into 10 segments dealing with problems encountered by women in management positions, and 10 segments focusing on how to become a woman manager. Following brief introductory statements by Swenson, each show will include a short film. A panel of three successful women managers typically will join Swenson in a discussion about the specific topic covered by each show.

Study Indicates Economic Value Of Education

For each dollar the state appropriated to higher education for 1973-74, the colleges and universities returned $2.10 to the economy of North Dakota, says a recently completed study conducted by the University of North Dakota bureau of business and economic research.

Conducting the study, which has taken over a year to complete, was Larry Dobesh, director of the bureau and associate professor of economics, and Mark Henry, assistant professor of economics. They were assisted by Richard King, associate professor of business at Dickinson state college.

The study, economic impact of higher education in North Dakota, analyzes the spending of 11 institutions of higher education, as well as analysis the amounts spent in various categories both on the institutional and individual level, Dobesh said.

To conduct the study, Dobesh said information on spending patterns was gathered from the institutions, and 40 to 50 per cent of the faculty and staff at UND and Dickinson state college, and 400 UND students and 350 Dickinson state college students completed financial questionnaires.

Other principal findings of the study were:

—Total college-related spending in North Dakota for the 1973-74 school year amounted to $75.8 million.

—Of that amount, faculty and staff at those school spent $26 million in the state and students spent $28 million.

—The 11 schools generated 15,100 jobs in the state.

—The credit base of the North Dakota financial community increased $18 million that year because of the deposits of the institutions of higher education, their students, faculty and staff.

—Property taxes paid by college-related persons and the increase in land values likely offset the $3.8 million of local government costs attributable to the schools.

This is the tenth study conducted about the North Dakota economy by the bureau of business and economic research. Other study topics have ranged from the North Dakota tax system to its banking system. Dobesh said the next study will be concerned with North Dakota's gross state product.

A Simple Operation!
Simplicity describes the design as well as the operation of this drying system. Fewer moving parts reduces 'downtime' and eliminates a lot of unnecessary worry. Controls are placed for easy use and identification. There is no need to stand by the controls adjusting and readjusting. Depending on field drying conditions, periodic moisture tests and compensating adjustments are all the attention that's required.

Prowlers Open With Loss

Thief River Falls' 1975 football season opener, a less than successful 25-14 setback at the hands of Grand Forks Red River Friday, left suspect what had hoped to be a highly productive fall campaign.

One game, a season-opening nonconference game at that, does not, of course, make a season. Naturally a great season can still be had on the part of the Prowlers. With some improvements, of course.

In football, perhaps more so than in any other sport, conference play is the key to success. Thief River Falls is expected to be in the thick of the Northwest Conference pennant race this fall along with defending champion Bemidji, Crookston and Fergus Falls. East Grand Forks is not expected to be a conference contender.

It's not at all inconceivable that Thief River Falls can become Northwest Conference champion. The NWAC titlist will play the West Central Conference winner in a conference playoff game Fri., Oct. 31, at the home of the West Central champion.

Defensive strength or improvement is needed on the part of the Prowlers.

Red River quarterback Tim Benson burned the Prowler defensive secondary several times Friday as he completed eight of 10 pass attempts for 86 yards. His yardage figure would have been higher, too, except for a disastrous screen pass that lost 17 yards. Then too, Benson's pass-catching ends Luke Linnell and Randy Bakken made several eye-opening catches.

Outside of an early game 79-yard touchdown run by Red River halfback Dave Kvidt, the Prowlers did a pretty respectable job on defense against the run. Red River gained 186 yards rushing, but only 107 yards outside of Kvidt's long-gain on the fourth play of the game.

Offensively the Prowlers looked both good and bad. They put together some steady drives, but a wishbone offense needs more than 154 yards on the ground to be successful.

Two big Red River first half defensive plays might have been the keys to the ball game. The Roughriders killed a Prowler drive by intercepting a Jeff Lindquist pass at the Red River 14-yard line early in the first quarter and then stopped Thief River Falls from scoring late in the second quarter when the Prowlers had a first down at the Roughrider seven-yard line.

Things will fall in place for the Prowlers, we're sure. And maybe this week against Detroit Lakes.

Sandahl Is Honored

The name of 1975 Lincoln high school graduate Jerry Sandahl has been added to the list of prep track and field athletes of the year for 1975, an honor roll published by "Coach & Athlete" magazine.

It was announced earlier that Jeff Houfek of Thief River Falls was named to the publication's list of athletes who will be listed in the 1975 edition of "Prep Track & Field Athletes" to be published in September. Sandahl's appointment was announced two days later for some reason.

The athletes of the year honor roll is an annual tribute to the more than 900,000 track and field athletes across the nation. Criteria by which the athletes were nominated include athletic ability, sportsmanship and personal leadership displayed during the latest season.

Miscellaneous

+Two area men from northwestern Minnesota have been elected to the board of directors of the Minnesota State High School League for the 1975-76 school year: Supt. Del Roelofs of Crookston, Class AA representative for Regions Seven and Eight; and Norm Wagner, athletic director and head football coach at Fisher, who represents boys' sports.

+Wendell Vlasin, editor of the Mahnomen Pioneer, reports that Red Lake Falls is considering the possibility of dropping hockey and adding wrestling as a boys' winter sport. However, the change is very remote at the present time, he said.

1975 Football Season Opener

Benson, Roughriders Beat Prowlers 25-14

Grand Forks Red River quarterback Tim Benson passed for three touchdowns and nearly flawlessly directed a Roughrider wishbone offense that beat Thief River Falls 25-14 Friday in the 1975 football season opener for both teams at Cushman Field in Grand Forks.

Benson's offensive heroics combined with a stand-out Red River defensive effort to give the Roughriders a 13-0 cushion by halftime. Red River built the margin to 19-0 early in the third quarter before surrendering a pair of late Thief River Falls touchdowns.

A 160-pound senior, Benson completed eight of 10 pass attempts for 86 yards against an inexperienced Prowler defensive backfield. He tossed scoring strokes of nine and 24 yards to Randy Bakke and added a 16-yard touchdown toss to Luke Linnell.

In addition to his passing prowess, Benson operated a smooth-working Red River ground game. Junior halfback Dave Kvidt provided most of the Red River's 186 rushing yards with a 129-yard night. A big part of Kvidt's yardage came on a 79-yard first quarter scoring jaunt.

"Tim (Benson) looked good," praised Red River coach Dallas Kopp. "He ran the triple option well and he threw the ball nice. We had a couple of unbelievable catches in there too."

Kvidt opened the game's scoring with his long run just 1:48 into the first quarter. The 155-pounder took a pitch-out from Benson and sprinted around his left end, broke a couple of arm tackles, headed toward the middle of the field and then simply outran several trailing defenders. His 79-yard gallop came just four plays into the game. Linnell's extra point kick was wide of the mark.

Red River made it a 13-0 ball game midway through the second quarter when the Roughriders' perfectly executed triple option offense chewed its way through the Thief River Falls defense on a 16-play, 69-yard march that took 6:24 to complete. A 12-yard Benson to Linnell pass was the longest gainer on the drive that was climaxed by a Benson to Bakke pass of nine yards. Bakke caught the pass at the one and tiptoed his way into the end zone before going out of bounds. Linnell's kick was good with 6:01 elapsed in the second quarter.

While Red River's offense was shining throughout the first half, so was the Roughrider defense; especially at the close of the second quarter when Grand Forks held Thief River Falls scoreless after a Prowler first down at the Red River seven. A fourth down dive into the middle of the line from the two-yard line by Prowler fullback Bryan Olson picked up just one yard with 41 seconds remaining.

Although neither Prowler coach Jim Sims or Kopp would point to that particular series as the key to the ball game, both coaches agreed it was a major factor in the game's outcome.

"Our defense was weak," explained Kopp who was pleasantly surprised with his club's defensive showing. Mid-week position changes that found ends Scott Hoversten and Steve Sannes become linebackers was the key to Red River's defense success, said Kopp.

Red River scored to start the third quarter for a 19-0 bulge when Linnell reached over Prowler defensive back Mike Jury at the goal line to pull in a 16-yard touchdown pass from Benson.

Thief River Falls finally got on the board in the third quarter when sophomore runningback Doug Dallmann slipped through the left side and skipped 11-yards through the Roughrider defense into the end zone. A 13-yard Dallmann gain on a fourth down and five yards to go situation moments earlier kept the Prowler drive alive at the Roughrider 17. Quarterback Jeff Lindquist stretched into the end zone with the two-point conversion for a 19-8 game 9:10 into the period.

Red River responded quickly, however, scoring just five plays and 1:55 later on a 24-yard Benson to Bakke touchdown pass. Bakke worked his way wide open behind the Prowler secondary on the left side just one play after Benson had passed 22 yards to Linnell on the right side. The extra point snap was bobbled.

Thief River Falls scored again on a 13-yard run by Olson who stepped his way through the middle of the field on a draw play 2:37 into the fourth quarter to cap a seven-play, 63-yard drive. A 28-yard pass play from Lindquist to Bob Forberg was the drive's big play as Forberg went up between three Roughrider defensive backs to catch the ball. Dallmann started the drive with a 17-yard run around the left side.

The Prowlers threatened to pull even closer near the game's end when back-up quarterback Mike Wiebolt put on a passing display that carried Thief River Falls to the Red River four-yard line with time running out. Wiebolt was sacked for a 10-yard loss on the final play of the game, though, after trying six straight passes.

"Our secondary didn't stand up very well," said Sims. "We're four deep back there so we should be able to do the job; I just can't explain what went wrong."

Thief River Falls will face Detroit Lakes Friday at 7:30 p.m. on the Prowler athletic field to open its 1975 home season schedule.

GRAND FORKS Red River halfback Dave Kvidt stretched for additional yardage as Thief River Falls defenders Mike Jury (44) and Doug Dallmann (40) tried to halt his progress during Friday night's high school football game played in Grand Forks. Kvidt rushed for 129 yards to help carry the Roughriders to a 25-14 season-opening win. Thief River Falls will open its 1975 home season schedule Friday when the Prowlers host Detroit Lakes.

Greenbush Blanks Newfolden By 6-0

Les Rigstad scored on a three-yard run in the second quarter Friday afternoon to give Greenbush a narrow 6-0 win over Marshall County Central-Newfolden in a 1975 season-opening Top of the State Conference football game at Greenbush.

The loss spoiled the debut of rookie Newfolden head coach Sam Gebhart and handed the Nordics their first loss in their first ever Top of the State Conference action. Newfolden joined the league after Little Six affiliation in the past.

Rigstad's touchdown was the only scoring in the ball game dominated by defensive play by both teams.

Newfolden scored what appeared to by a game-tying touchdown with about five minutes left in the fourth quarter, but Mark Holverson's three-yard dive into the end zone was cancelled by a Nordic offside call. The ball was moved back to the Greenbush eight-yard line and moments later Rigstad intercepted a Jeff Sorenson pass at the five to save the game for the Tigers.

"We made a lot of mental errors," pointed out Gebhart. "We need to do a lot of work on our blocking to correct those mistakes."

Defensively, Gebhart saw some bright spots for the Nordics, especially in the play of nose guard Rick Waterworth and cornerback Duane Floberg.

No game statistics were made available.

Arctic Beats Schmidts For Fast Pitch Playoff Title

East Division champion Arctic Cat routed West Division winner Schmidts 10-1 Thursday to complete a two-game sweep in the Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league playoff finals.

Arctic Cat, regular season and playoff winner in the East, managed to post a narrow 4-3 win over Schmidts Wednesday in the first game of the two-out-of-three game championship series matching the East and West Division playoff winners. Schmidts was the West playoff representative after Pepsi-Cola won the regular season West Division pennant.

Arctic Cat and Schmidts were playing against each other in the playoff championship for the second straight year. And for the second straight year Arctic Cat emerged as champion.

Harold Dupree stroked a lead-off home run in the bottom of the seventh inning to give Arctic Cat a 4-3 win over Schmidts in the playoff championship series opener Wednesday.

Arctic Cat jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a Darrel Stromlund single and three Schmidts errors.

The margin increased to 3-0 in the third when Stromlund walked, went to second on a passed ball and scored on a single by Lonnie Babcock.

Schmidts scored in the fourth when Larry Coltom tripled and Dennis Bakke doubled.

Bakke hit a two-run home run in the top of the seventh to tie the game, but the normally light-hitting Dupree brought the game to a sudden end in the bottom of the frame.

Schmidts 1

Arctic Cat ended the 1975 Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league season by handling Schmidts 10-1 Thursday to win the best of three game playoff championship series in two games.

Arctic Cat scored four times in the top of the second inning by sandwiching four base hits around two Schmidts errors. Ron Ostby hit a two-run single to centerfield to highlight the inning. Henry Holte, Nick Neibauer and Lonnie Babcock also collected base hits in the uprising.

Arctic Cat added three runs in the top of the fifth and then finished its scoring with a three-run burst in the seventh for a 10-0 bulge.

Schmidts avoided a shutout in the bottom of the seventh. Jim Weckworth and Ron Ueland singled to start the inning, with both runners moving up on Lloyd Noreen's ground out. Dean Lawrenz then drove in Schmidts' only run with a single to left.

Knights-Columbus Capture Over 30 Playoff Crown

Knights of Columbus defeated First Northwestern Bank 15-9 Thursday in the championship game of the Thief River Falls men over 30 slow pitch softball league playoffs.

Knights of Columbus won the league's regular season pennant with a 9-1 record and beat Land O'Lakes 11-9 in a playoff semifinal game after a first round bye.

Eck, Gonvick Rip Goodridge 52-0

Butch Eck rushed for 235 yards and scored three touchdowns Friday to spark Gonvick past Goodridge 52-0 in a North Tri County Conference football game played at Gonvick.

Gonvick scored 14 points in the first quarter, produced 24 points in the second and added 14 more in the third before Goodridge blanked the Bulldogs over the final 12 minutes.

Tom Beck and Dan Dyrdahl scored two touchdowns apiece for Gonvick while Rick Fisher and Tim Beckstrand added single scoring plays.

Beck scored first on a six-yard run, with Dyrdahl adding the two-point conversion.

Eck scored his initial touchdown on a five-yard run to give Gonvick a 14-0 cushion at the first quarter break.

Fisher, the Gonvick quarterback, scored on a one-yard keeper that began a second quarter Bulldog onslaught that also included touchdown runs of 20 and 45 yards by Eck and a five-yard scoring play by Dyrdahl. Fisher added a two-point conversion after the final first half touchdown for a 38-0 bulge at intermission.

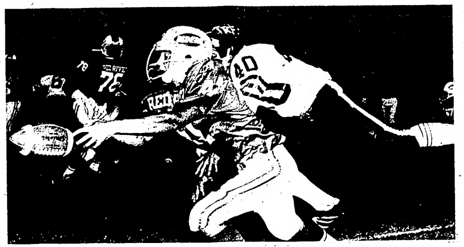
Fisher passed four yards to Dyrdahl to start the second half scoring. Fisher then hit Ross Beckstrand for the two-point conversion.

Tim Beckstrand finished the game's scoring with a 35-yard touchdown jaunt.

Gonvick rolled up 15 first downs and 450 yards on offense while the youthful Goodridge ball club managed only six first downs and 100 yards. Goodridge punted the ball nine times while Gonvick punted just twice.

Goodridge head coach Ken Ewertz cited "lack of experience" as his team's biggest stumbling block. "I wasn't that disappointed in our play," said Ewertz. "We made some mistakes that hurt us. We got pinched inside on defense and they went around us. We were very inconsistent on offense. The offensive line did a good job. The holes were there, but we just didn't hit them quick enough."

Goodridge returns to action Friday when the Huskies travel to Grygla for a 1:30 p.m. North Tri County Conference game against the area rival Eagles.



THE BALL bounced out of the grasp of Grand Forks Red River halfback Dave Kvidt on a short pass attempt during Friday night's Red River-Thief River Falls football game played in Grand Forks, but Prowler defensive back Doug Dallmann was called for interference on the play to give the Roughriders a first quarter first down. Red River rolled up a 19-0 bulge enroute to a 25-14 win over the Prowlers.

Phyllis Moum won the first flight. Yvonne Bredeson finished second and Dorothy Boyer was consolation champion.

Joan Peterson was the second flight winner. Alice Lee was the runner-up finisher and Eunice Flynn was consolation champion.

Hazel Iverson captured the third flight and Mary Jane Mandt finished second. Janet Mork won the consolation title.

Most dangerous rooms in the house—when it comes to fire—are the living room, den and family room. That's where a third of all fatal home fires get their start, most often from a forgotten cigarett or dropped hot ashes and matches.

Plummer Tips Clearbrook 20-18 In Fourth Quarter

Plummer erupted for 14 points in the fourth quarter Friday to claim a come-from-behind 20-18 win over Clearbrook in a North Tri County Conference football game played at Plummer.

Coach Gary Brantl's Plummer ball club trailed 18-6 going into the final period before a pair of long scoring plays brought the Cardinals a 1975 season-opening win.

Junior halfback Tom Martell scored the first Plummer fourth quarter touchdown on a 45-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Jerry Fisher to shave the Hornets' lead to 18-12.

Sophomore runningback John Greenwald scored the tying touchdown when he sprinted 60-yards with about five minutes remaining in the ball game. Fisher then broke the tie by passing to Dave Walter in the end zone for a game-winning two-point conversion.

"It looked pretty grim when it was 18-6," admitted Brantl, "but they just kept playing ball and wouldn't give up. I'm sure this game will mean a lot to the kids the way they came back."

The two teams played to a 6-6 stand-off in the first half after a scoreless first quarter.

Clearbrook scored first when quarterback Bruce Bjerke passed 12 yards to Mark Larson.

Plummer scored the equalizer with about four minutes left in the first half when Martell went into the endzone from one yard out.

Clearbrook scored a pair of third quarter touchdowns to take a seemingly commanding 18-6 lead. Bjerke scored on a one-yard plunge after Clearbrook recovered a Plummer fumble inside the Cardinal five-yard line. Bjerke then hit Dave Becker with a 40-yard touchdown pass for a three-touchdown lead.

Plummer rushed for 198 yards on offense, with Greenwals picking up 96 yards on six carries. Fisher completed five of 12 pass attempts for 115 yards. Walter caught three passes for 58 yards.

Brantl praised several Plummer defensive performers, including linebackers Carl Torkelson, Todd Gustafson and Martell; nose guard Dan Willett; and tackle Neil Konickson. Martell and Gustafson both had six tackles while Torkelson was credited with five tackles and nine assisted stops.

Plummer will play again Friday when the Cardinals travel to Gonvick for a 1:30 p.m. North Tri County Conference game.

PLUMMER END Dave Walter caught the game-winning two-point conversion pass on this play against Clearbrook Friday night in a North Tri County Conference football game played in Plummer. Walter caught the pass in front of Clearbrook defensive back Mark Larson late in the fourth quarter to give the Cardinals an exciting 20-18 season-opening win.

ARCTIC CAT took home a healthy supply of trophy hardware this summer as the Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league team won the regular season East Division pennant, the East Division playoff crown and the league's overall playoff championship. Members of the Arctic Cat squad included, front row left to right, Ron Ostby, Darrell Stromlund, manager Maynard Moen, Harry Dupree and Gordy Olson; back row, Tom Neibauer, Henry Holte, Lonnie Babcock, Jeff Vacura and Bruce Johnson. Not present at the time of the picture were Tim Gould and Gordie Peterson.

JOHN GREENWALD, Plummer sophomore, returned a kick against Clearbrook Friday behind the blocking of teammate Carl Torkelson. Plummer produced a touchdown and a successful two-point conversion late in the fourth quarter to pick up a 20-18 win over visiting Clearbrook in a North Tri County Conference game.

"CASSIDY" RETURNS
To Northwestern Minnesota

Cassidy . . . a fresh new sound of five talented songwriters and musicians. Among them sixteen different instruments share the stage. All five members participate vocally, switching between lead and harmony parts throughout the entire show. The show consists of a smooth variety of originally written and arranged songs. With each member of the group contributing to the songwriting, the show becomes a fine blend of individual styles from jazz rock to a nice touch of country and into soft, lay back listening music. Topped off with Cassidy's own rock and roll.

Cassidy has a totally professional show. Some of the credits from the summer tour of 1975 include concerts with Mason Profit at Bloomer, Wis., Billy Joel (the Piano Man), Jazz star Mose Allison, Jim Buffet and Seals and Croft at Ebbits Field in Denver, Colorado. GRC recording artist Rick Cuna at Stonescape in Denver. Toni Brown and Terry Garthwaite formally with Joy of Cooking and Bonnie Raitt at Snowmass Colorado. All of these concerts received great response from the above artists, the promoters and the audience. In conjunction with the eight-week tour of Colorado, Cassidy covered two performances with live radio broadcasts on KFML AM & FM in Denver. Cassidy also played to enthusiastic audiences in Breckenridge, Aspen, Dillon and Greely, Colorado.

Cassidy will return to Northern Minnesota and North Dakota on September 3rd to put on concerts and dance shows. The schedule includes Northland community college, September 3; Malung hall, September 6; VFW in Thief River Falls, September 10; Rainbow club in Strandquist, September 12; American Legion club in Warren, September 13; and the River Queen in Grand Forks, September 15-20.

McIntosh Spoils Grygla Football Opener By 30-6

Chad and Carey Burslie turned in outstanding performances to carry powerful McIntosh to a 30-6 win over visiting Grygla Friday in 1975 season-opening North Tri County Conference ball game.

Chad Burslie scored two touchdowns and Carey Burslie scored once and set up another score with an interception as the Scots rolled to a 30-0 lead before surrendering a late game Grygla touchdown.

Carey Burslie scored first on a three-yard run in the opening quarter. Chad Burslie added the two-point conversion.

Chad Burslie scored on a short yardage dive play and added the two-point conversion in the second quarter to give McIntosh a 16-0 halftime lead.

Mike Dietrich scored from close range in the third quarter for McIntosh after an interception by Carey Burslie. Carey Burslie scored the two-point conversion.

Chad Burslie finished the Scots' scoring in the fourth quarter on a short dive play.

Grygla averted a shutout when quarterback Gary Satre passed 72 yards to Arlo Hagen midway through the fourth quarter.

"McIntosh is a very good team," pointed out Grygla coach Jerry Lindstrom. "Chad Burslie is a one-man team. They execute very well."

Despite the setback, Lindstrom was not entirely displeased at his team's performance. "All in all, I was pretty pleased," he said. "We had some bright spots." Nose guard Wayne Thomas, middle linebacker Arlo Hagen and outside linebacker Rocky Hagen all received special recognition from Lindstrom for strong games.

"Our biggest problem was that we let down on defense," said Lindstrom. "We would have them in a hole and let them get out. Our pass protection was poor, too."

McIntosh gained 189 yards on the ground while Grygla managed only 71 yards rushing. McIntosh picked up only 13 yards passing, while the final 72-yard scoring strike represented all of Grygla's passing offense as the Eagles' passers hit only one of nine attempts. Both teams lost two fumbles and McIntosh topped the penalty yardage charts 25-10.

Grygla will host rival Goodridge in a 1:30 p.m. North Tri County Conference game Friday in the Eagles' next test.

Magic Month

Hunting season will open at noon on Wed., Oct. 1, and thereafter, one-half hour before sunrise. Duck and goose hunting should be very good this year.

October is the best act staged in the "Theatre of Seasons". The multi-colored forests, combined with autumn's bright weather are features of this magnificent month.

The 19th annual operation October fall party will be conducted the weekend of October 3, 4, and 5, 1975. Outdoor writers from seven states will help celebrate operation october hosted by eight towns: New York Mills, Frazee, Dent, Perham, Richville, Vergas, Henning and Ottertail. The towns are west of Wadena and are located in the Viking-Land, U.S.A. section of beautiful Minnesota.

Hot Weather Muskies

Three nice Muskies were taken during the hot weather late July and early August. Lillian Kilpatrick of Grand Rapids caught one in Leech Lake weighing 30 pounds, four ounces; David Blow of Fargo, North Dakota, landed one from Leech Lake weighing 33 pounds, six ounces; and Binsfield of St. Cloud registered a muskie caught in Prairie Lake north of Grand Rapids, weighing 24 pounds.

Fish Finders Are Not Banned In Minn. Waters

A bill that would have banned certain types of sonar fishing gear in Minnesota failed to pass the legislature during the last session and none of the devices are presently outlawed in the state.

The department of natural resources moved to clear up confusion on the matter following the appearance of some articles in national magazines apparently written under the impression that the fish locators have been prohibited.

The bill would only have restricted the use of graph sonars while fishing. The less expensive depth finders which simply register the contour of the bottom and do not employ graph recorders were not affected under the bill.

The bill also called for a study on the relative angling success of fishermen using sophisticated gear that record the presence of fish on a graph as against those not using such equipment.

Presumably, if the proposed study had shown that graph devices were so effective as to seriously deplete concentrations of fish, the DNR would recommend that the legislature prohibit their use.

The bill failed to pass, however. The legislation had the support of the DNR since fisheries managers believe there is sufficient potential impact to warrant a study.

Northland Holds Training Course In Management

Northland community college is introducing a unique management training course beginning this fall quarter.

Because of a need expressed by a number of area businesses requesting a management course, Allen Nichols, business instructor at Northland, has developed such a course. It is an 18 credit hour sequence of classes, six hours of classes each quarter for three quarters, with the principal objective for persons interested in management positions to better understand the science of leadership and the responsibilities of management.

The fall quarter will include Business 101 (Principles of Management), a study of management theory, management practice and personal development; and Business 290 (Management Seminar), with discussions, activities and guest lecturers in practical management techniques.

Winter quarter will include Economics 251 (Principles of Economics), a study of the American economy, with emphasis on prices, production and competition; and Business 291 (Management Seminar), with discussions, activities and guest lecturers in practical management techniques.

Spring quarter will include Business 221 (Principles of Accounting), elementary accounting procedures with an introduction to data processing; and Business 292 (Management Seminar), discussions, activities and guest lecturers in practical management techniques.

Upon satisfactory completion of the 18 hour sequence course, the participant will have a greater opportunity for promotion, for greater insight of jobs and careers, for better planning and organization and for greater value to the company or organization.

The course is designed to teach professional management through the use of the most effective educational techniques with seminar sessions providing input from invited experts who will exchange ideas regarding management and supervision with the persons enrolled.

Cost of the six credit course per quarter will be $61.50 for tuition and fees, and $12 for books and supplies. The first class meeting will be held Wednesday, September 3, at 7 p.m. in room A39 at Northland community college. Veterans are eligible for half-time benefits.

Beef Institute Set October 2 At Crookston

Beef cattlemen from the Red River basin are invited to the annual beef cattlemen's institute scheduled for Thursday, October 2, commencing at 2 p.m. in the winter shows arena at Crookston, according to B. E. Youngquist, chairman of the arrangements committee and superintendent of the Northwest experiment station.

The theme of this year's institute is built around utilization of forage in today's beef production enterprise. Mr. Topper Thorpe, general manager of Cattle Fax of Denver, Colorado, is the headline speaker. Dr. Tom Devlin from the University of Manitoba, Canada, and Mr. Robert Blasey of the national livestock meat board of Chicago are on the program.

A producer panel bringing to the cattle feeders some experiences in using salvage forage feeds for the beef cow herd has been organized.

Health Clinic For Children Sept. 15 And 22

An early and periodic screening (EPS) clinic will be held in the Bethlehem Lutheran church in Newfolden September 15 and in the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla September 22.

The clinic is for well children between the ages of six months and six years. It is a careful, simple check of the child's growth, physical, mental, and emotional.

The purpose is to identify children who need to see a doctor, psychologist, or learning specialist. EPS seeks to find growth problems before they become serious and before they do lasting harm.

During screening, a trained staff will examine the child's vision, hearing, growth, nutritional status, learning development, emotional development and disease protection.

The parent and family physician will get a full report of what was found during screening.

The fee for the full examination is $17.60. This can be adjusted according to income and family size. If the child has medical assistance, that will pay for the examination.

An appointment must be made in advance. For information or appointment, write or call the Marshall county public health nursing service, Warren, Minnesota, phone 742-9631.

Seeks Disaster Assistance For Livestock Farms

Minnesota Farmers union (MFU) board of directors has resolved to create a special committee to seek disaster assistance for beef and dairy producers.

"With some members of the U.S. House Agriculture committee already talking about the possibility of shortages and milk rationing, it's time the public wakes up to the farmers' problems, stated Cy Carpenter, MFU president, at the MFU board meeting in St. Paul.

"The price outlook for both beef and dairy groups has reached the disaster level. With inflationary production costs and market prices at bankruptcy level, many producers will not be able to last into another year."

"It is time the Ford administration and the U.S. Congress wake up to the need now to alleviate this condition before it is too late and food rationing is a reality A modern agricultural policy should be the No. 1 priority when Congress comes back from the recess on September 4. The farmer and the consumer, alike, can't put up with this roller-coaster agricultural policy any longer."

The board established a dairy and livestock committee to seek public understanding and Congressional support for declaration of national disaster conditions for the livestock and dairy industry.

Promoters have been persuading elderly couples to put all their possessions into something called a "family estate trust", which is supposed to pay their living costs while letting them avoid income and estate taxes. IRS has blown a whistle on the scheme, ruling that it doesn't reduce taxes a penny.

Application For Flood Disaster Aid Due Sept. 17

Office of Governor Wendell R. Anderson recently, announced that individual and family grant applications based on hardship due to flood damages incurred during the disaster declaration period, June 28-July 21, in counties of the Red River Valley, should be filed with local welfare officers before September 17.

Applications filed subsequent to September 17 will be reviewed by welfare officers first to determine whether late filing has been due to extenuating circumstances. Eligible applications from persons filing late will be accepted for further review for a 30-day grace period only, according to Division of emergency services regulations.

The governor's announcement is made in accordance with requirements of Section 408, P.L. 93-288, the Disaster relief act of 1974. The act stipulates that individual grant applications will be accepted for review for a period of 60 days after the date of a disaster declaration, which date in the Red River Valley had been July 17.

Disaster relief grants are funded jointly with the federal government, the state bearing 25 per cent of the cost. Federal funds, as needed, are requested by the governor to assist in allaying the serious need of disaster victims for which other governmental assistance is either unattainable or inadequate.

Counties included under the Red River Valley disaster declaration were: Beltrami, Clay, Itasca, Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Roseau, Wilkin and the townships of Atlanta and Spring Creek in Becker county.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I am thinking of going to school under the GI Bill. Will the Veterans Administration pay me educational assistance for attending just certain schools and courses; or do I have a choice?

A—The school you select must be approved by a state-approving agency, but you can choose your own course of study provided it is not barred by law and it leads to a recognized educational, professional or vocational objective.

Q—I am a veteran living in a state which has no burial space left in its national cemetery. Does the Veterans Administration pay anything toward cost of burial plots in private cemeteries for such veterans?

A—Yes, Public Law 93-43 (June 1973) allows VA to pay up to $150 in plot and interment costs of veterans not buried in national cemeteries.

Mosquito Plays Useful Role In Nature Balance

If any proof is needed that every living creature plays a useful role in nature, a Utah scientist is about to supply it, according to the national wildlife federation.

Dr. Lewis Nielsen of the University of Utah is collecting evidence to prove that if it were not for the lowly mosquito, much despised by man, some of our most beautiful wildflowers would vanish. Male mosquitoes, like bees, feed on the nectar of flowers. "What we're trying to show," Nielsen says, "is that as the mosquitoes fly from flower to flower they also pollinate the blossoms and enable the flowers to reproduce."

Nielsen, an entomologist, concedes that mosquitoes are not as important as bees but believes they pollinate some tiny flowers that bees ignore, such as Forget-Me-Nots. The pesky insects also play another role in nature, according to the NWF: They are a source of food to such predators as fish, birds, bats, dragonflies and spiders.

A.V.T.I. CLASSES grew by 25 per cent from the 1974-75 school year to the opening of the 1975-76 school term, according to opening day enrollment figures taken Tuesday. Orientation for students was held at the Northland community college gymnasium Tuesday morning. In the photo above, students listen to counselor Robert Reeve discuss finances, including student loans and grants. Opening day enrollment of 442 compares with 354 a year ago.

Enrollment Up By 88 Students At AVTI

Opening day enrollment at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute jumped 25 per cent from a year ago when attendance figures were taken at the first day of classes Tuesday, according to Arnt Aune, director of the institute. Enrollment of 442 this year compares with 354 last year, an increase of 88 students.

Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of schools, said much of the increase came in the cosmetology, aviation mechanics, carpentry and sales and marketing courses. He noted that the large increase is a direct result of an active recruitment campaign, although economic factors such as persons seeking employable skills and students desiring to attend post high school education close to home are also important considerations.

Richard Berry, associate director at the AVTI, has been charged by the board of education with promotion of the school and making its offerings known throughout the area. Prior to the past, recruitment of students was not emphasized in the state vocational education division.

By departments, opening day enrollment included the following this year with 1974 enrollment listed in parentheses: Cosmetology, 56 (41); carpentry, 60 (28); aviation mechanics, 42 (32); auto body repair, 30 (25); welding, 25 (17); architectural drafting, 17 (11); audio communications, 15 (16); business, 86 (83); and sales and marketing, 23 (10).

Additional enrollment is expected during the week since not all students registered for classes reported on Tuesday. There are still openings for additional students in auto mechanics, aviation mechanics, welding, architectural drafting, business and sales and marketing. Further information may be received by contacting the area vocational-technical institute, phone 681-5424.

Orientation program for AVTI students was held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Northland community college gymnasium

According to the Thief River Falls police department, at 8:40 a.m. Hemmestvedt was driving north at a high rate of speed in the parking lane area of the street when he struck the rear of a parked vehicle owned by Charles Thorstad of the city, which in turn was pushed into another parked vehicle owned by Olga Amiot of the city. Storm Causes Two Injuries And Damage At Area Farms Sunday

Sweeping across the Times area from west to east on Sunday afternoon, a storm containing heavy rain, hail and probable tornadoes caused extensive damage to buildings on at least seven farms and resulted in two people being hospitalized with injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Albaugh, whose farm is located nine miles northwest of Thief River Falls on highway 59 and about three miles west, were injured when the steel building in which they were working was blown away. Mrs. Albaugh has been transferred to a Grand Forks hospital with fractures of the ankle and hip and two fractured ribs. Her husband is hospitalized at Thief River Falls with a leg injury.

Russell Nelson, who farms about a mile and one-half east of the Albaugh farm, injured a foot when he sought refuge from the storm in a truck and the door slammed closed. He reported that the wind was so strong he was unable to push the door open to free himself. His son-in-law, Ray Nelson, received a bruise on the shoulder when struck by a hail stone as he drove a combine home from the same field on the farm.

The Albaugh farm was apparently the first struck by the storm as it moved in a generally easterly direction. Although damage at farms in its path indicated whirling winds, no one contacted by the Times reported seeing a funnel cloud. Tom Albaugh, who was in the process of backing a pickup truck into the building when it blew over the vehicle, reported that Vernon Rooker of East Grand Forks had seen a funnel cloud while working on a nearby farm.

People who were home when storm damage occurred did state that the sky was "just black" and several commented about the noise, which included debris blowing against houses and glass breaking.

At the Albaugh farm the 40x100 steel building was rolled into a twisted tube and a 16x30 lean-to was apparently tossed over highline wires into the farm garden several hundred feet away.

At the Russell Nelson farm the storm struck only minutes later with electric clocks stopping at 3:58 p.m. Mrs. Nelson was in the house when the storm hit and sound of glass breaking caused her to go to the basement. Russell was in a field near the farm yard when he sought refuge in a truck and Raymond Nelson who was helping with the harvest, attempted to drive a combine into the farm yard. He held a seat cushion over his head for protection from hail but the building he intended to drive the combine into was gone when he reached the farm yard.

Destroyed at the Nelson farm were a 30x60 machine shed, 30x60 barn, a hay shed and a chicken house which had been converted to a machine shed. Damaged were a swather, roof and chimney on the house, television antenna, a heavy truck which was rolled about 100 feet and left on its top and other items. A number of trees were uprooted or broken off and a sliding door and track were ripped off a granary. Three inches of rain fell during the storm, with a hole in the roof allowing rain to pour into the living room of the house.

A mile east of the Nelson farm, the Ray Holmstrom farm lost nearly all of the outbuildings and the house was heavily damaged. Mrs. Holmstrom was at home with her 12-year-old daughter Karen when the storm hit. Mrs. Holmstrom attempted to close a living room door when the storm door smashed in front of her, causing her to be showered with broken glass and receive minor cuts.

She and Karen then retreated to the basement until the storm subsided but neither could estimate how long they stayed in the basement. Mrs. Holmstrom said the sound of breaking glass and other noise was terrible. Some damage was done to the house when sliding doors from a pole barn smashed into it.

Damage at the Holmstrom farm included loss of the 32x60 pole barn which had been converted to a machine shed, a 24x32 barn with a 16x32 addition, an 18x24 granary and a 16x24 shop. Farm wagons and machinery were also damaged, some beyond repair or salvage. Members of the New Solum 4-H club and other volunteers worked on the clean-up chores Monday.

Five miles east and two and one-half miles north of Thief River Falls, the Harold Dupree family was having coffee in the kitchen of the farm home when the barn simply blew apart. With Mr. and Mrs. Dupree were Mr. and Mrs. Ron Ostby and son Ricky and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Dupree, Kristy and Kurt.

The 38x64 barn blew in three directions. One wall was tossed southwest into an open area of the yard. Another wall traveled north, crashing into a steel machine shed. A third smashed into the Ostby's car in the driveway near the garage and then into the house nearby. Other damage included the garage, some machinery stored in the converted barn and a large pine tree.

To the south of the Dupree farm a barn blew down on the George Baker farm where no one was at home when the storm hit. Several trees were also lost at the farm.

Two and one-half miles north of Goodridge along highway 219 a 28x40 barn on the Don Wilkens farm was destroyed. The roof was also blown off a chicken house on the farm. Mrs. Wilkens was at home when the storm hit.

Eight miles east of Goodridge the Henry Hermanson farm was hit by the storm at 4:48 p.m. Lost were a 40x80 machine shed, a 10,000 bushel steel grain bin and a 3,300 bushel steel bin. Several combines and other machinery was damaged, a quonset building was damaged when the 10,000 bushel bin blew over it and a 1,000 bushel bin was extensively damaged.

Rain and hail accompanied the

TWO PERSONS were injured when this steel building was lifted from its moorings and whirled into a twisted roll of metal Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Albaugh, whose farm is located nine miles northwest of Thief River Falls on highway 59 and three miles west, were working on the nearly completed building when the storm struck slightly before 4 p.m. Their son Tom was going to back a pickup into the building for shelter when the building blew over the top of the vehicle. Lynn Albaugh is hospitalized at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls with a leg injury. His wife, Evelyn, was transferred Sunday to a Grand Forks hospital for treatment of ankle and hip fractures and two fractured ribs. Vernon Rooker of East Grand Forks, who was on a nearby farm, reported seeing a funnel cloud.

BARN WALLS scattered in three directions when winds ripped through the Harold Dupree farm yard about 4:15 p.m. Sunday. The farm is located five miles east and two and one-half miles north of Thief River Falls. The wall shown in the foreground traveled southeast; another wall flew north to crash into the machine shed in the background at right; and a third wall traveled east, smashing an automobile owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ron Ostby and splintering against trees and the west wall of the house.

SCATTERED WRECKAGE of a steel machine shed and two steel grain bins was collected on the Henry Hermanson farm located eight miles east of Goodridge. Strong winds believed to be a tornado struck the farm at 4:48 p.m. Sunday, destroying a 40x80 machine shed (in background at left) and three steel grain bins. The 10,000 bushel bin shown by the tractor in the center of the photo was blown over the quonset building at left and smashed against a nearby roadside.

Heidi Sue Ortloff And Monte Casavan Vows Said

Miss Heidi Sue Ortloff and Monte Casavan exchanged married vows in this city at a 2:30 p.m., ceremony at the Redeemer Lutheran church. Officiating at the ceremony were Rev. Keith Prekker, pastor of the church, and Rev. Gerald Foley, priest of St. Dorothy's Catholic parish.

At the organ was Mrs. William Halbasch, friend of the bride. She played appropriate selections as the guests were ushered in. For the processional, she played Beethoven's "Ode to Joy," and the traditional wedding march. Bach's "Jesu,Joy of Mans' Desiring," was the recessional. Marie Roadfeldt, a friend of the bride, played the flute accompaniment. During the ceremony, Mike Sollem played the guitar and sang "Annie's Song," by John Denver and the Wedding Song. As the couple knelt at the altar, he sang "The Lord's Prayer," with organ accompaniment.

Forming the chancel setting for the bridal party were white spiral candelabra with hurricane lamps arrangements of colored carnations and ribbons. White bows marked the pews along the center aisle. A white trellis trimmed with greens and flowers graced the front of the church.

The couple was escorted to the altar by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ortloff of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Casavan of rural Red Lake Falls.

For her wedding, the bride wore a floor-length gown which she and her friend, Judy Solsten, had designed and made. The gown, fashioned of duvetyn satin, featured a slightly flared, white chiffon overskirt that swept back into a chapel-length train. The empire waistline was accented with a baby blue satin cummerbund. Wide Alencon lace formed the ruffle around her scooped neckline, bordered the skirt and edged the baby blue chiffon champel train. Her floor-length veil, which she had fashioned of bridal illusion, was held by a profile headpiece of fresh flowers, corresponding with her bouquet of miniature blue carnations, yellow daisies, pink tea roses, and babies' breath, accented with blue ribbons and foliage. To complete her attire, she wore pearl earrings and a matching pendant, a gift from the groom.

Serving as the bride's personal attendant was Madelene Vaudrin of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Barbara Johnson of Cavalier, N.D., eldest sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Julie Abnes of East Grand Forks, and Jodi and Kristie Ortloff. All are sisters of the bride. They wore floor-length gowns in blue, green, pink and yellow, creating a rainbow effect. The gowns were fashioned of polyester-cotton with jewel necklines; short bell sleeves and eyelet bibs with matching eyelet lace that tied in back. Their wide-brimmed hats, in colors to match their gowns, were trimmed with colored daisies and green. Each carried a white wicker basket filled with similar daisies, greens and ribbon streamers. Their pendants, gifts from the bride, also corresponded with the color of their gowns.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Mark Casavan of Spearfish, S.D. Groomsmen were Rodney Zutz and Arden Lamberson of Red Lake Falls, friends of the groom, and Wayne Ortloff, brother of the bride. The groom was attired in a light blue tuxedo with light blue trousers, white ruffled shirt and a shite carnation and pink tea rose boutonniere. The other men of the wedding party wore white tuxedos and black trousers accented by ruffled shirts and carnation boutonnieres to correspond with the gowns of their respective bridal attendant.

Serving as ushers were Donald Johnson, brother-in-law of the bride, and Dean Audette, brother-in-law of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ortloff was attired in a long-sleeve, floor-length, empire fashioned gown of beige polyester. The mother of the groom wore a sleeveless floor-length gown of light pink polyester, also styled in empire fashion. Both wore identical corsages of white daises with pink tea roses, greens and ribbons.

Corsages were also presented to the honor guests: Mrs. Fred Weiss of Red Lake Falls, the groom's maternal grandmother, and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Casavan of Crookston, paternal grandparents of the groom.

The parents of the couple hosted a wedding supper in the church parlors following the ceremony, with approximately 225 relatives and friends attending. Mr. and Mrs. Dean Audette of Cedar, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, were host and hostess.

To correspond with the bride's chosen colors, the tables were covered in white with rainbow colored streamers. Centering the tables were vases of cut flowers and greens. On the serving table was a five-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Barbara Johnson. The cake featured a candlelit stairway decorated with rainbow colored, frosted flowers. Between the cupid pillars and surrounding the base were daisies and greens. Topping the cake was a miniature trellis with open gates and double wedding rings. Mrs. Norma Paro, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Irene LaCoursiere, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. Dorothy Bergman, friend of the bride, and Mrs. Wagner, aunt of the groom.

Michelle Thibert and Mark Naplin, friend of the couple, ladled the punch. Waitresses were Brenda and Debbie Puppe, friends of the bride; Julie Beyer, cousin of the groom, and Judy Schantzen, friend of the groom. At the gift table were DaLonna Wiskow, Margaret Toulouse, Georgian Proulx and Bonnie Curtis, friends of the couple. Tracey Casavan, sister of the groom, registered the guests.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Lincoln high school and is presently in her last year of nurses training at St. Luke's in Duluth. The groom is a 1971 graduate of Lafayette high school, Red Lake Falls. Following a wedding trip to Glacier National Park and points in South Dakota, the couple is at home in rural Red Lake Falls. Marriage Vows Spoken By Bonnie Mattson - B. Eck

Lund Lutheran church at Gully was the scene of an eight o'clock ceremony on Saturday, August 2, uniting Bonnie Kay Mattson and Bradley Allan Eck in marriage. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mattson of Gully and Mr.and Mrs. Russell Eck of Gonvick.

Rev. Roger Johnson officiated at the ceremony. At the organ was Nancy Lee. Soloists were Fern Holm, who sang, "Every Day of My Life," and "Walk Hand In Hand," and Rev. A. T. Daniels of Gonvick, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in Queenfit floor-length gown of white silk beauganza featuring a princess styled skirt and a cathedral train with a flounced hem. The fitted bodice of Cluny lace was fashioned with a mandarin neckline and long, tapered sleeves. Cluny lace trim and seed pearls enhanced the gown. A halo headpiece of lace and pearls, held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of orange roses, yellow miniature carnations, and moss green ribbon streamers.

Beth Bakke of Fargo, N.D., was her sister's matron of honor. Other attendants were Faye Sorenson of Ada, sister of the bride, and Debbie Hamnes of Gonvick, a friend of the bride. They wore floor-length gowns of a maize floral fabric styled with halter tops, and long-sleeved jackets. They carried bouquets of yellow carnations with moss green ribbon streamers.

The groom was attended by Richard Pletschett of Trail as best man. Groomsmen were Larry Eck of St. Peter and Dr. Steven Eck of Pine City, brothers of the groom. Ushers were Randy Bakke and Terry Sorenson.

The mother of the bride wore an apricot crepe floor-length gown designed with a long-sleeve lace bodice with mandarin neckline. The groom's mother was attired in a mint green crepe floor-length gown accented with a long sleeved chiffon jacket. Their corsages were of orange roses and yellow carnations.

Minn. Farm Real Estate Value Up 30 Per Cent

Minnesota's farm real estate valuation jumped over 30 per cent to a new all time high of $13.157-billion in the year ended last March 1, the Minnesota department of agriculture reported recently.

National farm real estate values compiled by the economic research service of the U.S. department of agriculture revealed that Minnesota's gain was second only to a 37 per cent increase for North Dakota.

Minnesota's $3.044-billion increase in the value of farmland also boosted the state from tenth to the eighth highest total valuation among the 48 contiguous states, moving ahead of Missouri and Ohio. States still ahead of Minnesota, in order, are Texas, Illinois, Iowa, California, Kansas, Indiana and Nebraska.

According to the national study, an average acre of Minnesota farmland this March was worth $461, or $107 more than one year earlier. The new value per acre is more than double the $226 average for Minnesota farmland in 1970.

Nearly one-fourth of Minnesota's farm valuation is invested in buildings. That $3.327-valuation in buildings is fifth highest in the nation, behind only Illinois, Iowa, Texas and Indiana. Minnesota's building value passed that for Ohio farms in the past year. Compared to the prior year, Minnesota's farm building value increased less than 17 per cent.

The study estimated the average farming operation in Minnesota this March represented a real estate investment of $124,900, compared to a national average of $143,900 per farming unit. Minnesota farmers have a higher average real estate investment than do farmers in 19 other states, including the midwest states of Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and Missouri.

Salvation Army Alive And Well In TRF Service

Although there is no visible Salvation army building in Thief River Falls as there was some years ago, work of the organization is carried on locally by a service extension committee under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Race.

Mrs. Race serves as chairman of the committee with Mrs. Agnes Israelson as secretary and Wayne Thompson as treasurer. Also serving on the committee are Elton Cummings and Duane Von Wald.

Purpose of the service committee is to provide help locally and immediately to people in need. Assistance is provided in a number of ways: Groceries or restaurant meals, new or used clothing, lodging for travelers stranded without funds, transportation for medical or emergency travel, fuel, glasses repair, small medical payments, relief to families who suffered home fires, camperships to needy children and Christmas cheer in many forms.

A needy person can receive assistance from the Salvation army by making direct contact or any family, friend or agency of someone in need may contact Mrs. Race, any member of the Salvation army committee or any United Way board member. Two committee members from the local service unit must then agree that the request is one where the Salvation army should help.

Last year the Salvation army received a grant of $2,450 from the citizens of Thief River Falls through the United Way campaign. The local service committee receives about a third of that amount—or more if needed—to do its work in Thief River Falls and the surrounding area.

In addition to the local services mentioned, there are other services offered by the agency on a stateside or national basis. In Minnesota the Salvation army provides hospitals for unwed mothers, disaster work after fires, floods or tornadoes, rehabilitation centers, missing persons department, alcoholic counseling, toys for prisoners' children, summer camps, clothing, Christmas cheer for the blind, aged, needy and handicapped and hospital and shut-in visitations.

Local and regional services listed by the organization include: Welfare aid and counsel, regardless of race or creed; year-round youth program of educational and recreational services; food and lodging for the homeless to help solve their immediate and acute problems; shelter care for women and children in emergency lodges and other accommodations; hope for new beginnings for men and women "on the skids"; youth and family camps encouraging physical, mental and spiritual growth and development; and recruitment of officers for international Salvation army service.

"The composite of the case for support of the Salvation army is its dedication, its motivation and its reputation," Mrs. Race said. "It has a coordinated and balanced program of religious and social welfare work, wide range of practical services and programs with an underlying principle of self-help. Need is the only requisite for service, and the organization serves without regard for race, color or creed.

"It serves the public directly through rehabilitation of unfortunate citizens," she said, "and indirectly by providing, at minimum cost, services which would otherwise have to be met out of taxes."

Thief River Falls, Minnesota

DOUBLE STRENGTH glass on the A. R. Sampson greenhouse in Thief River Falls was unable to withstand the onslaught of hailstones late Sunday afternoon. Only a few panes remained unbroken, and Sampson said damage this extensive would be classified as 100 per cent by his insurance company. Most of the Sampson family was not at home at the time of the storm, and the greenhouse was unoccupied. The greenhouse received similar damage twice before—in 1956 and 1961—and Sampson said this time he will replace the breakage with fiberglass.

College Courses Offered Free To Sr. Citizens

It is now easier than ever for senior citizens in Minnesota to continue their higher education. On June 2 Governor Wendell Anderson signed into law a bill that allows residents 62 or older to take free of charge and for no credit any class offered by a public institution of higher education.

According to Stephen Kraatz, director of continuing education-community services at the University of Minnesota Technical College - Crookston (UMC), senior citizens may also take classes for credit at a cost of only $2 per credit.

The law states that senior citizens may take courses 'when space is available after all tuition-paying students have been accommodated." This means that in classes where enrollment is limited, senior citizens will not immediately be guaranteed a place, but must wait until the first week of the term to register.

Persons under 62 who wish to take a class for credit must pay the regular per-credit price for each course.

Seniors interested in taking a course at UMC may call 281-6510, extension 243 for more information, or extension 241 for registration.

State Jobless Claims 366 Over Preceding Week

Persons in active claims status under the five unemployment programs currently in force in Minnesota totaled 90,412 for the week ending August 22, 1975, commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services reported recently. The total is up 366 from the preceding week.

Initial claims filed during the week for the regular program totaled 3,590, up 259 (eight percent) from the previous week and up 1,200 (50 percent) from the corresponding week a year ago. Total number of active regular claims was 52,700 down 633 (one percent) from the previous week.

Initial claims for extended benefits (paid when regular benefits are exhausted totaled 1,166; for federal supplemental benefits (paid when regular and extended benefits are exhausted), 970; for additional federal supplemental benefits (paid when regular federal supplemental benefits are exhausted), 626; and for special unemployment assistance (paid to workers not ordinarily covered by unemployment insurance), 74.

For the week of August 15, the latest for which figures are available, the total amount of benefits paid under all programs was $4,276,066. Included in those benefits were $2,585,567 in regular benefits, up $1,491,675 (136 percent) over the corresponding week a year a year ago. The average weekly benefit amount was $66.05, up $6.63 from a year ago.

During the week of August 15, payments for extended benefits were $810,516; for federal supplemental benefits, $496,496; for additional federal supplemental benefits, $310,639; and for special unemployment assistance, $72,848.

Since the first of the year, $129,587,933 has been paid for the regular program, up $53,186,039 (70 per cent) from the same period a year ago.

In the Twin Cities Metropolitan area serviced by five claims offices (Minneapolis, St. Paul, Hopkins, Bloomington and Fridley), the number of persons on active claims status under all five unemployment insurance programs was 44,760 for the week ending August 22, 1975. This was 267 or one per cent more than the previous week and 219 per cent more than the same week a year ago.

The number of persons filing initial claims for the regular program totaled 2,004, up 189 from the previous week. Initial claims for extended benefits totaled 674; for federal supplemental benefits, 576; for additional federal supplemental benefits, 320; and special unemployment assistance, 50.

State Senators Oppose Water Pollution Act

Senators Hubert H. Humphrey and Walter F. Mondale recently urged members of the U.S. Senate public works committee to delete the water pollution control amendment to the public works and economic development act of 1975 (S.1587) proposed by Senator Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga.) and adopted by the Senate.

The legislation will be considered by a House and Senate conference committee, when Congress convenes in September.

"As you know, this amendment would completely change the formula upon which waste water treatment plant funds authorized for fiscal years 1973, 1974 and 1975 would be allocated to the states," Mondale and Humphrey wrote the public works committee members on August 5.

These funds were initially impounded by the President and only recently released.

At present, need is the only determining factor. Under the Talmadge formula, 50 per cent of the funds would be distributed for those years and the succeeding years on the basis of state population and 50 per cent on need.

"Personally, we would prefer that allocations for construction of waste treatment plants continue to be made on the basis of need," Humphrey and Mondale advised.

"We feel this is the most equitable mechanism for insuring that the nation's most desperate needs be met in the most expeditious manner." But "all we ask is that, before a change be made in the allocation formula, hearings be held to investigate the impact of such a change."

Mondale and Humphrey maintained that "In enacting this amendment, the Senate set a dangerous precedent for all programs which provide assistance to the several states."

They pointed out that usually such a legislative change would contain a "grandfather" clause "to preserve, for a resonable period of time, the interests of those who would be adversely affected by the new legislation.

"The Talmadge amendment, however, contains no such provision for those states which are planning uses for the funds promised them in previous legislation, but which have no yet obligated the funds," they noted.

"There is ample testimony from well respected authorities that to permit the Talmadge amendment to become law will wreak havoc on the pollution control plans of our nation."

Criticizing the procedures followed in accepting the amendment, Humphrey and Mondale said, "We are especially dismayed that this particular amendment was brought to the floor after a commitment to hold hearings had been made, but before the hearings could be held.

"We would also like to point out that our own state of Minnesota stands to lose $24.2 million of desperately needed funds for pollution control.

"The effect of the amendment would be a 14 per cent cut on our EPA (environmental protection act) allotment" for construction of waste water treatment plants.

"We are sure that our colleagues will agree that this represents a substantial cut."

Announce 1974 State Champion Dairy Counties

Stearns, Big Stone and Morrison are Minnesota's 1974 champion dairy counties, according to annual statistics and rankings announced by the Minnesota department of agriculture. Forty-one counties ranked in the "top 15".

Stearns swept five of seven categories in evaluating county contributions to the Minnesota ranking as the nation's fourth highest milk producing state. Stearns is tops in milk cows on farms, milk production, total dairy farms, grade A grade B bulk dairy farms.

Big Stone is the efficiency champion, as indicated by the highest average milk production per cow, 15,700 pounds (1,353 gallons). That was 5,158 pounds (445 gallons) or 49 per cent higher than the 1974 state average of 10,542 pounds (909 gallons) of milk from each of the state's 890,000 dairy cows.

Morrison led all counties in grade B can type milk farms with 778. This is comparable to the nostalgia championship, as can handling of milk is steadily being reduced in favor of bulk milk sanitation, labor-saving and cost advantages. Only 12,537 dairy farms or 36 per cent of Minnesota's mid-1974 total of 35,318 were using milk cans, and these only produced 18 per cent of the state's total milk volune.

Annual Hearing On Power Plant Siting Sept. 13

Minnesota environmental quality council will hold the annual hearing on power plant siting activities, September 13, in the State office building auditorium, room 83, St. Paul, MN. Interested persons may testify on all aspects of siting large electric generating plants or routing high voltage transmission lines including the rules and regulations for this process.

This hearing will also provide the first opportunity for citizens and representatives of civic and environmental groups, as well as utilities, to comment on the proposed 1975 inventory of candidate areas for large electric power generating plants.

The inventory lists 40 potential areas where large electric plants may be located. The areas encompass 2,200 square miles in Minnesota, primarily in the eastern half of the state. The inventory is the first statewide planning of potential power plant sites in Minnesota and one of the first of its kind in the country. As such it will be open to discussion during the next year at information meetings and public hearings to be held throughout the state.

The 1974-75 power plant siting advisory committee, composed of 20 citizens, compiled the report with the help of the power plant siting staff and a consultant, EDAW, Inc. The areas listed in the inventory passed preliminary screening according to criteria described in the power plant siting rules and regulations. These criteria note areas which are excluded, which should be avoided and what factors should be considered in selecting a site.

The inventory is available for public review at the following locations: county planning and zoning offices, state college and university libraries, EQC designated distribution libraries, and the EQC office. The power plant siting act, 1973, rules and regulations, and applications from utilities are also at EQC distribution libraries and the EQC office in St. Paul.

Energy, Money Can Be Saved By Carpooling

For those who would like to save energy and money, carpooling may be the answer, Minnesota highway commissioner Frank D. Marzitelli said.

By sharing a car with one person, a worker can save up to 50 per cent in transportation costs. With five persons in a car, workers can save up to 80 per cent. The annual after-tax saving varies from $281 to $1,390, depending on the size of the car, carpool, and distance traveled.

The annual cost of driving alone a distance of 10 to 25 miles to work is $646 for operators of subcompact cars to $1,868 for standard size cars.

Additional worker benefits include less driving, reliable transportation, the option of selecting riders, acceptable door-to-door travel times, reduced air pollution, and reduced congestion in parking facilities and on roadways.

In short, Marzitelli said, carpooling is an immediately available way to improve transportation productivity and reduce costs.

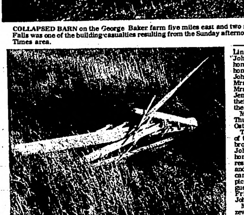
COLLAPSED BARN on the George Baker farm five miles east and two miles north of Thief River Falls was one of the building casualties resulting from the Sunday afternoon storm which struck the Times area.



SPLINTERED telephone poles were located along highway 1 about five miles east of Thief River Falls where high winds caused nearly a mile of telephone lines to go down. Telephone service was restored on Monday although most lines east of the city were out due to the storm damage on Sunday. Electric power poles in the same area were also down as a result of the storm.

No Set-Aside Requirements For '76 Crops

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has said there will be no set-aside repqirement for the 1976 feed grain and wheat programs. It will be the third consecutive year for the feed grain and wheat programs.

Feed grain and wheat producers are not being encouraged to take cropland out of production next year, department officials explain, because even though this years corn and wheat crops are expected to be at record levels, export demand is strong.

As announced in 1973, there will be no conserving base requirement for the duration of the agriculture and consumer protection act of 1973 (through the 1977 crop year). The secretary also announced that effective through the 1977 crop year he will not use his discretionary authority to limit feed grain and wheat plantings to a percentage of allotments.

In 1976, as in the present year, producers may substitute any nonconserving crop (except marketing quota crops) or any conserving crop (including approved volunteer cover) used for hay or for grazing in order to preserve their wheat and feed grain allotments.

Secretary Butz said today's announcement will provide farmers with information they need to make their 1976 crop planting decisions. The programs are designed to provide farmers decision-making freedom to produce for the marketplace. Additional program provisions will be announced after the department has had an opportunity to review additional 1975 production data.

Soo Line Adds Bicentennial Unit To Fleet

Soo Line railroad company is putting a specially painted locomotive into service in commemoration of the nation's Bicentennial.

The unit carries distinctive red, white and blue colors and has been renumbered 1776. Positioned on each side of the locomotive is a large rendering of the first official flag of the United States.

With over 10 years of service to its credit, the unit has logged better than a million miles in freight service. Technically speaking, the locomotive is a diesel-electric, model GP-35, built by the electro-motive division of General Motors. It is rated at 2,500 horsepower.

The locomotive will be dedicated and placed in service September 7 at Annandale in conjunction with the official opening of Minnesota pioneer travel park located there.

Throughout 1975 and 1976 the unit will be used in freight service across the Soo's 4,600 mile system.

Citizenship Day To Be Observed By 4-H Members

September 17 is Citizenship day. It marks the beginning of Constitution week, a time for study and reflection on the events that led to the signing of the U.S. constitution in 1787.

Among the many Americans observing Citizenship day and Constitution week will be 368,000 young people from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H citizenship program. Under the supervision of the Cooperative extension service, these 4-H'ers take part in year-round activities intended to increase their interest, understanding and knowledge of the rights and duties of American citizenship.

4-H members learn by doing to fulfill their responsibilities as citizens of the community, county, state and nation. They show concern for the welfare of others through participation in service projects and meaningful involvement in civic organizations.

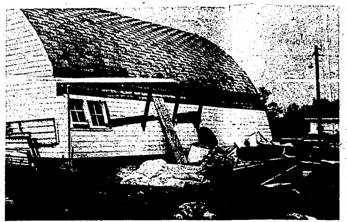
The national 4-H citizenship program was established in 1948 to honor Thomas E. Wilson, founder of Wilson & company meat-packers and Wilson sporting goods company. Wilson, nationally renowned for his support of 4-H, was one of the founders of the National 4-H service committee and served as its president from 1924 to 1958.

In 1973, friends of Kenneth H. Anderson established a scholarship fund to recognize his many years of service to 4-H. Anderson is associate director of the Service Commiteee and has served the organization for 37 years.

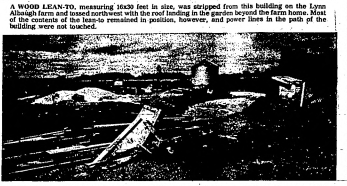
Awards for 4-H'ers who excel in citizenship activities are donated through the service committee in memory of Thomas E. Wilson and by friends of Kenneth H. Anderson. Award winners are selected by the extension service on the basis of their accomplishments in 4-H and civic projects.

This year, six outstanding 4-H'ers will receive expense-paid trips to the 54th national 4-H congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago, and college scholarships of $800. During the congress, the high-ranking boy and girl will be presented with silver trays in the name of the President of the United States.

Additional information on the national 4-H citizenship program is available from county extension agents.



A WOOD LEAN-TO, measuring 16x30 feet in size, was stripped from this building on the Lynn Albaugh farm and tossed northwest with the roof landing in the garden beyond the farm home. Most of the contents of the lean-to remained in position, however, and power lines in the path of the building were not touched.



BOARDS WERE PILED neatly by members of the New Solum 4-H club and other volunteer workers after high winds destroyed nearly all outbuildings at the Ray Holmstrom farm northwest of Thief River Falls. Shown here are the remains of an 18x24 granary.

Minn. Repeats As National Turkey Producing Champ

Minnesota has repeated as the national turkey producing champion with a 1975 crop estimated at 22,171,000 turkeys by the State-Federal Crop and Livestock Reporting Service of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

That is an increase of 237,000 turkeys or up one per cent compared to Minnesota's 1974 production.

Minnesota's increase, along with a six per cent cut in U.S. turkey production for 1975, boosted the state's share of the national total to 18 per cent, compared to 16.7 per cent of the national market last year.

Although California, second in total turkey production, edged Minnesota by 239,000 in the current crop of heavy breed turkeys, Minnesota maintained a comfortable 6,007,000 lead over the western challenger in 1975 totals. Minnesota has an estimated 15,163,000 heavy breed turkeys, again 14 per cent of the national supply of the turkeys that go primarily into a wide variety of processed turkey meats.

In light breed turkey production Minnesota's 7,008,000 estimate for 1975 is a 22 per cent increase over 1974 and represents over 46 per cent of the national supply of the light breeds sold primarily as whole poultry for family oven or barbecue cooking. Minnesota has nearly a 7-to-1 lead over its nearest challengers in light breed turkeys, West Virginia and Virginia.

Turkeys continue to be one of the leading consumer meat bargains. Minnesota farmers in mid-July received and average of 35 cents per pound for their live turkeys. Only spent hens marketed for slaughter by egg producers are lower priced, in the all time bargain basement low of 2.5 cents a pound that the farmer receives.

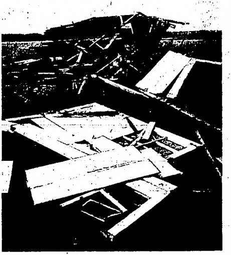
OVERTURNED TRUCK was left in this position in the Russell Nelson farm yard following the Sunday afternoon wind storm. The vehicle was apparently rolled nearly 100 feet by the force of the wind which destroyed a number of buildings on the farm.

Baggage Must Be Tagged To Board Airliners

Baggage must soon be identified, with your name on the outside, in order to be accepted as checked baggage aboard an airliner, says the air transport association.

Under an agreement approved by the civil aeronautics board, the nation's airlines, beginning September 21, will not accept baggage for checking unless the passenger's name is firmly affixed on the outside. The airlines will provide free baggage identification labels at ticket offices and airports to those passengers who need them.

"Requiring names on the outside of bags will be a great advantage for the half-million airline passengers traveling each day who check close to a million pieces of luggage," said George A. Buchanan, ATA's vice president-traffic. Buchanan explained that mandatory name tags will result in faster tracing of misdirected luggage.



MACHINE SHED on the Russell Nelson farm was demolished in the wind which struck the area Sunday afternoon.

Laker Defense Presents Problems

Thief River Falls will host Detroit Lakes Friday at 7:30 p.m. on the Prowler athletic field as coach Jim Sims' Lincoln high school football team plays the first of four home games on the 1975 schedule.

Other Prowler home games this fall will be played Fri., Sept. 19, against Breckenridge; Fri., Oct. 3, Bemidji (homecoming); and Fri., Oct. 24, Crookston.

The Lakers are here first, though, and Friday's game could be a real fan-pleasing contest between the two long-time gridiron rivals.

A major concern of Sims and his coaching staff this week is a 4-4 defensive alignment used by the Lakers for the first time against Fergus Falls in a 7-0 Otter win last win. Traditionally Detroit Lakes has played a 5-2 or 5-3 defense. The combination of four linemen and four linebackers used by the Lakers against the Otters could give the Prowler wishbone offense problems if used this week, admitted Sims.

Offensive blocking assignments against a 4-4 defense are entirely different from any other formation, explained Sims. "A 4-4 changes your blocking scheme," he said. "You have a blocking system that works against any other defense EXCEPT the 4-4. That one changes a lot of things for us, especially our inside people."

The problems arise because the 4-4 will give the defense a four man to three advantage on the inside, explained Sims. "There's no way you can pick them all up if they all come at you at once," he said.

The 4-4 is not invincible, however. "You can burn them if they come in the wrong way—away from the direction of the play," continued Sims. "It's a gamble-type of thing. The offense and defense try to out-guess each other."

Fergus Falls racked up an impressive 259 to 90 rushing yardage advantage against Detroit Lakes and the 4-4, but the Otters won only 7-0 when halfback Jon Erickson rambled 47 yards to set up a fourth quarter touchdown. Erickson's long run came against a Laker goal-line defense and not the 4-4 as the Otters gambled on a fourth down play at their own 33-yard line.

Needing less than a yard for the crucial first down, Erickson bounced off three Lakers, the first hit coming behind the line of scrimmage, and sprinted to the Detroit Lakes 20 before being caught from behind.

Erickson scored two plays later on a 16-yard run early in the fourth quarter.

Actually, the Prowlers are not that all unfamiliar with a 4-4 defense. Prowler opponents Crookston, East Grand Forks and Breckenridge all use the alignment with varying degrees of success. Crookston, of course, has presented Thief River Falls with all kinds of problems with the 4-4 in recent years.

Thief River Falls, a 25-14 loser at Grand Forks Red River last week when the Prowlers' pass defense was riddled by accurate-throwing Roughrider quarterback Tim Benson, might expect another aerial assault Friday from the Lakers.

Detroit Lakes quarterback Jeff Hanson completed only three of 11 pass attempts against Fergus Falls, but picked up 66 yards in the air. And Laker coach Marv Kostelecy told Detroit Lakes sports editor Ralph Anderson that "Our scouts (John Jacobson and Robin Turnwall) felt that Thief River Falls was a good football team, although they had trouble with pass coverage."

The Prowlers will be working doubly hard this week to improve their pass defense. Just how much improvement is made may be the key to Friday night's ball game.

Smith Will Start For NDSU

Lincoln high school graduate Rande Smith will start at center for North Dakota State University Saturday when the Bison open their 1975 football season with a night game at the University of Nebraska-Omaha.

Smith is one of just seven seniors listed in the 22-man NDSU starting line-up.

Saturday will mark the first game at center for the 230-pound one-time Prowler star who was a part-time starter at tight end for the Bison during his sophomore and junior seasons. Smith beat out returning 1974 starter Harold Bakken for the center spot.

North Dakota State has an open date next week before hosting Montana State University in a 7:30 p.m. game in Fargo on Sat., Sept. 20.

Goodridge-Grygla Clash Highlights Area Grid Games

Goodridge will visit area rival Grygla Friday to highlight the area's small school football schedule.

The Goodridge-Grygla tussel will be a 1:30 North Division North Tri County Conference game.

Both teams will be looking for their first win of the year after losing one-sided season openers last week. Grygla fell to McIntosh 30-6 and Goodridge lost to Gonvick 52-0. Grygla won the first ever football game played between the two neighbors last year when the Eagles took a 22-6 season opening win.

In other games Friday, Plummer will visit Gonvick for a 1:30 p.m. North Tri County Conference game while Newfolden hosts Baudette in a 7:30 p.m. Top of the State Conference contest.

Plummer opened its 1975 season last week with a come-from-behind 20-18 win over Clearbrook. Newfolden's opener was spoiled by a 6-0 loss to Greenbush on the road.

Next week Goodridge will be at Plummer, Newfolden visits Warroad and Grygla hosts Middle River.

Skating Program Plans Reviewed Tuesday Night

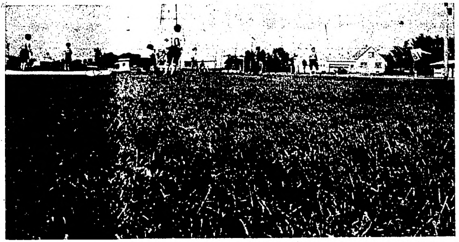
To further develop the recreational skating program planned for Thief River Falls this season, volunteer leaders met with Kathleen Rutledge, University of North Dakota student who will direct the program, Tuesday evening at the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

Rutledge is the resident professional for the Border Blades figure skating club of Grand Forks and holds a gold medalist rating from the U.S. figure skating association. She will conduct the testing, placement and clinic sessions to be held October 6-18 in the Thief River Falls arena and assist with the program throughout the year.

Under present plans for the program, classes will be held for pre-school, kindergarten students and housewives during daytime hours. Others will be given instruction during evening hours—during the two-week clinic and on Thursdays from 4 to 9 p.m. during the season. Cost will be $2 per participant or $5 maximum per family. Slips for program enrollment will be sent out with school students after September 15 and will also be available at the city parks and recreation office and at the Times after that date.

Pre-stick hockey skating will be a part of the total program and private figure skating lessons will also be available on a fee basis. An ice revue will be presented at the conclusion of the program.

Additional volunteers—skaters or non-skaters—are needed to make the program a success, according to the officers of the recreational skating committee. Persons interested may contact any committee members, including Donald L. and Sylvia Olson, Ray and Jan Nelson, Myron and Ila Anderson, Gordon and Jan Peterson, Roger and Linda Worth and Mike Mongoven.



LINCOLN HIGH school football team will open its 1975 home season schedule Friday when Thief River Falls hosts Detroit Lakes in a 7:30 p.m. nonconference game on the Prowler athletic field. The field features a new look this year following a complete re-sodding procedure started following the 1974 football season. The result of the re-sodding: a thick carpet of grass awaiting the Prowlers and Lakers this week. Prowler head coach Jim Sims (kneeling) and team captain Jeff Lindquist (10) watched warm-up drills on the field last week.

Prowlers Host Lakers In 1975 Home Football Opener Friday

Thief River Falls will try to bounce back from a disappointing 25-14 season-opening loss to Grand Forks Red River Friday when the Prowlers open their 1975 home football schedule against Detroit Lakes. Game time will be 7:30 p.m. on the Prowler athletic field.

Both teams will be looking for their first wins on the new season.

While the Prowlers were losing to the impressive-looking Roughriders, the Lakers bowed to Northwest Conference Member Fergus Falls 7-0.

Detroit Lakes' outstanding 1974 ball club which crushed Thief River Falls 19-7 was heavily hit by graduation losses. Only seven lettermen and just one 1974 starter were in the Laker line-up against Fergus Falls.

Thief River Falls head coach Jim Sims is not about to sell the Lakers short, despite their obvious inexperience. "They're a real quick outfit," said Sims, confirming a Laker trademark of recent years. "They don't have real blazing speed, but they have good quickness throughout the team," added Sims.

Senior Mark Veronen is the only 1974 starter on this year's Detroit Lakes ball club. But even Veronen is in a new position at fullback after playing tackle a year ago. "He (Veronen) seems to be a real aggressive ball player on defense," pointed out Sims. Veronen is a tackle in the newly installed 4-4 Laker defense that might give the Prowlers fits, admitted Sims.

Junior Jeff Hanson quarterbacked the Lakers against Fergus Falls. Veronen was at fullback and senior Howard Seim and junior Greg Johnson were the halfbacks in the team's "I" formation. Either senior Jim Anderson or junior Darrell Engen will be at split end and junior Tim Buckley will be the tight end. Senior tackle Mike Molacek is the biggest Laker at 250 pounds.

Detroit Lakes head coach Marv Kostelecky mentioned earlier that his team's defense has been the ball club's most satisfying part of the team. "We have eight or nine players who really like to hit," he said. Kostelecky admitted his team's defensive strength is against the run. "Our secondary coverage is poor," he confessed.

Across the line offensively, the Prowlers will line up with Mike Burstad at tight end, Bob Forberg at split end, Kent Ehrenstrom and Mike Kosel at tackles, Terry Sullivan and either Kevin Anderson or Tim Rude at guards and Chris Biegner at center. Sullivan and Ehrenstrom, a runningback a week ago, are new to their positions. Burstad, a junior, is the only underclassman in the front line.

On defense Thief River Falls will line up with an all senior front line of Geoff Dagg and Kosel at the ends, Biegner and Sullivan at tackles and Rude at nose guard. Senior Duane Gonsorowski and either Kverno or junior Matt Overbye will start on the corners, Ehrenstrom and Dallmann will be the linebackers and Lindquist and junior Brian Peterson will be the safties.

Sims was not totally dissatisfied with his team's first game efforts after viewing game films earlier this week.

"We felt we had enough offense to win it," said Sims of Red River game. "When you score twice you should win most of the time."

The Prowler coach made it clear, however, that not everything he saw on the film was good. "We gave up three touchdown passes—it's pretty obvious where we need work," he said. "We have to shore up our pass defense, although Benson (Roughrider quarterback Tim Benson) made us look worse than we actually were. He played himself a whale of a game against us."

Offensive mistakes also plagued the Prowlers against Red River. "We had a lot of busted assignments that screwed up our offense," pointed out Sims. "We weren't executing like we should have."

However, Sims expects another week of practice, the first game experience and the home field advantage to work in the Prowlers' favor this week.

Bryan Olson Is Winner Of First LHS Game Ball

Lincoln high school head football coach Jim Sims announced this week that senior fullback Bryan Olson was awarded the team's game ball following Friday night's season opening football game at Grand Forks Red River. The Roughriders won the game 25-14.

The announcement of the game ball presentation was one of several post-game honors that are announced weekly by Sims.

Five different Prowler ball players earned "Golden Play" award honors: Olson and sophomore halfback Doug Dallmann for scoring touchdowns; Olson for making two blocks on one play; Dallmann for a fumble recovery; senior end Bob Forberg for making an outstanding catch; and seniors Terry Sullivan, a tackle, and Duane Gonsorowski, a cornerback, for making a tackle that forced a fumble.

Sullivan and senior defensive back Mike Jury topped the Prowler defensive point charts against Red River with 24 points apiece. Dallmann, a linebacker on defense, totaled 22 points.

Other double figure defensive point players included Duane Gonsorowski with 18, Kent Ehrenstrom 16, Mitch Dicken and Geoff Dagg 12 apiece and Mark Mansueto 10.

Touch Football Meeting Slated For Thursday

Touch football league organizational meeting will be held tomorrow (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the game room in the basement of the city auditorium.

All players and coaches interested in organizing a touch football league program this fall are urged to attend the meeting.

Lincoln B Team Loses Opener To Moorhead 36-6

Lincoln high school B team opened its 11-game 1975 football season schedule on a losing note Saturday, bowing to Moorhead 36-6.

The host Moorhead squad scored in every quarter. Thief River Falls scored its lone touchdown in the fourth quarter when quarterback Mike Wiebolt passed 65 yards to Brian Peterson.

Thief River Falls will play again tomorrow (Thursday) when the Lincoln sophomore squad travels to Grand Forks Red River for a 4 p.m. game.

Prowlers-Ponies Girls Volleyball Game Postponed

A scheduling mix-up forced postponement of Tuesday night's season-opening Thief River Falls-Warren girls' volleyball game.

Both teams apparently thought they were the home team for the 1975 season opener and neither team made the 30-mile trip. A make-up date has not yet been announced.

All four Lincoln fall girls athletic teams are scheduled to be in action tomorrow (Thursday) with 1975 season opening tests.

Coach Cindy Vennec's volleyball team will host Moorhead at 7:30 p.m. in the only home encounter for the Prowler girls teams. The tennis, golf and swimming teams will all be on the road.

The tennis team, coached by Pat Johnson will play a 3:30 p.m. match at Waubun, coach Sylvia Anderson's golf team will be at Fosston for a 4 p.m. match and the swim team, under the direction of John Hustad, will be at Detroit Lakes for a 4:30 p.m. meet.

The golf team will also be in action Friday with a 4 p.m. match at Crookston and on Monday with a 4 p.m. encounter at Perham. The tennis team has a 4 p.m. Monday assignment at Crookston.

New Parking Lot Will Be Used At Football Field

Thief River Falls football fans are reminded that a new parking lot will be in use this year for fans attending football games at the Prowler athletic field.

All cars must now park on the west side of the field near the railroad tracks. Fans are asked to drive to the far end of the parking lot and turn around before angle parking on the way back out.

Lincoln high school athletic director Russ Smith asks drivers to turn off the car lights while entering the parking area if the game is in progress.

NWAC Schedule Is Still Limited To Nonconference Play This Week

Five Northwest Athletic Conference football teams will continue nonconference assignments Friday as the 1975 high school football schedule enters its second week.

In season-opening nonconference action Friday, Bemidji beat Milaca 26-12 and Fergus Falls blanked Detroit Lakes 7-0 for NWAC wins, but conference members Crookston, Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks all lost. Fargo North edged Crookston 16-14, Grand Forks Red River handled Thief River Falls 25-14 and Dilworth whipped East Grand Forks 27-0.

In a unique schedule this week, all five conference teams will play home games as Crookston entertains Grand Forks Central, East Grand Forks will host Grand Forks Red River, Thief River Falls will play at home against Detroit Lakes, Crosby-Ironton will be at Bemidji and Fergus Falls hosts Alexandria.

Bemidji 26, Milaca 12

Wayne Marty scored on runs of 12 and 31 yards in the first quarter to spark defending conference champion Bemidji to a 26-12 romp over Milaca.

Marty also scored a two-point conversion and then received scoring help from Jim Grimm who caught a 16-yard pass from Jeff Eidsmoe in the second quarter and a third quarter touchdown by Ben Leister.

Both teams were hampered by penalty calls as 20 whistles amounted to 188 yards. Fumbles were also costly to both teams, with Milaca getting both scores after Bemidji fumbles deep in Lumberjack territory.

Marty led Bemidji's offense with 105 yards rushing on 15 carries. Jack Schwartz caught three passes from Eidsmoe for 40 yards.

Fergus 7, Detroit Lakes 0

Fergus Falls dominated the game's statistics by a nearly two-to-one nargin, but the Otters emerged with only a 7-0 decision over stubborn Detroit Lakes on a 15-yard fourth quarter touchdown run by Jon Erickson.

The game's only touchdown was also set up by Erickson on a key fourth down and inches to go for a first down play at the Otter 32. Erickson broke several tackles for 49 yards and then scored two plays later.

Mike Thomas led Fergus Falls' rushing attack with 138 yards on 19 carries while Erickson picked up 91 on 14 tries as the Otters rolled up 256 yards on the ground to just 90 for the Lakers.

Dilworth 27, EGF 0

Dilworth dominated East Grand Forks to pick up a one-sided 27-0 win.

John Variano put the Locomotives on the board with a 62-yard touchdown run just three minutes into the first quarter.

The Green Wave, plagued by mistakes throughout the game, managed two encouraging notes as Rick Beck rushed for 103 yards and quarterback Scott Selk completed six of 10 passes. Bob Weber caught four Selk passes for 44 yards.

North 16, Crookston 14

Fargo North scored a game-tying touchdown and a game-winning two-point conversion with 30 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter to beat Crookston 16-14.

North's winning score climaxed a 90-yard Spartan drive culminated by Paul Nellermoe's touchdown. Quarterback Pat Flechtner passed to Greg Pekas for the winning conversion points.

Crookston scored first on a seven-yard run by Joel Rood midway through the second quarter. Crookston went ahead 14-8 just 54 seconds into the fourth quarter when Rood passed 12 yards and Mark Pester punted four times for a 40.5 average to highlight the Pirate attack.

Red River 25, TRF 14

Grand Forks Red River jumped out to a 19-0 lead and coasted past Thief River Falls 25-14.

Dave Kvidt scored on a 79-yard run just 1:48 into the game to spark Red River.

MARSHFIELD'S TOBY, a registered English Springer Spaniel owned and handled by Don Stewart of Thief River Falls, captured third and fourth place ribbons at two licensed field trials conducted by the Canadian Kennel club Saturday and Sunday near Winnipeg. The 2½-year-old dog was the only entry among 25 Springers from the United States and Canada to finish both trials without disqualification. Competing in stakes for open all age entries, Toby finished in fourth place on Saturday and third place on Sunday. First place on Sunday went to Sunray of Chrishall, a national amateur field trial champion and field trial champion from Joliet, Ill. Stewart, who has been involved in field trials for only four years, will next compete at a major trial near the Twin Cities two weeks from now.

News Item

A recent edition of the New York Mills Herald had the following story in the "Mapping Our Town Column":

Joe Mergen of Remer is a farmer. On his four-acre farm he raises night crawlers. His equipment includes two tractors, a manure spreader, a 10-foot tandem disc and a field cultivator.

His land is always black and wet. He's a wholesaler of night crawlers to area bait shops. He and his wife "pick" the night crawlers at night—after dark and their best efforts were 265 dozen in one evening.

In an average year the farm will "produce" about 10,000 dozen night crawlers. They got into the business about 35 years ago when night crawlers "were planted" on the farm to have fishing bait for their own use. The worms reproduce every 18 days and now they have scads of them—and a good going business.!

Bald eagles had a good nesting season in Minnesota's Chippewa national forest this year with 77 eaglets hatched from the forest's 167 nesting sites.

Minnesota has received $1,230,833 in federal aid funds for fish and wildlife restoration projects for use during the first half of fiscal year 1976.

State Vocational Leader Suggests Change In Loans

Existing state student grant and loan program discriminates against those who wish to attend vocational-technical institutes, according to Robert Van Tries, Minnesota assistant commissioner for vocational-technical education.

Van Tries, in a meeting held recently with the state's higher education heads and U.S. Congressman Albert Quie, said that the state grant and loan program has heen geared to meet the needs of college students while remaining inflexible to the economic conditions of vocational students.

"The greatest problem is that our system provides the opportunity to enroll at any time during the year which means many of our students make decisions to further their education long after the state grant and loan program has designated those persons who will receive financial assistance for the year," said Van Tries.

"Another problem which is related to the application for the state's assistance program is that once our students decide to attend school, the procedures for even finding out if financial assistance is available is months after vocational programs have already begun."

"It's like this: colleges are set up on a quarter or semester basis. This means the student who attends a collete or university has, long in advance, made a decision to attend and can apply for financial assistance well in advance of his or her enrollment into that institution," he said.

"On the other hand, a person entering a vocational institute may decide at any time during the year to go to school and, when seeking assistance, will find that although he made the decision to go to school, he cannot attend because the state's loan and grant system cannot respond fast enough to facilitate the educational goals."

Van Tries stated that what is needed to deal with this inflexibility is to provide for an institutionally-based grant and loan program where financial aid would be available almost immediately upon identification of a person's economic need.

"In such a system, you eliminate the waiting period and are responding immediately to a person's educational goals," said Van Tries.

Van Tries said he was concerned that without such an institutionally based financial aid program, the propsed tuition charge for vocational-technical institutes would be a financial burden preventing many persons from pursuing any type of higher learning.

"I'm not opposed to tuition for our vocational-technical education system provided no student is prevented from receiving an education because of economic restraints," he said.

"It is a well-known fact that a majority of vocational students are persons who come from lower economic levels than do those who attend colleges or universities.

Citing last year's drop-out rates in area vocational-technical instututes, Van Tries said that 1,179 students were forced to drop their education plans simply because they lacked the financial assistance to continue.

At a recent national meeting of state vocational education directors, it was learned that the financial aids discrimination of vocational students was a concern across the United States.

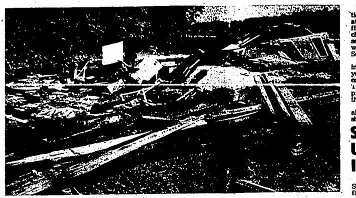
National Dairy Hearings Set For Little Falls

Dairy and poultry subcommittee of the U.S. house of representatives will hold official hearings on the status of the nation's dairy industry in Little Falls, it was announced recently by 7th district congressman Bob Bergland. The hearings have been scheduled for Sept. 13 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. in the Martin Auditorium of the Little Falls Community high school.

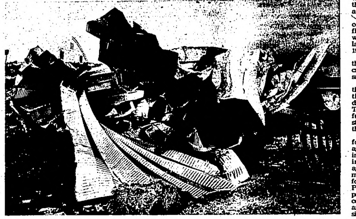
According to Bergland, the hearings have a threefold purpose: To document the extent to which increased production costs have affected the net income of dairy farmers; to assess the responsiveness of current price support programs to rising production costs; and to discuss problems related to finding adequate credit sources for dairy operations.

The hearings will be conducted by U.S. representative Ed Jones (D-Tenn), chairman of the dairy and poultry subcommittee. In addition to Jones and Bergland, Congressmen Richard Nolan (D-Minn), James Jeffords (R-Vt) and Richard Kelly (R-Fla) will take part in the hearings.

The subcommittee has scheduled testimony from Minnesota dairy farmers and representatives of dairy cooperatives, consumer organizations, retailing associations, lending institutions and state government officials. Bergland suggests that any other individuals or groups wanting to submit written testimony contact his Washington (202-225-2165) or Moorhead (218-236-5050) office for details.



FARM SHOP was demolished by a reported tornado which swept through the Ray Holmstrom farm yard Sunday afternoon. Debris reportedly struck the wheel of a farm wagon with such force that it knocked the wheel from the axle, stripping the nuts from the threads.



ROLLED WRECKAGE is all that remained of the steel building which was under construction at the Lynn Albaugh farm. The Albaughs were working on the building when the wind struck Sunday afternoon.

State 4-H Horse Show To Be Held September 15-16

About 300 Minnesota 4-H'ers will provide the action for the state 4-H horse show at the state fairgrounds beginning Monday, September 15, at 8 a.m.

The two-day event will be held concurrently with the market livestock show and community price conference and will be held in the coliseum (hippodrome).

4-H'ers will participate in halter showmanship, horsemanship, western and English pleasure classes, reining classes, barrel racing, egg and spoon contests, pole weaving and new classes—hunter equitation over fences and English equitation.

Preliminaries will be held September 15 for egg and spoon, reining, hunter equitation over fences, barrel racing and pole weaving with the top 8-12 finalists competing in the evening show.

The show at 7 p.m. September 15 open to the public starts with a grand entry parade of county riders. Egg and spoon, hunter equitation over fences, barrel racing and pole weaving finalists will vie for trophies.

Dan Patch trophy, awarded to the top 4-H Horse project member in the state, will be presented along with awards for the top judging teams from the afternoon horse judging contest, as well as other awards.

About 35 4-H teams will participate in a horse judging contest at 1 p.m. September 16, judging five halter and one performance class. Another new feature—several horse demonstrations—will be in the Coliseum concourse September 16.

All 4-H members participating in the horse show are at least 11 years of age and are currently enrolled in the 4-H horse project. They represent over 6,000 horse project members from throughout the state.

The public is invited to attend all horse and market livestock show activities.

Serious Crime Up 18 Per Cent In 1st Quarter

Serious crime in the United States rose 18 per cent during the first three months of 1975 over the same period a year ago, Attorney General Edward H. Levi announced today. This compares with a 15 per cent increase during the first three months of 1974 over a similar period in 1973.

Levi said the latest increase is consistent with preliminary figures for all of calendar 1974, which show that serious crime last year was up 17 per cent over 1973.

"The statistics again point up the need to improve the nation's criminal justice system," Levi said.

The figures were contained in the FBI's uniform crime reports that were released by FBI director Clarence M. Kelley. They are based on information furnished by the city, county and state law enforcement agencies throughout the nation.

The violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault, as a group, increased 18 per cent. Robbery increased 28 per cent, aggravated assault 10 per cent, murder seven per cent and forcible rape four per cent. Property crimes also were up 18 per cent. Burglary rose 20 per cent, larceny-theft 19 per cent, and motor vehicle theft increased six per cent, Levi said.

Law enforcement agencies in the rural areas reported a 21 per cent rise in the volume of crime. Suburban areas reported an increase of 19 per cent. Cities with 100,000 or more inhabitants reported a 17 per cent increase.

Geographically, the northeastern states reported a 21 per cent increase in crime. Crime in the southern states was up 20 per cent, the north central states 17 p[illegible] states 13 per cent.

Calling the latest figures "one of the terrifying facts of life, which we have come to accept as normal, and which we must not accept as normal," Levi said they again demonstrate the need for major new programs at all levels of government.

"Currently law enforcement is solving only about one of five known serious crimes," Levi said. "But of even greater concern" is the downgrading of charges from felonies to misdemeanors at the prosecution stage, regardless of the defendant's past criminal record."

Levi pointed out that about two-thirds of all persons arrested are repeaters, and therefore the identification of career criminals was particularly important.

Prevention Key To Eye Health Among Children

To be sure, blindness or unnecessarily impaired vision, at whatever age it occurs, is always a tragedy. Yet, somehow, when it happens to a child—especially one too young to comprehend what happened or why—it is even more devastating.

At that age, whether or not a youngster has good eyesight is largely up to the parents. For long before he is old enough to even begin to understand concepts of eye health and safety, eye problems and needless accidents can cause any number of serious consequences and even life-long handicaps.

The national society for the prevention of blindness stresses the importance of early eye examinations to detect any irregularities as soon as possible. Ideally, an infant should have his eyes examined shortly after birth and again, definitely, by age four; and any time a parent suspects something is wrong. To wait until he starts school to have an eye exam is taking a decided risk, because in some cases an existing problem may be too far gone, even at this early age, to correct successfully.

Such is the case with amblyopia, often called "lazy eye" and one of the most serious childhood conditions.

Amblyopia often is the result of a weakness in the eye muscles which causes one eye to move independently of the other, thus producing a different image in each eye—or double vision. When this happens, the brain rejects the second image, thereby checking the use of the faulty eye. Then the child may see clearly, but only with one eye. If this is allowed to continue very long, the rejected eye becomes permanently weakened, and cannot later be brought back to full usefulness.

Parents have to be aware of such things, cautions the society, because children aren't. They also have no idea what constitutes safe toys and may be, inadvertently, threatening eyesight every time they go out to play. Consider such things as BB guns, sling shots, darts, air rifles, bows and arrows, and other projectiles—and how easily an eye could be injured or put out by a careless shot.

It's up to you to make sure your child has the best eye care possible—by protecting him, guiding him, and teaching him. The national society for the prevention of blindness has information to help you. Write Prevent Blindness, Box 426, New York, New York 10019.

What is home? A blend of memories and mortar . . . walls and roof and smells of breakfast cooking . . . a place of rest at the end of the day . . . a feeling of possession, of belonging . . . a place of hates, loves, anger . . . center of things living.

Home may be a mansion on a hill, a cramped apartment, a farmhouse, a hovel, a new suburban split-level, the house Father built . . . but only to you and your family is it home. No one else may call it that. For home is a part of you!

Centuries ago a shepherd-poet felt this. Lonely seasons on the grazing slopes had taught him to love . . . to long for . . . HOME.

But he realized that, through this life and beyond, the nearness of God is part of the sense of home. Goodness and mercy would follow him all the days of his life. And he would dwell in the house of the Lord forever!

Not An Ambassador

Now is his fifth year as governor of Minnesota, Wendell Anderson has been in Thief River Falls twice since first elected to the state's top executive office. The first time was about two years into his first term. The second was on a campaign tour a couple of weeks before the 1974 election. He was scheduled to be here another time or two but didn't show, including a missed appearance at the city's Diamond Jubilee.

Northern Minnesotans realize that they live a long way from the state capitol in St. Paul. They realize it every time they have to contact a legislator or send a delegation to represent a particular interest—which seems to be more and more often as the composition of the legislature has changed.

For the first couple of years of the governor's term, we editorialized that perhaps there really was no Gov. Wendell Anderson. Northern Minnesota hadn't seen a real live governor for quite a spell. Then he materialized here one day as scheduled and we had an enjoyable visit with him. He is a very personable and likeable social companion.

But while we like Wendell Anderson the man, we join others in finding some fault with Wendell Anderson the governor. Except possibly in some campaign ads, we don't believe he has really professed to be a strong leader in Minnesota government. If not, we give him credit for an accurate self-assessment.

And we would suggest that one of the reasons his leadership role lacks credibility and strength is that he is willing to forego a familiarity with the state he was elected to serve.

A recent Minneapolis Tribune editorial points out that the governor has taken 17 trips outside the state since beginning his second four-year term on January 1 of this year. The trips include jaunts to the Soviet Union in May, to Sweden in July and to China in August. Another, the Tribune points out, was to the governors' conference in New Orleans in June, " . . . where he fumbled, on national television, trying to answer a simple question about government in Minnesota."

While we will concede that some of the trips do not come at cash expense to the state and may accomplish some good for Minnesota, we agree with the Tribune editorial writer that the cumulative effect is to take the chief executive from the state for too much of the time. The governor's job is, indeed, to govern Minnesota.

"After China, the governor should, we think, find more time for Minnesota and its problems," the Tribune editorial states. "The voters elected a governor, not an ambassador."

Shooting Up Our Golf?!

Pat Gerlach of the Detroit Lakes newspapers is apparently not too pleased by the provincial attitude of North Dakotans in regard to the waterfowl hunting season. He suggests—with more than a touch of sarcasm—that we shouldn't let non-residents shoot up all of our golf. Here's what he writes in a recent column:

We can't ignore it any longer. We've turned our backs on the problem long enough and the time has come to take a stand.

It's not that we don't want non-residents to come here and enjoy our fine golfing. It's just that—well, there are only so many holes on a golf course and if they're all being used by foreigners where will our Minnesota golfers golf?

We would never suggest that non-resident golfers be banned from shooting golf at the Detroit Lakes Country Club. Never. But since a neighboring state (One of the Dakotas) has decided to hold its state tournament here, we think that a few rules—call them non-resident restrictions if you like—are in order.

First, that other state is expecting a field of 60 to 75 golfers for their tournament. That's a fine field but it may overtax our natural golfcourse resource so perhaps it should be cut back a bit.

There's no way we can arbitrarily decide who gets to come and who doesn't so we can set up a system whereby golfers can apply for the privilege of being non-resident golfers ahead of time. The tournament is scheduled for Aug. 21 and 22 so if the 75 golfers apply by 3 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 20, it will allow we residents sufficient time to hold a drawing to determine the 25 who will be allowed to play.

That will solve part, but not all the problem.

As everyone knows, non-resident golfers are different than resident golfers. If we allow even those 25 to just move in and golf as they please who knows what might come next?

Before you know it they'll be leasing every other whole and then none of our resident golfers will be able to have any fun at all. They'll have to stand in the out-of-bounds and watch all those non-residents shoot up all of our golf.

We have read of other states that profess similar problems in other areas and we have arrived at a solution to our problem much as they did.

At the time the non-resident applies for the opportunity to shoot Minnesota golf, he shall also specify precisely where he intends to shoot said golf.

If we let them go wherever they desire it will be no time at all before they congregate on, say the ninth hole, where they will most certainly destroy the shooting of golf not only for our resident Minnesotans but for themselves as well (non-resident shooters being what they are).

So of the 25 we admit to our wonderful golf-shooting facilities, we will allow four to shoot on the first hole, seven to shoot on the second hole, one on the third, three on the fourth, one on the fifth, two on the sixth, four on the seventh, two on the eighth and one on the ninth.

We must be careful however, for if we ban non-residents entirely we might someday find ourselves ineligible for federal recreation or golflands grants. With that in mind, we'll allow those 25 fortunate non-residents the privilege of playing all of the back nine and the entire north nine.

There is also the problem of when to allow the non-residents to shoot. As sure as the ducks head south for the winter, the non-residents will completely take over those holes allotted to them if we don't take steps to protect ourselves.

To do that, we'll let the golfers pick any afternoon to shoot but that's all they'll get—one afternoon. That way we can take their money and they can shoot their golf and we can be rid of them and never worry about them taking over.

Speaking of money, we can't let the non-residents come in here and golf for the same sum it costs residents. With all the restrictions we've placed on them it might be fair to charge them the same or even less than what is charged residents who have unlimited privileges on the course but why be fair if they might pay anyway?

After all, some of them might have friends or relatives here and they might want to come badly enough to put up with all of our rules and still let us pick their pockets.

An attractive formula for figuring out prices is one employed by a neighboring state for other recreational sports. They charge a non-resident about ten times what they charge one of their own.

Since a man's membership at the golf course costs $100, we'll charge non-residents $1,000. Forget the fact that they'll only be able to golf for one afternoon. If it works elsewhere, it might work here. After all, it's not as if they had a right to golf here. We all know it's just a privilege bestowed by us because we're so benevolent.

Shaky Cities

Following editorial appeared in a recent issue of "Business Week" magazine:

In recent years, some 13 per cent of U.S. workers have been living in a dreamworld of rapidly expanding operations, fast-rising wages, and almost total job security. They are the employees of state and local government. They now number more than 12 million. And they find it hard to believe that American cities must go through the same rigorous cost-cutting and budget review that the recession has forced on American industry.

But the hard truth is that improvident municipal governments have come to the end of the line. Their casual, undisciplined expansion in the past two decades has gone far beyond their financial resources. Their top-heavy tax structures are driving business and higher-bracket taxpayers to the suburbs. Their overloaded payrolls are not producing the services the taxpayers were promised.

Nor can the cities continue to set standards for pay and pensions that are out of line with the basic pay scales of the nation. Local government should be a good employer, but it cannot afford to be a more generous employer than the industries that support it with their taxes. The discipline of the market sets a limit on what industry can pay without going bankrupt. Though few city officials can see it, that same discipline extends to the government.

Borrowed Nonsense

He was a rather undersized freshman at his first college dance, but despite his smallness, he was sure of himself in his own way. He walked over to a beautiful and oversophisticated sorority girl and said, "Pardon me, Miss, may I have this dance?"

She looked down at his small size and lack of a fraternity pin and said, "I'm sorry, but I never dance with a child!"

The freshman bowed deeply and said, "Oh, I'm sorry, I wasn't aware of your condition."

MINNESOTA REPORT

WALTER F. MONDALE

Federal business estate taxes, as they are now, may be one of the farmer's and the small businessman's greatest enemies. Small businesses and farms often must be sold to pay these burdensome taxes. And, at a time when the family farm faces growing pressure from corporate farming operations, we should de everything we can to keep small businesses and farms from being broken up.

I chaired Senate Small Business Committee hearings in Minneapolis this week to explore the necessary legislative remedies. I hope that from the hearings we have learned what can best be done to alleviate the serious burden of estate taxes.

The present $60,000 exemption in the federal estate tax has not been changed in more than 30 years. As a result, more and more family farms and small businesses are being subjected to estate taxes at ever higher rates. This exemption should be increased to bring it more in line with present economic realities.

In addition, the present estate tax payment rules do not adequately recognize the problems involved in paying estate taxes on farms or closely held family businesses. When an estate consists largely of widely traded corporate stock, for example, it is easy enough to sell off part of the stock to pay the estate taxes. But when the main asset in the estate is a farm or small family business, you just can't sell off pieces of it to pay the tax without destroying its economic validity. The alternative, too often, is to sell out to a corporate farming operation or a remote national conglomerate.

This is bad for everyone. It's bad for the family that loses its farm or business and it's bad for the community that loses the support and concern that local ownership brings. And it's bad for the national economy as concentration increasingly pushes out competition.

In order to deal with this problem, we must substantially liberalize the rules for payment of estate taxes on farms and closely held businesses. Under present law, up to 10 years is allowed in some cases for payment of these taxes. But this extended payment period is hedged around with restrictive rules that make it difficult for many estates to use.

In addition, we must give careful consideration to legislation that would forgive or postpone estate taxes if farms are kept in the same family and continue to be used for farming purposes. We must be sure that our laws do not provide an artificial incentive for breaking up farms and turning them into commercial developments.

These hearings will be invaluable as the Senate Finance Committee - - on which I also serve - - begins to deal with reforms in the federal gift and estate tax system. We value the testimony of small businessmen and farmers from all over the state who confront these estate tax problems.

Capitol Close-Ups

Rep. John Corbid

This past week the Minnesota House of Representatives met for a series of committee meetings, more commonly known as a mini-session. I believe two meetings will be of special interest to the people of our district. Those meetings dealt with the tragic affect alcohol has upon our society. During the legislative session, I received more letters and petitions asking for a change in the legal drinking age than on any other subject.

On Thursday I testified before the House commerce and economic development committee in favor of a bill, on which I am a co-author, to increase the legal age for on-sale purchase of liquor to 19 and the legal age for off-sale purchase to 21.

In a column last spring, I discussed this bill and the reasons for the difference in ages for on and off sale purchases. Briefly, the purpose is to prevent young adults from purchasing liquor for their minor friends. Part of my testimony was that the present circumstances placed a great deal of peer pressure on young adults to purchase liquor for minors.

It appears that a bill to increase the age for legal liquor purchases to 19 will be successful in the 1976 session. The greatest opposition to this change comes from legislators with districts near the Wisconsin and Iowa borders. They fear their young people will drive into those states creating the same problem for Minnesota that North Dakota now faces on our western border.

The second meeting of importance was the meeting of the health and welfare division of the appropriations committee, of which I am a member, concerning the cutback in funding to the detoxification centers such as the Glenmore foundation located at Crookston. The Glenmore foundation receives clients from our northwestern counties.

The problem resulted from a limitation on federal funds available for reimbursing the centers for their services plus an overexpenditure by the department of public welfare in the last biennium. Our committee has proposed putting additional funds into this program which should allow Glenmore to continue its fine program.

In our committee hearings I have been very critical of the department of public welfare's chemical dependency program. The entire program needs to be changed so that we receive full benefit from the substantial amount of tax dollars put into the chemical dependency program. One of my primary goals of this next year will be the correction of problems within this department.

If I can be of service to you, please write me at R. R. 2, Oklee, Minnesota, or call me collect at 796-2013.

Bake From Scratch For Goodness' Sake

Back-to-school schedules automatically predict a series of lunch box menus that are nutritious and delicious. Make sandwiches of enriched whole wheat or rye bread with a variety of fillings, such as sliced cheese and meat. Include some kind of raw vegetable along with fruit, cookie or piece of cake. Two-Flavor Cake is a baker's dream—rich, tender—made with Baker's German's sweet chocolate.

Two-Flavor Cake

- 1 package (4 oz.) sweet cooking chocolate
- 3 cups sifted cake flour
- 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon almond extract

Melt chocolate over low heat; set aside. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter. Gradually add sugar, creaming until light and fluffy. (Beat 10 minutes in an electric mixer, or longer by hand.) Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture alternately with the milk and flavorings, beating until smooth after each addition.

Pour half of the batter into a 10-inch tube pan which has been lined on the bottom with paper. Fold chocolate into remaining batter; spoon over plain batter. Bake at 350° for about 1 hour and 10 minutes, or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. (Chocolate batter goes to bottom during baking, marbling cake.) Cool cake in pan 15 minutes. Then remove from pan and finish cooling on rack.

Strandquist Senior Citizens

August 28th was our free day at the center, but before we played games, the ladies did a few odd jobs.

Crocheting and finishing more sofa pillows; cutting out and gluing together; an octopus doll was made and a rug was started on the rug loom.

Twenty-nine registered in our record book. Our visitors were Mr. and Mrs. John Gremborski of Stephen, Barbara Kuznia and Brenda Danielson of Drayton, N.D., and our local visitors were Sally Weller, Mabel Stromberg, Mrs. John Daigne and Sherri, Shelly Donaldsen, John Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Brekke, Scott and Chad and Melanie Lefrooth.

Games were played by all since not enough men who usually play whist play. We never know what our game package contains, since each of us are asked to bring a few prizes. It becomes customary to pen your prize so all can see. Often a roar of laughter goes through the room if someone chooses a prize containing a joke, but most prizes are very useful.

Irene won the blackout game Thursday. Mildred, Ruth and Anna H. gave door prizes that Mrs. Gremboroski, Mildred and Bruno won.

Anna Brekke was hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rud were last Sunday evening visitors at the Gust Johnson home.

Mrs. Donald Nelson, Jill and Janelle of rural Warren visited with Irene Larson on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kleinvachter visited at Peter Hougards at Warren Tuesday and were coffee guests there. The Hongards send greetings to all their old friends at Strandquist.

Kenneth Boen visited with Irene Larson and Arnold Brekke on Friday.

Public Review Available On Forest Survey

A comprehensive assessment of the natural resource situation on the nation's 1.6 billion acres of forest and grazing lands in available for public review. The document, in draft form, looks at two-thirds of the nation's land.

A second draft document outlines a long-range management program for the 187 million acre national forest system.

Both of these documents have been prepared under direction of the forest and rangeland renewable resources act of 1974, and must be delivered by the U.S. forest service to the congress by Dec. 31, 1975.

The assessment looks at the nation's current renewable resource supplies, and the present and predicted demand placed upon them, including a look at international considerations. Also included is a discussion of what can be done to increase production on these lands, and what the costs and returns would be to the federal government. The program will be a long-range plan for all activities of the forest service geared to helping meet the goals identified in the assessment. Activities of the U.S. forest service include forest and grassland research, and assistance to private landowners and states, in addition to management of the 155 national forests. Included in the assessment are the millions of acres of public and private forest lands in Minnesota. The program includes the nearly 4 million acres of the Chippewa and Superior national forests in Minnesota.

The forest service is actively seeking the involvement of the public in reviewing the assessment and program. Comments must be received by October 15 in order to meet the deadline for the final documents.

Three documents have been prepared to aid in this review—the assessment; the program, which includes the essential elements of an environmental statement; and a summary. The full assessment and program documents will be of considerable value to resource specialists, planners, and others deeply interested in natural resource management. The summary document, considerably smaller and somewhat less complex, should provide concerned citizens with sufficient information for review and consideration of program alternatives.

The documents are available for review at the office of the forest supervisor, Chippewa national forest, Cass Lake, Minn.

Copies can be obtained by writing to the forest service resource planning act team, S-159, south building, U.S department of agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Public hearings will be held in 14 major cities to offer interested persons an opportunity to comment. Locally, a hearing will be held September 19, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., at 564 Federal building, Ft. Snelling, Minn.

4-H'ers Mark Bicentennial With All American Foods

CHICAGO—From New England's Indian pudding to New Orleans' jambalaya, American foods reflect a diverse ethnic heritage and the bounty of the land.

To celebrate the nation's bicentennial, young cooks in the national 4-H food-nutrition program are dishing up some of America's favorite regional fare.

What's more, they are gaining a 200-year perspective on New World cuisine through "All American Foods." This 4-H members' manual contains easy-to-cook recipes spiced with anecdotes about characters out of history and folklore—like Pecos Bill, Johnny Appleseed and Squanto.

The manual is one in a series of educational aids provided by General Foods Corporation, sponsor of the food-nutrition program for the 15th year. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, nearly 770,000 boys and girls from 9 to 19 take part in food-nutrition projects.

Learn-by-doing projects

4-H'ers may "shop" the newspaper ads, plan a week's menus on the basis of cost and nutrition, then do the actual purchasing. They'll learn how to store foods properly. And when they're ready to cook, they'll be taught basic culinary techniques plus the rules of safe food handling.

Projects stress good eating habits that last a lifetime. Health, physical fitness and appearance all depend on a daily diet that includes foods from each of the four major groups: meat, cereals and bread, fruits and vegetables, and milk and milk products.

As they learn by doing in the food-nutrition program, 4-H'ers can work for awards donated by General Foods and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

This year, $800 college scholarships will go to six national winners, selected from among 50 state winners who will receive expense-paid trips to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago. Up to four medals of honor will be awarded in each county.

All winners are chosen by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment. More information on the national 4-H food-nutrition program is available from county extension agents.

Flavorful jambalaya

4-H'ers enjoy preparing jambalaya, a savory skillet meal influenced by early French, Spanish, African and Choctow Indian residents of the U.S. Gulf Coast. The following recipe calls for ground beef but could be varied by substituting cooked ham or shrimp.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in skillet over medium heat. Add ½ cup diced onion, ¼ cup diced green pepper, and 1 pound ground beef. Cook, stirring often until meat is browned. If a large amount of fat cooks out, spoon off excess. Drain 1 can (1 lb. 12 oz.) tomatoes, measuring juice. Add water to juice to make 1½ cups. Add the liquid, tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon thyme, and 1 small bay leaf to mixture in skillet. Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Then stir in 1 1/3 cups precooked rice, cover and simmer 5 minutes longer. Discard bay leaf before serving. Serves 4 to 5.

During America's bicentennial, young cooks in the national 4-H food-nutrition program are preparing and serving dishes with an American flavor. While they learn by doing in the Cooperative Extension Service conducted program, 4-H'ers can work for a series of awards donated by General Foods Corporation.

Council To Act On Liquor Store Bids

Action to award the highest bid for the purchase of the Thief River Falls on-sale municipal liquor facility is expected Tuesday night during the regular meeting of the city council.

When bids were opened at 2:30 p.m. last Tuesday, an offer of $85,500 from partners Marvin Neelan and Charles Blazek of Thief River Falls was the highest of three bids received. Bids of $80,000 each were received from Myrle Carlson and Duane Walton, both of Thief River Falls. Prior to the bidding, the council liquor committee had set a minimum price of $60,000 for the outright sale of the building, located at 307 Main avenue north.

Furniture, fixtures and equipment are included in the property to be sold. All merchandise for resale (inventory) and cash registers are not included. The city will retain municipal off-sale liquor at the facilities located along highway 59.

A deposit of $1,000 accompanied each bid, with an additional $4,000 due to the city within five days after notification of acceptance of bid. Possession of the property will be granted on or about January 15.

If Neelan and Blazek's bid is awarded by the council, they will proceed with the steps necessary to obtain a private on-sale liquor license from the city. The two men presented sketches for their proposed on-sale establishment at a council meeting several months ago.

They have already submitted $50 to the city for an investigation fee and $900 to pay one quarter of the $3,600 license fee, the one quarter payment must accompany all license applications.

Other steps to be taken before a license can be granted include: A bond must be filed with corporate surety and a liability insurance policy, or, instead of a bond a deposit of $5,000 in government bonds with the city clerk; the chief of police must submit a written recommendation to the council; the building inspector must issue a certificate of occupancy; and a notice of application must be published in the Times 10 days prior to approval.

At a public hearing June 3, the council liquor committee offered many reasons why the city was disposing of its on-sale facility, including: Low profit contribution; high expenses which

In the Farmers Home administration rural housing loan program, a total of $470,000 was loaned out to 26 individual families to help them secure a home in which to live. Fifty-eight farmers in Marshall county received operating loan credit from the Farmers Home administration in fiscal year 1975.

Marshall county was designated as a disaster county because of 1974 spring flooding and 81 farmers applied for a received assistance from the Farmers Home administration. Total amount loaned was $969,250.

In addition to this credit provided to families in Marshall county, loans were also approved to several communities in Marshall county. The city of Grygla received a $230,000 loan and a $180,000 grant to provide city water and sewer to the residents of Grygla. The city of

Iowa Test Dates Sept. 9-12 At Franklin School

Standardized tests will again be used at Franklin middle school to aid students, teachers and parents. One achievement indicator, the Iowa tests of basic skills, will be administered Tuesday through Friday to all students in grades 6-8, according to James Fremstad and Pamela Carlson, counselors.

The Iowa basics assist teachers by documenting student strengths and weaknesses. This enhances educational planning by identifying individual and group needs. Teachers may then construct lesson plans and remedial or enrichment programs for an individual based on his readiness for the information.

Through the use of these tests parents are encouraged to consider such factors as past achievement when setting expectations for their children's performance in the current year. Test information will be made available to parents during the annual fall conferences which are scheduled for the 10th and 11th of November.

Areas which are assessed in the Iowa basics include vocabulary, reading, language arts, work study and mathematics. Parents who have questions or concerns about these tests are invited to contact the Franklin guidance office. The phone number is 681-2700, ext. 255.

Disaster Relief Still Possible For Flood Loss

Wes Lane, state director of emergency services urged persons who suffered hardship because of flood losses in Pennington county between June 28th and July 21st and previously not eligible for disaster assistance, to contact Burton Kuernevig, county social services center, before September 17.

September 17th has been set as the last day for filing for cash grants under Section 408 of the disaster relief act of 1974, according to Lane. Section 408 concerns individual and family requests for cash grants to offset disaster related need among persons not eligible for other disaster assistance under the act.

Applications filed after September 17th will be subject to review by Mr. Kuernevig's Office to determine whether late filing has been due to extenuating circumstances. Eligible applications can then be accepted for further review by Kuernevig and a board comprised of State and county officials.

FIRST PLACE team honors in the Marksman's class were won by the Thief River Falls police department pistol team at the Midwest police combat championships held recently at the new Moorhead combat range. The championships were sponsored cooperatively by the Moorhead and Fargo police departments. Team members were, left to right, Officer James Haugen, Officer Larry Hansen, Officer David Scramstad and Sgt. Irving Swanson. Law enforcement representatives from Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada took part in the shoot. Mrs. James (Penny) Haugen placed first in her class in the powderpuff competition held for officers' wives.

CENSUS INTERVIEWS are currently being conducted in Pennington county by 29 local enumerators. John Rundle, jobs director, said the interviewers will be contacting county residents door-to-door through Wednesday. The census takers will be identifiable by the red, white and blue badges they are wearing. Three basic questions will be asked: Name of each person residing at a home; relationship to the head of the household; and the months and years of birth. If residents are not at home when the interviewers visit, they will be contacted later by telephone. When the census began Thursday, the interviewers went into the field, then returned to the city auditorium to allow a crew leader to check their grasp of the interviewing procedure. In the above picture, crew leader June A. Prestegaard (right), goes over a few points with Phyllis Koropatnicki, who is conducting interviews in Highlanding township. Myrna L. Giauque is also serving as a crew leader.

Marshall FmHA Has Record Year

Farmers Home administration office located in Warren and serving Marshall county had a record year in loan making for fiscal year 1975, according to Gregory L. Nelson, county supervisor.

Rural families and rural communities located in Marshall county received credit assistance from the FmHA in the following areas:

In the Farmers Home administration rural housing loan program, a total of $470,000 was loaned out to 26 individual families to help them secure a home in which to live. Eleven new homes were built in Marshall county and 15 families were able to purchase an existing home through the FmHA rural housing loan program.

Sixteen farmers received FmHA assistance to purchase a farm or improve their existing operations. A total of $382,400 was loaned by the FmHA and $208,900 in participation credit was provided through other credit agencies to assist in providing the needed credit to help these farmers expand or improve their operations.

In the operating loan program to farmers, a total of $901,500 was provided to assist Marshall county farmers in conducting their operation. Operating loans are made to purchase livestock and machinery, refinance debts relating to operating type credit and to assist farmers in the purchase of farm operating supplies such as seed, fertilizer and fuel. Fifty-eight farmers in Marshall county received operating loan credit from the Farmers Home administration in fiscal year 1975.

Marshall county was designated as a disaster county because of 1974 spring flooding and 81 farmers applied for a received assistance from the Farmers Home administration. Total amount loaned was $969,250.

In addition to this credit provided to families in Marshall county, loans were also approved to several communities in Marshall county. The city of Grygla received a $230,000 loan and a $180,000 grant to provide city water and sewer to the residents of Grygla. The city of

Standardized tests will again be used at Franklin middle school to aid students, teachers and parents. One achievement indicator, the Iowa tests of basic skills, will be administered Tuesday through Friday to all students in grades 6-8, according to James Fremstad and Pamela Carlson, counselors.

The Iowa basics assist teachers by documenting student strengths and weaknesses. This enhances educational planning by identifying individual and group needs. Teachers may then construct lesson plans and remedial or enrichment programs for an individual based on his readiness for the information.

Through the use of these tests parents are encouraged to consider such factors as past achievement when setting expectations for their children's performance in the current year. Test information will be made available to parents during the annual fall conferences which are scheduled for the 10th and 11th of November.

Areas which are assessed in the Iowa basics include vocabulary, reading, language arts, work study and mathematics. Parents who have questions or concerns about these tests are invited to contact the Franklin guidance office. The phone number is 681-2700, ext. 255.

Disaster Relief Still Possible For Flood Loss

Wes Lane, state director of emergency services urged persons who suffered hardship because of flood losses in Pennington county between June 28th and July 21st and previously not eligible for disaster assistance, to contact Burton Kuernevig, county social services center, before September 17.

September 17th has been set as the last day for filing for cash grants under Section 408 of the disaster relief act of 1974, according to Lane. Section 408 concerns individual and family requests for cash grants to offset disaster related need among persons—not eligible for other disaster assistance under the act.

Applications filed after September 17th will be subject to review by Mr. Kuernevig's Office to determine whether late filing has been due to extenuating circumstances. Eligible applications can then be accepted for further review by Kuernevig and a board comprised of State and county officials.

Council To Act On Liquor Store Bids

Action to award the highest bid for the purchase of the Thief River Falls on-sale municipal liquor facility is expected Tuesday night during the regular meeting of the city council.

When bids were opened at 2:30 p.m. last Tuesday, an offer of $85,500 from partners Marvin Neelan and Charles Blazek of Thief River Falls was the highest of three bids received. Bids of $80,000 each were received from Myrle Carlson and Duane Walton, both of Thief River Falls.

Prior to the bidding, the council liquor committee had set a minimum price of $60,000 for the outright sale of the building, located at 307 Main avenue north.

Furniture, fixtures and equipment are included in the property to be sold. All merchandise for resale (inventory) and cash registers are not included. The city will retain municipal off-sale liquor at the facilities located along highway 59.

A deposit of $1,000 accompanied each bid, with an additional $4,000 due to the city within five days after notification of acceptance of bid. Possession of the property will be granted on or about January 15.

If Neelan and Blazek's bid is awarded by the council, they will proceed with the steps necessary to obtain a private on-sale liquor license from the city. The two men presented sketches for their proposed on-sale establishment at a council meeting several months ago.

They have already submitted $50 to the city for an investigation fee and $900 to pay one quarter of the $3,600 license fee, the one quarter payment must accompany all license applications.

Other steps to be taken before a license can be granted include: A bond must be filed with corporate surety and a liability insurance policy, or, instead of a bond a deposit of $5,000 in government bonds with the city clerk; the chief of police must submit a written recommendation to the council; the building inspector must issue a certificate of occupancy; and a notice of application must be published in the Times 10 days prior to approval.

At a public hearing June 3, the council liquor committee offered many reasons why the city was disposing of its on-sale facility, including: Low profit contribution; high expenses which

Debra Kay Jesme Marries Glen Fugleberg At Gatzke

Mr. and Mrs. Glen A. Fugleberg are at home in this city following an exchange of marriage vows at the United Lutheran church in Gatzke and a wedding trip to the Montana border.

The bride, the former Debra Kay Jesme, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jesme of Middle River. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Fugleberg of Greenbush.

Rev. Robert Amundson officiated at the three o'clock ceremony. At the organ was Miss Melanie Lunsetter of Gatzke, a friend of the bride. She presented a program of appropriate selections as the guests were ushered in by Terry Jesme, brother of the bride, Mark Lindahl of this city and Warren Trangsrud of Moorhead, friends of the groom. For the processional, Miss Lunsetter played "Ode to Joy," and "The Bridal March." The recessional was "The Wedding March." Mrs. Howard Lunsetter of Gatzke sang "We've Only Just Begun," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Acolytes were Myron Jesme, brother of the bride, and Barry Skoglund of Middle Rover, a cousin of the bride. The wedding programs were distributed by the bride's cousins, Kim Skoglund and Kristi Newton.

Creating a setting for the wedding party were candelabra in the chancel and arrangements of ferns and pink and white carnations on the altar.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a bridal gown of Mica Mist with a Venice lace bodice featuring a V-neckline and full bishop sleeves with lace cuffs and short over-sleeves. The skirt was fashioned with a pick-up front and an attached chapel train. Her coordinating headpiece held her bouffant veil, edged with Venice lace. She carried an arrangement of pink sweetheart roses, white miniature carnations, sprengeri and babies' breath.

The bride's personal attendant was Mrs. Gail Kruta of Holt, a friend.

Maid of honor was Miss Diann Jesme, sister of the bride. She wore a floor-length gown of lavender floral sheer over lavender, styled with a scalloped neckline and short sleeves. To compliment her gown, she wore a lavender wide-brimmed hat and carried a large white mum accented by a white lace doily with lavender netting and a lavender azalea streamer.

Wearing similar attire, only in pink, were the other attendants: Sandy Stauffenecker, sister of the groom; Connie Graff, aunt of the bride; Beverly Nelson and Jean Scramstad, friends of the bride. Their necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Serving as flower girl was Andrea Graff, cousin and godchild of the bride. Her gown, fashioned of the same lavender floral fabric, was in pinafore style. She wore babies' breath and purple ribbon streamers in her hair; and she carried a wicker basket of white pompons with lavender tufts and purple streamers.

Jimmy Fugleberg attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were John Stauffenecker, brother-in-law of the groom; Les Trangsrud, a friend; Keith Jesme, brother of the bride; and Dale Johnson, another friend of the groom. Ringbearer was Jeffrey Stauffenecker, a nephew of the groom. All the men of the wedding party wore light gray tuxedos with boutonnieres fashioned of pink roses. To complete their attire, the groom, best man and ring bearer wore lavender ruffled shirts, while the other attendants; acolytes and the fathers had pink shirts.

The mother of the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of mint green crepe with a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations. A similar corsage was worn by the groom's mother who wore a peach colored floor-length gown.

Honor guests at the wedding were Mrs. Fanny Fugleberg of Minneapolis, grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Aune of Gatzke and Mrs. Alice Jesme of Middle River, grandparents of the bride; and John Aune of Thief River Falls, great-grandfather of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors for approximately 400 relatives and friends. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Aune of Thief River Falls, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Reese of Morris, uncle and aunt of the bride. Todd Jesme and Kim Aune, cousins of the bride, distributed the groom's cake. Punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Aune of Gatzke, uncle and aunt of the bride.

The three-tiered wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Beverly Lambert of Milwaukee, Wis., and Mrs. Helen Porter of Karlstad, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively. Surrounding the base were four single cakes on trivets, all decorated like the main cake with pink roses and lilies of the valley. Each was topped with a ceramic figurine, corresponding with the larger figurine that held two golden rings. Green foliage surrounded all the cakes.

Pouring coffee were Mrs. Francis Cwikla of Middle River, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Marian Everson of Greenbush, godmother of the groom.

Jeff Newton, Scott Aune and Robby and Kevin Woltas, relatives of the couple, were gift bearers. Waitresses at the head table were Sharon Aune, Lorri Cwikla and Jill Peterson. Other waitresses were Carol Aune, Marlene Carlson, Diane Hanson, Joni Biskup and Lila Jesme. April Ryba and Susan Williamson were in charge of pinning flowers.

For her going away attire, the bride wore a rust two-piece pant suit.

The bride is a graduate of Middle River high school and is employed in this city as a secretary at Arctic Enterprises, Inc. The groom, a graduate of Greenbush high school, is manager of the Oklee Midland Co-op. Photo, Neal Fox Studio.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Since the last article, numerous telephone calls have been received regarding care of the elderly in this area. Especially numerous were the calls from people who claim that their loved ones aren't getting the type of tender loving care mentioned in the article.

One man stated very bluntly, that although his mother was senile and wasn't aware of her condition, the people were very lax in caring for her bathroom needs. Another stated that he often found 'The help' watching television or just visiting between each other for long periods of time—for as long as 45 minutes—before checking on their patients. One woman told of her mother-in-law falling in the bathroom while unattended; while several told of people falling out of bed or wandering away from their place of residence. A few stated that the evening meals were too skimpy; and others stated that the meals were too starchy, with macaroni served in some form or another every day.

Some dwelt on the hygienic conditions of the elderly, their rooms and their bathrooms. In one instance, it was reported that the men and women shared the same bathroom facilities. A number stated that they didn't approve of people with their full mental capacities sharing rooms with those who were senile. Some wanted to know where TLC (tender loving care) was actually practiced as they 'personally' had heard old folks scream from the rough treatment received as they were moved from wheel chairs to their beds.

Legitimate as the complaints may be, the only way these treatments can be corrected is by contacting the administrator of the head of the home where the loved ones are residing. In many instances, they are not aware of the problems especially regarding neglect by the help. To be sure, it is the administrator's over-all responsibility, but in a home or institution with a large number of senior citizens, it is impossible for them to be aware of the fact that Grandma or Grandpa has developed sores, due to poor hygienic care, or that the girls are watching television instead of their patients.

However, one must realize that regardless of how well staffed an institution or home may be, it is impossible to prevent accidents or falls. To prove that point, may I relate an incident that occured several years ago when the family gathered to celebrate Tiny Grandma's 80th birthday. We were seated around a large dining room table. I was next to Grandma and her daughter was on the other side. Momentarily our conversation was interrupted by a toddler that came into the room. In those few seconds, Grandma had a stroke and fell. With about 15 people in the room, no one saw her fall. The situation would not have been any different had there been 15 doctors and nurses in the room.

All telephone calls regarding the article were greatly appreciated. They showed that people are concerned about the care that their loved ones receive. With everyone working together to correct existing conditions, life can be made more pleasant for our senior citizens. It is our duty to see that they receive the best care available.

Debra Schuster, Mark Foss Marriage Vows Exchanged

Marriage vows of Miss Debra Schuster and Mark Foss were solemnized at an eleven o'clock ceremony at St. Thomas Catholic church in International Falls.

Rev. James Relihan, OMI, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with baskets of blue and white flowers accented with blue bows. Organist was Mrs. Harold Tibbs.

The bride and groom were escorted to the altar and given in marriage by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schuster of International Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foss of Grygla.

For her wedding, the bride selected a floor-length gown of polyester organza with white duco dots. Bands of lace trimmed the stand-up collar, fitted bodice, raised waistline, long sleeves, deep cuffs and wide flounce that encircled the skirt. Sprays of corresponding floral Venice lace were appliqued across the bodice and on the sleeves. Flowing over her gown was a lace edged chapel-length mantilla of nylon tulle, held by a Camelot headpiece of embroidered Venice lace. She carried a bouquet of daisies, white rose buds tinted light blue, babies' breath and ivy.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. James Dahl. She wore a light blue polyester organza gown with white dots and pastel colored daisies. The gown, fashioned in empire sihlouette, featured a V-neckline, flowing cape sleeves and a floor-length skirt with a deep ruffled flounce. Her headpiece was a white picture hat trimmed with white embroidered daisies and light blue ribbons. She carried a single light blue carnation with greens and long ribbon streamers.

Best man was Allan Schuster of Spencer, Iowa, brother of the bride. The groom and his attendant wore tuxedos and ruffled shirts in white and light blue, respectively.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schuster selected a sleeveless light blue polyester gown topped by a lace floral print jacket. Her corsage was of blue tinted daisies and greens. Mrs. Foss wore a corsage of white daisies and greens on her gown of white polyester, printed with brown duco dots.

Host and hostess at the church and at the reception that followed at the Holiday Inn were Mr. and Mrs. John Buettner. Punch was served at the poolside by Kris Reistad and Mrs. Allan Schuster. Jacqueline Buettner was in charge of the guest book.

For the luncheon reception, served in the Great River room, the tables were graced with light blue tapers and milk glass vases filled with blue and white daisies.

Mrs. Ron Foss and Mrs. Allan Schuster cut and served the colonial-styled wedding cake. Mary Jane Johnson and Theresa Petman presided at the gift table.

Special guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Schuster and Mr. and Mrs. David Ebert, all of Grafton, N.D.

Following a wedding trip to points of interest along the south shore of Lake Superior and the west shore of Lake Michigan, the couple is now residing at 618 North Country Street in Waukegan, Ill.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of International Falls high school. She attended Rainy River Community college and in 1974, received her nursing assistant certification from Hibbing Technical Institute. The groom is a 1973 graduate of Marshall county central high school in Newfolden. He is presently stationed with the U.S. Navy at Great Lakes, Ill., where he is attending "C" school.

Ideals, Illusions Studied At August WCTU Meeting

"Ideals or Illusions," based on I Timothy 2:1-16, was the theme of the August meeting of the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance union held at the Martin Mosbeck home.

Mrs. Olga Larson was in charge of the devotional meditation. She stated that self-discipline is essential to happy and abundant living. Each person has an individual personality and God has a purpose for each life. Whether or not that person fulfills that purpose, is a personal decision, which no one else can make. She urged everyone to offer petitions, prayers, intercessions and thanksgiving on behalf of all men. She concluded by saying that since no one is an island unto in himself, every one needs help and encouragement.

Mrs. Larson also encouraged diligent Bible study in order to distinguish right from wrong, and avoidance of false doctrines.

During the program, several articles were read. Mrs. Earl Ripley read the article, "Drinking cause of pedestrian traffic deaths, published in the Thief River Falls Times. It was noted, according to the Minnesota department of safety, that of the 106 pedestrians killed in Minnesota in 1974, 46 were tested for blood alcohol content and that 28 of those tested had alcohol in their systems. Of these, 25 were at an intoxication level with 46 per cent in the 16-29 age group and 29 per cent in the 60 years of age or older.

Mrs. Olga Larson read "Drinking Teenagers Heading for Tragedy," an article from the National Good Templar, brought by Mrs. Mons Engelstad. That article contained quotations from a number of teachers and counselors, stating that alcoholism among teenagers was increasing at an alarming rate. Like adults, teenagers must be made to realize the problems caused by drinking. Counselors state that with alcohol so much a part of everyday life and with society's acceptance of alcoholic drinks, the picture looks bleak for the teenager. Several were of the opinion that alcoholism isn't a disease. Rather, they believed that it was a symptom of some social or emotional problem.

Quotations by Shakespeare, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison and General Persing, in the article, "Alcohol, Enemy of Civilization," were read by Mrs. Edwin Hanson.

The meeting concluded with members signing birthday cards for Miss Minnie Lausness and Earle Ripley and an anniversary card for Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mosbeck, who were observing their 50th anniversary

FmHa Begins New Livestock Credit Changes

Changes in the special Livestock Emergency Credit Program are now in effect in Minnesota, according to Loren D. Luschen, Pennington county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, FmHA.

The program, originated under the emergency livestock credit act of 1974, will continue to be administered through county offices of FmHA, the U.S. department of agriculture rural credit agency.

Under the program, FmHA guarantees loans made by banks and other commercial lenders to help farmers and ranchers continue in various lines of livestock production through a period of adverse economic conditions.

The bill (public law 94-35) signed June 16 by President Ford amended terms of the program established last year and extended its duration through Dec. 31, 1976.

Major changes in the program are:

-- Farmers and ranchers assisted by loan guarantees must be primarily engaged in agricultural production, and livestock operations must account for a substantial portion (at least 25 per cent) of their gross income, working time or investment. Previously FmHA required that more than 50 per cent of gross income or time be devoted to livestock operation.

-- The limit on any one borrower's guaranteed credit is raised to a $350,000.

-- Time of credit from the previous loan limit of $250,000.

-- The maximum guarantee to a lender is raised to 90 per cent of principal and interest from a previous guarantee limit of 80 per cent of loss.

-- Maximum term of a loan was raised to seven years, with a three year renewal permitted. Under the previous terms, loans could be made for three years, with a two year renewal permitted.

-- Under certain conditions, satisfactory evidence of a borrower's repayment ability can be accepted by lenders in lieu of collateral for a guaranteed loan.

-- The national ceiling on total guaranteed loans outstanding at any one time is reduced from $2 billion to $1.5 billion. (Loans graranteed by FmHA through Mid-June totaled about $325 million.)

The amended livestock emergency credit act continues the previous guarantee authority for loans to farmers and ranchers in connection with the breeding, raising, fattening or marketing of beef or dairy cattle, swine, sheep, goats, chickens, and turkeys. Interest rates are negotiated between borrowers and lenders.

Farmers and ranchers who may benefit from loan guarantees should apply to banks or other lending institutions. When details of a loan are negotiated, the lender may apply to FmHA for a loan guarantee.

Benefits of FmHA programs are available without regard to race, creed, color, sex or national origin.

Luschen said further information about the program can be obtained from the Thief River Falls FmHA office.

HHH Speculates On End Of Oil Price Controls

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey recently urged the President to reconsider his decision to veto legislation extending petroleum price and allocation controls for six months.

Humphrey, chairman of the joint ecomonic committee, warned that the removal of controls "is likely to turn the nation's economic recovery into an energy recession.

"If these controls are allowed to expire along with the oil tariff," he said in a statement issued from his Minneapolis office, "the average price of crude oil will rise immediately from $10.50 per barrel to $11.50 per barrel.

"By itself, that is a modest rise which will increase gas prices two to three cents per gallon. But that is far from the whole story.

"Decontrol will enable OPEC, for the first time, to dictate completely the price of oil to every consumer in America. And OPEC has promised to raise prices on October 1. If OPEC raises prices by $1.50 per barrel, our average crude oil price will be $13," he said.

"A price increase of this magnitude will cost consumers about $15 billion in higher oil and gasoline bills over the next year. And associated ripple effects on coal, irtrastate natural gas and petroleum-associated products will raise the total impact to over $20 billion, or $100 for every man, woman and child in America.

"Gasoline prices will rise from 6 to 7 cents per gallon. And the consumer price index will rise from 14 to 2 per cent faster over the next year than without decontrol. Real economic growth will rise 1 per cent less than otherwise and from 200,000 to 300,000 jobs will be lost over the next year. An energy tax rebate would ameliorate the impact on employment if accompanied by a slightly expansionary monetary policy.

"Oil procucers will receive a windfall of some $18 billion in higher revenues on domestic oil and natural gas liquids due to decontrol and the $1.50 per barrel OPEC price rise. The average price of domestically produced crude oil will rise to $13 per barrel from about $8.50 today. A portion of that windfall may be captured with an excess profits tax, but most will fall through as profits and as royalty payments in the guise of oil production expenses."

TRF Minister Completes ETL Iowa Workshop

Rev. Paul Biegner of Thief River Falls was among 34 pastors and laymen from Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Missouri and Nebraska to recently complete an effectiveness training for Lutherans (ETL) workshop at Wartburg college, Waverly, Ia.

ETL is a course in the technique of active listening, designed to help people find greater fulfillment through improved communication.

An adaptation of another program called parent effectiveness training, ETL covers four basic elements in learning how to listen: Identifying the problem and determining who has it; listening for feelings and to feelings; the use of "I" messages; and the resolution of conflict.

Those who completed the workshop at Wartburg are now qualified to serve as instructors for parents in their home congregations, according to a college spokesman.

4-H'ers Star In Home Management Roles

The spotlight this year is on 114,000 girls and boys 9-19 in the national 4-H home management program sponsored by Tupperware Home Parties. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H'ers learn by doing to set realistic goals, put their plans into action and evaluate the results—all steps to starring roles in the management scenario.

CHICAGO—"Americans tend to think of money as their only valuable resource," says Carolyn Gaddis, family resource management specialist with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

"However," she says, "It's important to look closely at another resource that we seem to have less and less of as we become busier and busier. That resource is time."

Use resources to advantage

Time, money, energy, skills, material things, brain power: all are valuable resources. Learning to mobilize them to reach specific personal and household goals are 114,000 girls and boys from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H home management program.

4-H'ers will be aided this year by "Spotlight on Management," a new 32-page member manual in "lights, camera, action" format. The manual was developed jointly by the Cooperative Extension Service, the National 4-H Service Committee, and Tupperware Home Parties. It focuses on the four steps to effective management: setting a goal, planning how to reach it, acting to put the plan in motion, and checking up on the results.

Learning by doing

4-H members learn that decision making is what management is all about. They might tackle family food bills and come up with cost-cutting techniques. Or organize personal work schedules that set realistic goals and conserve time and energy.

Whatever projects they choose, 4-H'ers can earn awards donated by Tupperware Home Parties and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee. Eight outstanding 4-H'ers are awarded national college scholarships of $1,000. One top program member from each state receives an expense-paid trip to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago. And four members per county are eligible for medals of honor.

All winners are selected on the basis of their records of accomplishment by the Extension Service, which conducts the 4-H program. Additional information is available from county extension agents.
